CORRUPT PROMISES NOW LAID TO SULZER

Dr. Broder Says by Pre-Election Deal He Was to be State Health Commissioner.

WORKED AND SPENT MONEY

Assembly Managers Think They Can Impeach the Deposed Governor on This Under Corrupt Practices Act.

Direct testimony that William Sulzer made promises of "favor and reward" during the campaign that preceded his election last Fall was made public yesterday by the Assembly Board of Impeachment Managers, which will prosecute Mr. Sulzer at his trial on Thursday. The Board of Managers considered that the revelations would have an important bearing upon the trial, as they would tend to show a violation of the Corrupt Practices act, and in themselves give grounds for impeachment.

The testimony was given to the board last Saturday by Dr. Julius Broder of 103 East Sixteenth Street, organizer of the Jewish Citizens' Sulzer League, but there was a difference of opinion as to the advisability of making it public at this time. Some of the board's counsel were of the opinion that the evidence should be left to the trial, but they were overruled.

Dr. Broder testified that in return for organizing the Jewish Citizens' League and making an active campaign on the east side, Mr. Sulzer promised, if he were elected, to appoint him Commissioner of Health of the State of New York. Dr. Broder said Mr. Sulzer did not keep his promise, and when he went to Albany to speak to Mr. Sulzer about it, Mr. Sulzer told him that he had already appointed him on the Milk Commission.

Dr. Broder said he was appointed by Mr. Sulzer a delegate for the State to a milk congress that was to recommend legislation for a pure supply of milk. When he protested that he did not want such an appointment, Dr. Broder said Mr. Sulzer told him that a bill would be introduced in the Legislature creating a milk commission and that he would appoint Dr. Broder a Commissioner. Dr. Broder said he reluctantly agreed to accept the appointment, but that the Legislature never created the Commission.

Dr. Broder said that he had known Mr. Sulzer six or seven years and that even before his nomination Mr. Sulzer had sent for him and asked for his help. He said he helped materially to bring about Mr. Sulzer's nomination by sending circulars among the delegates to the convention and in forming what was known as the Sulzer Nominators.

After the nomination Dr. Broder said Mr. Sulzer sent for him at his office at 115 Broadway and complimented him upon the effective work he had done. He said Mr. Sulzer suggested the organization of the Jewish Citizens' Sulzer League. Dr. Broder said he contributed to the campaign. He obtained contributions from a number of persons, among them Samuel Friedman of 344 Broadway and then he made this disclosure:

Sulzer's Promise.

"I saw Mr. Sulzer on a number of occasions, and he kept in close touch with me and with the progress of the movement. It was at one of these interviews that Mr. Sulzer said to me that he appreciated very much the work that I was doing, that he thought it was very effective, and that as a reward for such work, in case he should be elected, he would appoint me Commissioner of Health of the State of New York. The interview at which Mr. Sulzer made this promise to me was the occasion when I went to his office and told him that the work that I was doing for him was very expensive. He said that he did not expect me to make a direct contribution to his campaign fund, but that I should continue the work that I was doing for him and spend my money in that way, and as a reward he would, as aforesaid, appoint me to the position of State Health Commissioner, should he be elected."

Relying upon this promise, Dr. Broder said he continued to interest himself in the Sulzer League, practically devoted most of his time to it and spent about $300 or $400 of his own money besides getting contributions from others, all of which aggregated about $1,000. After the election Dr. Broder said he went to Washington and congratulated Mr. Sulzer and reminded him of his promise to appoint him Health Commissioner. He said he told Mr. Sulzer that a Dr. Myer Wolff had announced his candidacy and that he wanted to make sure that Mr. Sulzer would live up to his promise.

"Mr. Sulzer told me," he went on, "that I need not worry about Dr. Wolff's candidacy; that he would certainly live up to his promise to me, and that just as soon as he should be inaugurated in office as Governor he would appoint me Commissioner of Health for the State of New York.

"During the interval between my visit to Mr. Sulzer in Washington and my visit in New York, Dr. Wolff's candidacy had assumed very alarming proportions for me. A number of influential people were assisting him, among others Sheriff Harburger, Controller Sohmer, and Prison Commissioner Weinstock, all of whom came from or resided in the Governor's home community and knew the Governor infinitely well. Therefore, when I went to see Mr. Sulzer at his office I told him of Dr. Wolff's activities and of the people who it was said were behind his candidacy. He told me then that he did not take Dr. Wolff's candidacy very seriously for a number of reasons, and among them that Dr. Wolff was a graduate of an eclectic medical school, and that it would not do for him to appoint a graduate of a non-recognized medical institution to as high a position as Commissioner of Health for the State. Mr. Sulzer, however, told me at the same interview that he was afraid Dr. Wolff's candidacy might interfere with his giving me the appointment, because both Wolff and I were residents of the same district, and if he appointed either of us the other would be offended, and those who were backing the other would likewise be offended. But he also said that he would endeavor to find some other position to which he would appoint Wolff, and that, with Wolff out of the way, he would surely appoint me to the Commissionership as promised.

When after a few days Dr. Broder went to see Mr. Sulzer at his office, he said, Mr. Sulzer told him that he had made up his mind and had arranged to appoint Dr. Wolff one of the State Civil Service Commissioners.

Only a Milk Delegate.

This is the letter Mr. Sulzer sent to Dr. Broder appointing him a delegate to a milk congress:

State of New York, Executive Chamber,
Albany, Jan. 21, 1913.
Dr. Julius Broder, 103 East Sixteenth Street, New York City.

Dear Sir: In to-morrow's mail you will receive a designation, which it was a pleasure for me to sign, to act as one of the State's three representatives at the highly important conference which is shortly to be held in New York City by the representatives of several States with the common object of taking measures to improve the milk supply of that great city.

I am confident you will most efficiently accomplish this responsible task of drafting

HEAR OF KLINE SHAKE-UP.

Waldo to Go, One Report—Mayor Looking Into All Departments.

There was a rumor about the City Hall yesterday that Mayor Kline contemplated making several changes among the heads of departments. It was said that the Mayor would shortly request the resignation of Police Commissioner Waldo. When asked about it the Mayor replied that he was looking into every department in the city.

"Are you considering making any changes in the Police Department?" the Mayor was asked

"I have taken all departments under consideration," he replied.

"Are you looking particularly into the Police Department?" the interviewer persisted.

"No, not yet," replied the Mayor, as he jumped into his automobile.

The Mayor saw many political visitors at the Hall yesterday, among them being both Republicans and Democrats. Not in years, though, have so many Republicans been about the corridors. Samuel S. Koenig, Chairman of the Republican County Committee, and ex-Congressman William S. Bennet were among the callers. They said their visit was merely a personal one. Late in the afternoon Herman A. Metz, former Controller and a candidate for the same office on the Tammany ticket, met the Mayor just outside the Mayor's office, and the two walked down the corridor the Mayor with his arm about Mr. Metz's shoulder.

The Mayor received a protest yesterday in the form of a petition from a number of Brooklyn citizens against the removal of the Brooklyn Police Headquarters from the present building on State Street to the building selected by Commissioner Waldo in Poplar Street. The Mayor promised to take the matter under consideration.

FIREMEN STRIKE AT FIRE.

Chief Hits One and Department Quits—Rival Chiefs.

BURLINGTON, N. J., Sept. 15.—As the result of a fight between Chief Robert Barckley of the local Fire Department and one of his company today while the department was engaged in fighting a blaze, all of the firemen with the exception of four or five promptly went on strike and refused to obey further orders. The Chief with his few faithful adherents went manfully ahead and extinguished the flames.

The dissension was due to politics. Eli Lawrence, Jr., who was the former Chief, was recently deposed by the City Council, and Barckley was named as his successor. Lawrence refused to surrender his badge of office or the keys of the department to Barckley, and in this refusal he had the support of most of the members of the department, in which Barckley is not popular.

At to-day's fire Clayton S. Sharp, a hoseman, refused to obey an order from Barckley, but took his commands from Lawrence. Barckley became angry and struck Sharp in the face, knocking him from a ladder. This resulted in the withdrawal of Lawrence and his followers from the fire. Later Sharp caused the arrest of Chief Barckley for assault and he was held under $500 bail for the Grand Jury by Magistrate Smith.

The contention of the Lawrence faction is that the action of the City Council in deposing Chief Lawrence was illegal, and that members of the department, which is a volunteer organization, have the sole right to elect their commander.

BROTHERS RUN FOR MAYOR.

Three Lathams Named for Office in Their Respective Home Towns.

PLAINFIELD, N. J., Sept. 15.—E. B. Latham of Dunellen, N. J.; W. E. Latham of New Britain, Conn., and Melville Latham of Montezuma Island, Iowa, three brothers, are enjoying the distinction of seeking the Mayoralty in their respective homes.

E. B. Latham is the primary candidate on the Republican ticket, without opposition, while his brothers have been nominated by the Republicans in their home towns. The Dunellen Latham is the head of an electric supply house in New York, W. E. Latham is engaged in the real estate business, while the third brother is in the poultry business.

MAYOR LUNN BEFORE COURT

Justice Van Kirk Reserves Decision test Daughter's Bequests.

SCHENECTADY, N. Y., Sept. 15.—Mayor George R. Lunn was before Supreme Court Justice Charles C. Van Kirk in chambers in this city to-day to show cause why he should not be punished for contempt of court in cutting down a tree while an injunction was in force forbidding the City of Schenectady, its servants, or agents, from destroying it.

Mayor Lunn was ready to make an address to the Court, but was not permitted to do so by Justice Van Kirk, who said that he could submit an affidavit and that it would receive consideration. Justice Van Kirk took briefs in the matter and reserved his decision. The Corporation Counsel, Frank Cooper, asserted that the courts could not interfere except in case of fraud or abuse.

MITCHEL WILL RUSH HIS CAMPAIGN NOW

Nominee Wants More Snap and Ginger and Scolds the Fusion Leaders.

HEDGES MAY TAKE CHARGE

Hapgood and Price Likely to ade Into the Background—Mitchel Meets Republicans.

John Purroy Mitchel, the Fusion candidate for Mayor, returned from the Adirondacks yesterday and took personal charge of his campaign. Mr. Mitchel had not been in the city an hour before he gave every one associated with his campaign clearly to understand that under no circumstances would he withdraw as the Fusion designee and that, beginning on Monday next, his campaign must be carried on with a rush. Out of respect to the memory of Mayor Gaynor Mr. Mitchel called a halt on all activities until after the Mayor's funeral.

It was said yesterday that Mr. Mitchel would resign as Collector of the Port of New York before his campaign progressed much further. There was a report that Mr. Mitchel would resign immediately after the primaries to-day. When he was asked about it he smiled and said:

"I don't know. I haven't got down to that point yet."

Mr. Mitchel's friends, on the other hand, scoffed at the idea of his resigning. They pointed out that, when he was designated by the Fusion committee he said that he saw no reason why he should resign as Collector, and that there had been an understanding between him and President Wilson before he was appointed that if he entered the campaign as a candidate there was no necessity for his giving up his office.

Job E. Hedges, who was the candidate for Governor on the Republican ticket last Fall, may take entire charge of Mr. Mitchel's campaign. Mr. Hedges returned to the city from Europe last night. He will confer with Mr. Mitchel to-day about the matter. Mr. Mitchel and others sent Mr. Hedges cable dispatches recently asking him to take charge of the campaign, and it was said that he replied that he would do so providing his health remained good. If Mr. Hedges should decline, it was said that William Loeb, Jr., former Collector of the Port, will be asked to undertake the work.

Mitchel Is Dissatisfied.

Mr. Mitchel is not at all satisfied with the manner in which his campaign has been conducted by the Fusion forces. It was said that information was conveyed to Norman Hapgood, Chairman of the Fusion Committee, and Joseph M. Price, Chairman of the Executive Committee, that their activities had been harmful to the Fusion cause, and that it would be better if they retreated quietly into the background. It was said that both men saw the point of the argument and that from now on they will not be actively connected with the movement, so far as Mr. Mitchel's campaign is concerned.

Mr. Mitchel put in a busy time yesterday. At noon he had luncheon at the Republican Club in West Fortieth Street with all but eight of the sixty-three district leaders of the city, headed by County Chairman Samuel S. Koenig. It had been arranged some time ago that the Fusion candidate should meet the Republican leaders, but because of the death of Mayor Gaynor the affair was more in the nature of an informal luncheon than a prearranged political conference. Mr. Mitchel made a little speech in which he said:

"I thank you for the honor of meeting you, but I am sure you will all agree that no citizen should be in the mood for politics to-day. Mayor Gaynor is dead. Men of all shades of partisanship stop in the busy rush of affairs to pay him reverence. As far as possible all partisan meetings and conferences, all discussions of his successor, should cease until Mayor Gaynor has been laid to rest with the affectionate sympathy of this community."

The only absentees among the Republican leaders from New York County were Joseph Levenson of the Second District, and James E. March, from the Third. Mr. Levenson fought hard against indorsement of Mr. Mitchel by the Republican organization, and Mr. March has a primary fight on his hands. Chairman Koenig presided, and explained that the luncheon had been arranged before Mayor Gaynor died.

Mitchel Talks With Leaders.

Mr. Mitchel was introduced to all the leaders, many of them had not met him before. In conversation with many of the leaders after the luncheon, Mr. Mitchel said that if elected he would not "play favorites," and that he would conduct his office without regard to politics. While Mr. Mitchel was talking with the Brooklyn committeemen, Chairman Koenig took the New York County members aside and talked to them about the rumors that Tammany was going to try to steal the Progressive primaries. He told them to instruct their workers to be on the watch and see that Tammany did not "slip anything over."

Mr. Mitchel was talking with one of the district leaders whose name he did not catch when he was introduced. The leader told him how strong his district was for Mr. Mitchel and how the Republicans were working hard for him. Mr. Mitchel thanked the leader warmly, and as he walked away he asked some one else the name of the man with whom he had been talking.

"Why, don't you know him?" asked the friend. "That was John J. Lyons."

It was Lyons who started the postal card canvass in the Twenty-third District to show the Republican organization how strong Mayor Gaynor was there.

During the afternoon Mr. Mitchel and Controller William A. Prendergast met at the latter's office for the first time since Mr. Mitchel's designation. On the morning following the designation Mr. Prendergast sailed for Europe. It had been rumored that relations between the two men had been somewhat strained, but after yesterday's meeting it was said that cordiality had been restored and that Mr. Prendergast told the Mayoralty candidate that he was going to work hard for his election. Both men will have another meeting today.

The Republican leaders vehemently insisted yesterday that the death of Mayor Gaynor had wiped away all opposition to Mr. Mitchel in their organization, and that from now on the Republicans would be united in his support. Even those who worked hardest to upset the Fusion ticket agreed that there was nothing left for them to do but to work hard for the whole Fusion ticket from now until election.

An informal reception will be held at the Hotel McAlpin by the Mitchel League this evening when Mr. Mitchel will meet many of the members. The league's headquarters is across the street in the old Union Dime Savings Bank Building. The league, which is making a personal campaign for Mr. Mitchel, has an enrolled membership of more than 16,000, it was said, and has established branch headquarters in the other boroughs.

20 MEN OVERCOME IN $500,000 FIRE

Ware Department Store, Covering a Block, Among Buildings Burned in New Rochelle.

Special to The New York Times.

NEW ROCHELLE, N. Y., Sept. 15.—A fire believed to be of incendiary origin destroyed the large department store of the Howard Ware Corporation, the stables of the James Butler Grocery Company, and part of the Coutant Pharmacy Building in this city to-night, entailing a loss of $500,000. The fire started at 9 o'clock and at midnight, while under control, was still burning fiercely.

The fire originated in the rear of the Ware store and spread rapidly, until the entire building extending from Main Street to Leroy Place was in flames. The flames were shooting through the roof when the firemen arrived. Mr. Ware said the blaze must have been the work of an incendiary or due to defective wiring. He puts his loss at approximately $475,000. He said while the flames were still raging that he would begin plans at once to open another store in this city.

Fire Chief James Ross summoned help from Mount Vernon, and two engines and a crew of twenty volunteer firemen responded. Frank Kildare, a member of Neptune Fire Company, one of the first of the volunteer firemen to arrive, broke in a rear door of the Ware Building and was knocked down by the rush of hot air. Policeman Thomas Kiernan and Adam Kistinger of the Relief Engine Company ran into the burning building and dragged Kildare out unconscious. Kiernan and Kistinger were burned about the faces and hands.

Miss Anna Chase, the cashier who was believed to be in the office of the Ware store just before the fire was discovered, had not been found at midnight, and it was feared she was trapped in the building.

In addition to the Ware store the stable and the grocery store, the flames wrecked the florist shop of W. S. Hitchcock, the store of the Independent Beef Company, and the grocery store of George Ferguson & Co. Many families who lived over these stores were made homeless by the flames.

Twenty firemen were overcome while fighting the fire and they were carried into the Elks' Clubhouse, which was turned into a temporary relief station, both for the families made homeless and the firemen who had been overcome. Ambulances were summoned from the New Rochelle Hospital, and all the available doctors and nurses at the hospital came with them. The doctors gave their attention to firemen, but found none was hurt seriously.

The burned area covered the entire block on Main Street between Centre Avenue and Bank Street. It is practically the same site which the great fire of twenty years ago burned over.

FINDS THIEF IN HER ROOM.

Miss Walmsley of Baltimore Catches a Robber in Paris.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, Sept. 15.—American girls who are visiting Paris have been finding a novel diversion in catching thieves.

A week or so ago a transatlantic girl visitor, after a half-mile chase, captured a thief who had snatched her gold handbag, which she had placed by her side on a seat in the Trocadero Gardens.

Last week a second case of the sort occurred. Miss Walmsley of Baltimore returned to her room in the Hotel Brighton late in the evening, and found a well dressed man there. She jumped at him and grasped his coattails, which remained in her hands, as the man who had been caught in the act of gathering up her money and jewels, leaped over the banisters.

The thief was injured by his fall, but gained the street. Miss Walmsley and some hotel employes ran in pursuit, which soon ended in the capture of the man, who was identified as a German living in the hotel under the aristocratic assumed name of Claud Trevor.

To-day Miss Walmsley went to the Palais de Justice to give evidence. In order to avoid publicity she had given her name to French reporters as Marie Smith. English visitors, however, disclosed her identity.

After she had described her experience to the magistrate the case was adjourned.

ICE CHECKS McMILLAN.

Leaving Ship, Crocker and Explorers Start for Cape Sabine by Sledge.

Special to The New York Times.

ST. JOHN'S, N. F., Sept. 15.—The Erik, Capt. Kehoe, arrived here this morning after landing the McMillan party, organized for the exploration of Crocker Land, reported by Peary on his last trip to the north pole. The first call after leaving St. John's was made at Cape York, where Eskimos and dogs were taken aboard. Then North Star Bay and Nasky Harbor were visited.

An attempt to reach Cape Sabine was frustrated b yhe extremely heavy ice packs in some places reaching 40 feet above the water. Several unsuccessful efforts to reach the contemplated Winter quarters were made, and then McMillan decided to return to Etah Harbor, land stores and supplies, and proceed to Cape Sabine by sledge over the ice. After landing the stores the party started north and were in good spirits, despite the setback.

The Erik received no damage.

LADY WARWICK NOW WRITES FILM PLAYS

Will Use Warwick Castle as a Setting—Plans Historical Dramas.

By Marconi Transatlantic Wireless Telegraph to The New York Times.

LONDON, Sept. 15.—The Countess of Warwick has entered a new field of industry and has joined the rapidly increasing band of composers of moving-picture scenarios. She will write plays for Messrs. Barker & Kisch, and Warwick Castle, with its thousands of acres of deer park, beautiful gardens, and woodland, will be used as a setting for the film dramas.

Lady Warwick admits that she has written her first play in "a highly sensational vein." It is called "The Great Pearl Affair," and is therefore extremely topical. In time, however, she hopes to prove that things of a far higher character can be "filmed." She is convinced that much of modern thought can be demonstrated on the films. Then, too, there is much history that is practically unknown in the Warwick archives. She says:

"I have two incidents now in mind that will form admirable subjects for dramatic treatment. They concern Piers Gaveston and Isabel, one of the daughters of Warwick the King Maker, who married the Duke of Clarence. They will have Warwick Castle as a setting.

"There is much that can be done to raise the picture palace to a splendid position as an educative influence, and I have great hope and high ideals."

HAVEMEYER ESTATE DIVIDED

Four Children, Including Mrs. W. R. Willcox, Get Equal Parts.

The will of William F. Havemeyer, banker and retired sugar manufacturer, who died on Sept. 7, was filed for probate in the Surrogates' Court yesterday. The value of the property was not reported in the accompanying petition. With the exception of a legacy of $5,000 to Lydia V. Magee of Pennington, N. J., the entire estate was bequeathed to the decedent's four children, Hector H., Raymond H., and Arthur Havemeyer and Mrs. Martha J. Willcox, wife of the former Chairman of the Public Service Commission, with whom he made his home.

A legacy of $40,000 to provide an income for life, was made to a brother, James Havemeyer, and his wife, Sarah Cordelia Havemeyer, but as both died before the testator the legacy lapsed and was, by the contingent provisions of the will, divided between the four children. The residuary estate was divided into two equal parts, one of which was distributed outright to the children in equal shares, while the other was held in trust for them, the income to be paid to them during their lives and the principal divided upon their deaths among their heirs, per stirpes.

Mr. Havemeyer named as the executors of the estate his two sons, Hector and Arthur Havemeyer and his son-in-law, William R. Willcox. Practically no restrictions were placed upon them in the management of the estate's affairs, they being permitted to invest all in first mortgages and securities of railroads, gas companies, and municipal organizations which they might deem of a substantial nature. The will was made on Aug. 13, 1907, and contained no estimate of the worth of the estate.

FAINTS AT SIGHT OF PISTOL.

Throng Pursues Man Who Threatens Wife on Harlem Bridge.

The throngs which were crossing to the Bronx on the Third Avenue Bridge over the Harlem River at 6 o'clock last night found a man and woman struggling on the structure. Then they saw the man point a pistol at the woman's head and a moment later saw the woman fall to the floor of the bridge. A hundred men set out in pursuit of the man, who fled when the woman fell.

It was learned later that Mrs. Catherine Garter of 361 East 136th Street had been waiting on the bridge for her husband, Joseph Garter. When she spied him she ran up to him and pressed a paper upon him. It was a summons for him which she had obtained earlier in the day from Magistrate Levy in the Morrisania Court to answer a complaint of disorderly conduct.

Garter wrenched himself free from his wife's hold and then drew the pistol. The sight of the gun caused his wife to faint. Garter was captured by Patrolman Naumann of the Alexander Avenue Station and was charged with attempted felonious assault. He said he lived at 377 East 136th Street.

ACRE FOR A DAY'S PEACE

But When Brown's Wife Got the Farm She Resumed "Nagging."

Special to The New York Times.

LOGANSPORT, Ind., Sept. 15.—Marvin B. Brown, farmer, alleges that he "is living proof that a seventy-five-acre farm, hung on a woman's tongue, an acre at a time, is not sufficient to keep her from 'nagging.'"

In his petition for divorce Brown says that some time ago, when his wife's "nagging" had become unbearable, he proposed that for every day she did not nag him he would give her an acre of land. By this means, he says, he won seventy-five days of peace at the cost of an acre of ground a day, but at the end of that time he had no more land, and his wife resumed her curtain lectures.

Having nothing with which to purchase silence, he resorted to the courts.

SAY WOMEN DON'T MIND UGLY MATES

Scientists Tell Why the Modern Female Is Good-Looking and the Male Ugly.

WHERE SEX SECRET MAY BE

Lodge Says at British Association Meeting That Androgynous Flowers May Solve the Problem.

By Marconi Transatlantic Wireless Telegraph to The New York Times.

BIRMINGHAM, Sept. 15.—Walk into a restaurant or theatre, and one will be struck by the beauty of the women and the ugliness of the men. Why? Because man, from his earliest evolution, has shown a tendency to select the most beautiful females in marriage, while women have been content with ugly mates.

That, at any rate, is the theory put forward to-day by anthropologists at the British Association meeting. They are agreed that in the selection of a partner a woman has few or no aesthetic instincts and no sense of the beautiful.

The discussion began with a paper by Prof. Garvith on "The Differentiation of Man from the Anthropoids."

That man had sprung from the ape was unquestioned, it was declared, and among the reasons for his differentiated evolution one was his original liking for flesh. This led him to abandon the pastime of swinging by his tail for nuts in trees and to lead an open life on the plain, where his early struggles began, bringing in their train increasing intelligence.

Dr. Harry Campbell followed. He also discussed the factors which determined man's evolution from the apes. With reluctance he confessed that the institution of polygamy was the first of these factors. Social relationships, he said, rested on brute force. The greater the homo-simian's muscular strength, the more numerous and more beautiful were his wives.

Man, Dr. Campbell said, had been the finest fighter of all the animals, and evolved through his struggles, first with nature and then with his rivals for the affections of woman.

"Intellectual evolution," Dr. Campbell concluded, "is now at an end, because the factors which caused it are inoperative. We are now evolving on the moral side, and the superman of the future will be a perfect moral type."

The ground was now prepared for a discussion of aesthetic qualities. Dr. Robinson explained that man's articulate speech was due to the formation of his chin. The more pleasing appearance of his chin as compared with that of the anthropoid was due to the innate sense of the beautiful in woman, the female therefore played an important part in the differentiation of her spouse from the ape.

"But we know that the anthropoid and the early man were bearded," a professor interposed.

Other professors remarked that in those days the majority of women were also bearded, but these were not in favor among men, and this led to the survival of beauty in woman and to the ugliness of men.

Mr. Burt, discussing the differences between the sexes, said men excelled physically by a huge proportion, but he could find no difference of intellect, or even of character and instinct, to compare with this physical difference. On what were called the "lower levels" of mind women surpassed men by a huge margin. They especially excelled in what Mr. Burt called discrimination, detecting differences through touch or other senses. They were just about twice as acute as men in this. They excelled again in almost all sensatory tests excepting lifting and judging weights.

Dr. Dawson Turner, describing some remarkable properties of radium, said it had such an effect on the embryonic and generative cells that a German had produced in the case of frogs monstrous products which he called "radium larvae."

Dr. W. S. Bruce, in the Geographical Section, urged that Great Britain immediately annex Spitzbergen, in order to protect the claims of British subjects there. He said that the valuable discovery of coal in 1609 had not been followed up for 300 years, but now Americans and British had seriously begun mining. Spitzbergen was rich in other minerals, but the American company was most active so far as coal was concerned.

Despite its small commercial interests, the Norwegian Government, said Dr. Bruce, had made ardent attempts to appropriate Spitzbergen in the last four or five years, and had financed surveying expeditions, which claimed land in the most unscrupulous manner, regardless of existing claims.

BIRMINGHAM, Sept. 15.—The secret of the determination of sex may possibly be found in plant life, Sir Oliver Lodge told the British Association at its meeting this afternoon.

Referring to the fact that some plants produce both male and female flowers, Sir Oliver said this must be the result of some profound change in the sap at the junction of the stems where differently sexed flowers branched away from each other. He continues:

"I do not know what this is, and the microscope tells me nothing. Perhaps, if physiologists could find out what happens in that little plant-joint they might get a clue to the reason why some human beings are born boys and others girls."

Most of the day was devoted to a discussion on the cost of living. Two women, Mrs. Frances Wood of the Lister Institute and Miss Mathison of the Birmingham Social Settlement, carried off the honors for research into the family budget of the poor. They reached the conclusion that the cost of living for the poor had increased 6 per cent. in the last decade.

Miss Mathison showed by statistics that workmen's wages in Birmingham ranged from 18 to 25 shillings ($4.32 to $6) per week. The majority have meat only for Sunday dinners, except occasionally a few pieces in stews.

Prof. Leonard E. Hill of the London Hospital spoke on foodstuffs. He asserted that many of the people of Great Britain were semi-starved through mistaken forms of diet. He explained the value of the recently discovered "vitamines," the absence of which from white bread, he said, made it less nourishing than black or wholemeal bread, in which they were present.

NEW AEROPLANE RECORD.

Guillaux Travels 118 Miles in 50 Minutes with a Passenger.

PARIS, Sept. 15.—A remarkable flight, establishing a new cross-country record, was made to-day by the French aviator, Ernest Guillaux. With a passenger he covered 118 miles from his home at Savigny-sur-Braye to Paris in fifty minutes. This was at the rate of nearly 142 miles an hour.

Guillaux recently established the single-day record of 859¾ miles.

HIS EXPERIMENT KILLS WIFE

Husband Finds Mrs. Gottschalk Dead in Ruins of His Laboratory.

Special to The New York Times.

WOODBRIDGE, N. J., Sept. 15.—The interest taken by Mrs. Gottschalk, wife of Dr. Louis Gottschalk of this place, in the progress of experiments her husband had been making was responsible for her death this morning. Mrs. Gottschalk finished her breakfast before the doctor and went to his laboratory in the yard of their place. In a few minutes, as Dr. Gottschalk stepped from the door of his home, an explosion wrecked the laboratory and he found his wife dead in the ruins.

The physician had been trying to make artificial rubber. He had tanks filled with gases and fluids under compression. Early in the morning the doctor and his wife applied heat to increase the pressure, and departed from the laboratory to eat breakfast, intending to proceed with the experiments after the meal. The tanks had all been tested last week and were believed to be equal to the tax put upon them.

EXPLOSION KILLS TWO.

Third Man Will Die of Burns at W. A. Clark's Mill.

ELIZABETH, N. J., Sept. 15.—Two men were killed and a third was mortally scalded here to-day by an explosion of a steam receiver in the Waclark Wire Company's plant at Rahway. The dead are Leon Coombs, 41 years old, of Plainfield, and John Lesh, 20 years, of Pond Street, this city.

The victim of the scalding was Chief Engineer Frank B. Smith, who was frightfully burned while attempting to turn off the steam after the explosion. Smith resides at 569 Jefferson Avenue.

The Waclark Wire Company is controlled by ex-Senator W. A. Clark.

Warden John H. Mealey will accompany them as far as this city, and will buy their tickets and see that they get in the right train. Then they are to finish their trip without a guard.

They are to appear before the Parole Board next Friday morning.

TRAILED BY BLOODHOUNDS.

Wealthy Planter Accused of Burning School to Evade Taxes.

Special to The New York Times.

COLLINS, Miss., Sept. 15.—J. C. Easterling, a wealthy planter, was arrested to-day charged with burning the new schoolhouse here because he did not want to pay increased taxes for its maintenance.

Easterling lives in Jones County, which adjoins this, Covington County. He owns 500 acres of rich farming land in Covington. The school here was erected under a new law, which empowers a county to increase its tax rate for educational purposes. The rate was raised from 18 to 28 mills. Easterling opposed the school election. Saturday night the school was burned. Bloodhounds were put on the trail and followed it for miles through crowds of negro workers and others to Easterling's house. There they sprang upon Easterling, and with difficulty were beaten off by Sheriff Warren.

SPERRY ESTATE $2,000,000.

Half Goes to Widow—Acquired in Trading Stamp Business.

Special to The New York Times.

TRENTON, N. J., Sept. 15.—As vice ordinary of the prerogative court, Vice Chancellor Backes admitted to probate to-day the will of the late Thomas Alexander Sperry of the Sperry & Hutchinson trading stamp company. The estate, valued at about $2,000,000, was accumulated in the trading stamp business.

Under the terms of the will, a trust estate is created to be administered by his widow and the Farmers Loan and Trust Company of New York. All of his personal property, including jewelry and household articles, are left to the widow and then the estate is to be divided into eight parts. The income from four of those parts is to go to the widow, while the balance is divided among the children. An income is left Mr. Sperry's mother.

POLICE SEIZE A HOTEL.

Take Possession of The Belmont in West Forty-fifth Street.

Police Inspector Dwyer at midnight last night took possession of the Belmont Hotel, 116 West Forty-fifth Street, after arresting two persons there, Rose Barrick, the proprietor, a colored woman, and William Lorett, the head waiter. The prisoners were taken to the West Forty-seventh Street Station, where they were charged with keeping and maintaining a public nuisance.

When the police entered the hotel a cabaret entertainment was in full swing and the restaurant was crowded. The Belmont is a nine-story structure with 112 rooms.

Seizing the register of the hotel, Inspector Dwyer found that there were nine women and one man who had regular rooms in the house. Going to the top of the building, accompanied by three men, he worked down from room to room awakening the occupants. If they were slow in answering to his knock, they were told the gas man was outside and there was a leak which had to be attended to. As soon as the door was opened the Inspector asked who was occupying the room. If a permanent guest was installed, she was permitted to stay for the night. Transients were informed that the house was in possession of the police, and that they must leave at once. Instructions were then given that no one was to be permitted to take a room in the hotel, but the bar and restaurant business might continue. The police, it was said, would [illegible] about the permanent guests to-day.

PART OF BODY BURNED

Charred Bone of Anna Aumuller and Bits of Pillow Case Found in Vacant Lot.

CARDINAL FARLEY FOR THE EXTREME PENALTY.

Special to The New York Times.

MOUNT CLEMENS, Mich., Sept. 15.—Cardinal Farley, who is at the St. Joseph Sanitarium here for a rest and the baths, said of the Aumuller murder case:

"I am unspeakably shocked to hear of this affair. If, when the details are sifted to the bottom, no doubt as to Schmidt's guilt remains, he should receive the most extreme penalty. As to this man I know nothing; in fact, I have never heard of him. The so-called ordination papers may have been forged. It is not the custom to doubt the sincerity of such credentials when they are presented. All that I know about the case has been gained from newspaper accounts. I expect, however, complete details from Mgr. Lavelle, Vicar General of the Archdiocese of New York, to-morrow. I expect to give any aid possible in this investigation."

Dr. Ernest Arthur Muret, a dentist of 301 St. Nicholas Avenue, was arrested at midnight last night by Inspector Faurot and several detectives on the charge of running a counterfeiting plant with Hans Schmidt, the curate of St. Joseph's Church on West 125th Street, who was arrested early Sunday morning for murdering Anna Aumuller, parts of whose dismembered body were found in the Hudson River.

The counterfeiting plant was found yesterday afternoon in a four-room apartment at 516 West 134th Street. Rental receipts for these premises were found in Schmidt's room at St. Joseph's rectory. Detective McKenna paid a visit to the place yesterday afternoon and found a complete counterfeiting outfit in the place, with several color-printing presses, engraving plates, and cameras.

Find Bills Partly Printed.

A bundle of ten-dollar bills in the process of manufacture were found in the apartment. Only the first imprint had been made in red, and the bills had seemingly been put aside to dry before successive impressions were made in other colors to bring the bills to the right shade. The number "A 1234567829 A" was on each bill. A copper plate engraving of a twenty-dollar bill was found in the room. No impressions had been struck from it.

The apartment had been rented in the name of George Miller by the priest. The Superintendent of the building said that Miller, or Schmidt, had a companion in the work. From the description of the accomplice, Detective McKenna was able to trace Dr. Ernest Arthur Muret to his dental office at 301 St. Nicholas Avenue.

There was no one in when the detectives called there early this evening. A search was made of the dental rooms, though, and much paper for making the counterfeit bills was found there. The detectives continued to watch the premises until shortly before midnight, when the dentist returned. He was arrested at once.

Doctor Admits Counterfeiting.

The prisoner admitted his counterfeiting operations and said that the priest had been his accomplice. Schmidt, he said, had furnished most of the money with which the expensive apparatus had been purchased.

He confessed to Inspector Faurot that he had never been licensed to practice dentistry, although he insisted that he had studied for two years in Berlin. He said that he had come to this country in 1908 and had obtained employment as an assistant to dentists whose names he refused to disclose. Early last December he rented the office which he then occupied at 301 St. Nicholas Avenue.

One of his first patients, he said, was

Dr. Schmidt, who came to him early this year and had dental work done for which he paid $58. They became very friendly, and on June 8 the priest rented the flat for Muret under the name of George Miller. It was a four-room and bath apartment and the rent was $23 a month. A receipt found among Schmidt's effects put the police on the trail of this flat.

Mrs. Margaret Bowye, janitress, and Mrs. Margaret Rutledge, Superintendent, of the 134th Street apartment, identified Dr. Muret, when confronted with him, as the man who had been with the priest at the apartments.

The women identified a picture of Schmidt as a man who visited the dentist at the apartment, where they would stay together for several hours. Sometimes, they said, the dentist would be there for days at a time, and then he would be absent for a week. The men had purchased a stock of chemicals used for developing photographic plates and making steel engravings. The camera was specially constructed with powerful lenses for the purposes of reproducing bills.

Hold Servant as a Witness.

Bertha Zech, 21 years old, a servant, was held as a material witness. According to Muret she had been in his employ since last November. She obtained employment with him through an advertisement.

Detectives traced the man to the house in West 134th Street. Here, on the fourth floor, was a fully equipped counterfeiting plant. There were four rooms full of counterfeiters' tools, acids, and presses.

After tracing Muret to 301 St. Nicholas Avenue, Detective McKenna stood outside and waited until he came in. At midnight Muret arrived and Detective McKenna seized him. A search of his rooms revealed a loaded revolver, which was in his bureau drawer. In his possession also were several pictures of Hans Schmidt.

There was a dental sign over the door. This letter was found, which had been written recently:

> Dr. George Muret:
> Dear Sir: Replying to your favor of the 8th inst., we beg to say that the price of ink rollers for the Excelsior press is $1.25. Hoping to receive your esteemed order, we are,
> CHELSEA PRESS.

Muret was taken by surprise when he was arrested. Then he became indignant.

Detective O'Neill found in a bowl in the apartment the burned edges of a $10 counterfeit bill which had undergone several impressions in the printing press. The number of this bill was "A12,456,782A."

Inspector Faurot was asked if Dr. Muret would be charged with being an accomplice of Father Schmidt in the murder of the Aumuller woman. He said:

"I will not be quoted as to that. I will say, however, that surgical instruments were found in the apartment on 134th Street and that there may be other charges than counterfeiting against the prisoner."

Dr. Muret told the police that Schmidt had done all of the actual purchasing of apparatus and supplies.

Inspector Faurot said last night that further arrests were to be made.

"I do not think that was a one-man shop," he said. "All four rooms were given over to workshop. The bathroom was used as a darkroom for developing photographic plates, the kitchen for the storage of chemicals, the dining room as a drying room, and the parlor as the pressroom. In the bedroom were stored the supplies of paper for printing."

Muret bears a striking facial resemblance to Schmidt, and he was asked repeatedly if he and the priest were relatives, but he denied that there was any family connection. Muret is about six feet tall and weighs 145 pounds. He dresses fashionably, and is of good appearance and address. He speaks French, German, and English perfectly.

Burned Part of Body.

Inspector Faurot announced last night that his detectives had discovered evidence that Schmidt had burned one of the sections of the leg of the murdered woman in a vacant lot in Macomb's Place, between 151st and 152d Streets.

"This tip was given to the police," he said, "by an employe of a contractor named McKnight. On the night of Sept. 3 a man was seen walking into the vacant lot carrying a can and a large bundle.

"A few minutes later flames appeared in one corner of the lot. The man remained beside them, pouring on oil from time to time, when the flames seemed to be dying out. He continued to do this for nearly an hour.

"Detective O'Neill investigated this clue to-day. He found that the can with a little oil in the bottom had been left in the lot. Bits of pillow ticking were lying about. It was the same pattern as that in the pillow which contained part of the torso of the murdered woman.

"Finally Detective O'Neill found a fragment of charred bone six inches long. Both ends of the bone had been sawed off. In the middle was what seemed to be the knee joint. It was charred so badly, however, that this could not be ascertained definitely.

"In the débris left by the fire Detective O'Neill found part of a burned photograph. The only thing that could be made out in the picture was the head and shoulders of a man wearing a clerical collar who stood on the rear of a train of cars. The name "Frisco" appeared near the platform of the car on which the man was standing."

Had Forged Credentials.

Hans Schmidt, it was established yesterday, obtained his connection with Catholic churches in this country by the use of forged credentials. He was suspended from the priesthood in 1909 by the Bishop of Mainz, Germany, for obtaining a chaplaincy in the village of Buergel by presenting fraudulent documents concerning his educational qualifications.

The Bishop of Mainz, in a cable message to the Vicar General of the Diocese of New York, said yesterday that Schmidt had been arrested by the police in 1909 for frauds, and that he escaped punishment by being declared insane by the courts.

Soon after he was suspended Schmidt came to this country. In spite of the fact that his priestly function had been taken away, he succeeded, with the help of his fictitious credentials, in being assigned to serve as pastor of St. Francis's Church on Green Street, Trenton, N. J., during the illness of the pastor. Bishop James A. McFaul of the Diocese of Trenton made public yesterday a letter which he sent to Schmidt in December, 1910. The letter said:

> You are hereby notified to leave this diocese immediately. It is evident that you are wanting in common sense and, therefore, I do not desire to have anything more to do with you.

The offense committed by Schmidt directly before his banishment from the Diocese of Trenton was that of performing a marriage ceremony without the proper diocesan dispensation. The diocesan authorities at Trenton suspected that many of Schmidt's letters were forged.

Bishop of Mainz Cables.

Father Luke Evers, chaplain of the Tombs, showed Schmidt yesterday this cablegram from the Bishop of Mainz:

> Vicar General Moody, Diocese of New York.
> J. Schmidt, born at Aschaffenburg, priest of Diocese of Mainz, ordained 1907. Ran away from Mainz because of attempted frauds and arrest by police. Declared insane by court and discharged. Suspended by Bishop for acts and presenting falsified document regarding studies he pretended to have made. Then left the diocese.
> BENDIX, Secretary, Bishop of Mainz.

When Father Evers asked Schmidt to comment on the telegram, the prisoner said:

"They believed the documents false, but they were given me by God."

A cablegram was received yesterday from Schmidt's native town of Aschaffenburg, Germany, saying that his parents and other relatives living there considered Schmidt abnormal morally, and that there were numerous cases of insanity in his family. In his twentieth year, according to this story, Schmidt underwent a strange transformation, and since that time was looked upon as unbalanced.

One of the papers which the detectives found last night among Schmidt's belongings was his discharge from custody in the Fourth District Court in Munich, Germany. This document showed that on Jan. 29, 1909, Hans Schmidt, charged with forging private papers and with frauds, had been acquitted for the reason that insanity experts testified that he was not responsible for his acts. The court ordered all his property to be returned to Schmidt and the costs to be paid by the State. The papers showed that this had been ordered in a secret session of the court.

The dispatches showing that Schmidt's mental qualities have been called into question before was good news to Alphonse G. Koelble, a lawyer of 29 Broadway, who has been retained by Schmidt. Mr. Koelble said that, when his client was arraigned, he would ask for a commission of alienists.

Mr. Koelble is President of the German-American Citizens' League, and became prominent when he took a leading part in breaking up the peace meeting at Carnegie Hall on Dec. 12, 1911. At this meeting he led a number of German-Americans in a violent protest against the ratification of arbitration treaties with France and England.

Insane, Counsel Thinks.

"I am a German Catholic," said Mr. Koelble, "and I interested myself in Schmidt at the request of a number of German Catholic laymen who had been friendly to the prisoner. I have talked with the man, and am certain that he is insane. I do not see how any one hearing him talk could escape that conclusion."

Schmidt's lawyer thought yesterday that the prosecution might be unable to establish the corpus delicti. Only the torso and a part of the leg of the dismembered body have been recovered, and the only positive means of identification that the autopsy physicians found on the remains in the Hoboken Morgue was the birthmark on the right shoulder. This has led to three erroneous identifications and made it seem probable that the prosecution would have a great deal of difficulty in proving that the remains at the Morgue were those of Anna Aumuller.

This danger seemed so real to Coroner Feinberg and Assistant District Attorney Deacon Murphy yesterday that they planned to use Schmidt himself to establish the corpus delicti. Yesterday morning Lieut. Clinton Woods was sent over to take the body from the Hoboken Morgue to the Bellevue Morgue in this city. It was intended to take Schmidt from the Tombs to identify the body. Schmidt told Coroner Feinberg on Sunday that he would be able to make the identification.

When Lieut. Woods arrived at the Hoboken Morgue, however, Coroner Schlemm refused to permit the body to be taken away. Even though the crime had been committed in New York State, the laws of New Jersey, he said, required that an inquest should be held there because the body had been found there.

Schmidt has passively done whatever the police have requested of him, without making any effort to build up a defense for himself, unless the prosecuting authorities are right in believing that he is shamming insanity. Probably Schmidt would have done what he was told without demur if he were asked to identify the remains.

"I tried to impress upon him," said Mr. Koelble, "that his life depended on his following instructions. But he paid no attention to me. He will do nothing to protect his rights, and I cannot force him to obey me."

Girl Identifies the Body.

Without using Schmidt, however, the prosecution obtained an identification of the body which is believed to be sufficient to establish the corpus delicti. Anna Hirt of 201 East Eighty-fifth Street, who was a servant in the rectory of the Church of St. Boniface, where Anna Aumuller had been employed, visited the Hoboken Morgue. Before seeing the body she said that there was a brown mark on the chest of the Aumuller girl. When she was shown the torso by County Physician G. W. King she pointed out the mark she had described.

"That is Anna," she said. "I could not be mistaken about that mark."

Miss Hirt did not remember seeing the blue birthmark on the dead woman's shoulder. The mark which Miss Hirt pointed out had not been noticed by the autopsy physicians and other authorities who had seen the body.

Coroner Schlemm said last night that he would hold the inquest on Thursday night. The only witnesses who will testify at this time will be surgeons, to show the cause of death; Miss Hirt, to identify the body, and detectives to tell of Schmidt's confession. It is believed that at the end of the hearing the body will be turned over to the authorities of this city. Coroner Feinberg will probably begin the inquest immediately, though he said last night that nothing would be determined upon until after the arrival to-morrow of District Attorney Whitman.

Mr. Koelble said yesterday that he would seek no delays, and would be ready for trial as soon as the State was. Mr. Koelble intimated that, in view of the doubtful mental state of his client, the best outcome might be his pleading guilty to murder in the second degree and receiving a sentence of life imprisonment. He said:

"If a lunacy commission comes unanimously to the conclusion that Schmidt is sane, I would be disposed to accept that verdict and give up the insanity plea. If there were a shadow of doubt in the commission's findings, however, I would undertake to prove him insane before a jury. I am sure, though, that a commission would declare him legally insane.

Replies of the Prisoner.

"When I asked him to-day if he wished to retain me as his lawyer, he said that he cared for no one to take up his case but Abraham. But finally he agreed to retain me until Abraham appeared for him."

"I told him that he faced the charge of first-degree murder and the electric chair. He simply looked at me wearily. Not a muscle of his face moved.

"Next I suggested to him that his friends thought he must be insane if he committed this act. This suggestion aroused him. He denied vigorously that there was anything wrong with him.

"'That is absurd,' he said. 'If there is anything you can be sure of it is that there is no trace of insanity in me.'

"I asked him if an uncle of his had not committed suicide. He admitted that this was true, but said that his uncle was quite sane, and added that no member of his family had ever been insane. Then he talked to me for a while about the intended sacrifice of Isaac by Abraham, and contended that he himself was under inspiration when he murdered the girl.

"I offered him one of the morning papers and asked if he wanted to read what it said about him. He shook his head. I read the headlines to him, but he showed no interest. Suddenly he leaned forward and took it out of my hand. A picture of Anna had caught his eye and he looked at it for a long time and then kissed it.

"I took this case largely to show that a sensational case like this can go through the courts, with justice to the defendant and justice to the people, and without scandalous delays. The trial will not be held up by any technical controversies, if I can help it. On the other hand, I wish to make sure that the man will have all his rights.

"I used to know Schmidt fairly well, having met him several times when I lectured at gatherings of German Catholics. I am acquainted with many who were his friends, who thought highly of him, and who were amazed beyond belief when they read of his crime and of the life he had been leading. Schmidt has not a cent, as far as I know, and no money will be raised for his defense. No church authorities were among those who asked me to interest myself in his case."

Schmidt's cellmate is Thomas J. Messmer, who on May 15 stabbed his wife to death at their residence at 219 East Sixty-ninth Street. The police surprised Messmer in the act of dismembering the body.

Schmidt ate with a hearty appetite the three meals which were sent up to his cell. He complained that his cell was cold until his lawyer procured more clothes for him from his room in the rectory of St. Joseph's.

Asked About Another Murder.

Another visitor Schmidt received yesterday was Father Evers, the Tombs chaplain. Father Evers asked him if he knew anything about the murder of Alma Kellner, a little girl, whose dismembered body was found in the basement of St. John's Catholic Church at Louisville, Ky., on Dec. 8, 1909, while Schmidt was in Louisville as the guest of the Rev. H. B. Westermann, pastor of the Church of the Immaculate Conception.

"No," said Schmidt. "I don't know anything about that. I never heard of her."

Dr. McGuire, the Tombs physician, examined Schmidt yesterday and said he would keep him under investigation for several days. He said he had already come to certain conclusions regarding the man's condition, but that he would say nothing till his examination was completed. Warden John Fallon of the Tombs and Deputy Commissioner of Correction Wright, after talking with the prisoner, said they were convinced that he was insane. Warden Fallon said that Schmidt appeared to him to be the most dangerous maniac ever confined in the Tombs.

Assistant District Attorney Deacon Murphy, Coroner Feinburg, and Inspector Faurot all expressed themselves yesterday as being strongly of the opinion that Schmidt was at least legally sane, even if he was under certain religious delusions.

"I talked to him for two hours yesterday," said Assistant District Attorney Murphy, "and I am convinced that his reason is not impaired. He talked consecutively, always replied directly to my questions, and never wandered. If a commission of alienists is asked for by his counsel the prosecution will probably consent to it. At the same time we will make a strong objection to the insanity defense at the trial.

"The trial will probably not take place for a month. The inquest will take some time. The confession which Schmidt made to myself and to Inspector Faurot are both admissible in evidence, and they will constitute the major part of the people's case."

Coroner Feinburg said that his long examination on Sunday of Schmidt convinced him that the man was sane. The fact, he said, that Schmidt was suffering from religious delusions at the time of the murder made no legal difference.

Holds His Marriage Legal.

The record in the Marriage License Bureau at the City Hall showed yesterday that Schmidt had changed his first name from Hans to John in making out the licenses. The lines for the date of the marriage and the name of the officiating clergyman, however, are left blank. There was no return of the officiating clergyman's certificate. Both Schmidt and Miss Aumuller wrote that the marriage was their first.

Schmidt told his lawyer yesterday that he believed the marriage to be a legal one. As a matter of fact, according to Mr. Koelble, their marriage was probably a valid one in common law, as the license, made out by both parties, was evidence of mutual consent.

Coroner Winterbottom went to the Hoboken morgue yesterday afternoon and made a second request for the body of the murdered woman. This was refused, however, by Coroner Schlemm, who insisted that the New Jersey law compelled him to keep the body until the inquest had been held.

After the cablegram had been received establishing that Schmidt had been suspended from the priesthood and had used forgery to gain a status in churches in this country, Mgr. Lavelle said yesterday:

"The man presented what seemed to be good recommendations, and we found a place for him, as we always try to do for men in his position. It was expected that he would not remain in this country. We had not taken any steps, however, to send him back to Europe.

"He was dismissed at Trenton for a technical offense. This was not held against him, and a place was found for him here. No adverse reports had been made regarding him to me. If there had been an investigation would have been made at once."

The work of the detectives on the case was commented on yesterday by Police Commissioner Waldo, who said:

"Detective ability of a high order was shown in this case by Inspector Faurot and the men associated with him, Detectives Frank Cassassa, Richard McKenna, and James J. O'Neil. All are first-grade detectives. The only thing I can do to show my appreciation as head of the department of the effectiveness of the work done by these three detectives is to give them commendation, which will be of material aid to them if they stand civil service examinations in the future."

SCHMIDT SUSPENDED ABROAD.

Arrested for Fraud and Acquitted on Grounds of Mental Weakness.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

BERLIN, Sept. 15.—Hans Schmidt was a chaplain in the village of Buergel, near Offenbach-on-Main, in 1907, but was suspended soon after his arrival in the community in consequence of revelations of his using fictitious papers of identification and having obtained a chaplaincy under false pretenses. He was not prosecuted because he fled before proceedings could be begun, and also because his superiors were of the impression that he was mentally unbalanced.

Schmidt came to Buergel from his native town of Aschaffenburg, where he was born in 1881. He attended the gymnasium and seminary for priests at Mainz, and occupied intermittently a chaplaincy at Darmstadt, Buergel, Seligenstadt, and Gonsenheim until his sudden disappearance.

Later he reappeared at Munich and was arrested for fraud. He was released on the ground of a weak intellect. The Bishop of the diocese subsequently suspended him and dismissed him from the diocese.

Schmidt studied philosophy and political economy several semesters at the University of Munich. He was known as ambitious and good-natured. His student record at Munich is entirely without blemish. He was never active there as a priest.

ASCHAFFENBURG, Sept. 15.—That Hans Schmidt, the priest who has confessed the murder of Anna Aumuller in New York, intended to return to his home in Bavaria at an early date is indicated by a postcard which his parents received from him a day or two ago. Schmidt wrote that he rejoiced to think that he would see them and Aschaffenburg again soon.

Both of Schmidt's parents and other relatives living here consider him abnormal and say that there were numerous cases of insanity in the family. According to the records, he was born in 1881 and was ordained in 1904. He showed no signs of abnormality, so far as can be learned, before his twentieth year, and then his character appeared to undergo a strange transformation. He became unsociable and was unable to agree with his superiors. He occupied a number of curacies during the three years following 1904, but remained only a few months in each place.

Schmidt, it is said, took holy orders against his own wishes, and only to satisfy the desires of his mother.

MAINZ, Sept. 15.—The Journal to-day says that Johannes Schmidt belonging to the Mainz Bishopric has long been under suspension by the Bishop. He disappeared from Mainz and later arrived in Munich, where he was arrested on a charge of committing a number of frauds, according to the newspaper. He was acquitted by the court on the ground of weakmindedness, and then emigrated to New York. The Mainz Episcopate was not aware that he was exercising the functions of a priest at New York.

HEAD IN RIVER WAS WAX.

Police Called by Those Who Thought It Was Woman's.

Lieut. Kenney of the St. Nicholas Avenue police station was told many times last evening that the head of a woman was floating in the Harlem River near the bridge at 225th Street. Some of the informers insisted that it must be the head of Anna Aumuller, whose body was found in the North River.

Lieut. Kenney sent Detective Hyman and Patrolman McGinnis to investigate. When they got there they saw a large crowd on the bridge. Some men on a sand barge were gesticulating madly, and were trying to reach an object in the river with long poles.

Hyman and McGinnis took a hand and finally succeeded in bringing the object aboard the sand barge. It was the head of the wax model of a woman. Patrolman McGinnis picked up the head and smashed it into a thousand pieces on a stone. Then he filed a long statement with Lieut. Kenney explaining his experiences.

NO LOUISVILLE CHARGE.

Schmidt Apparently Had No Part in Girl's Murder There.

LOUISVILLE, Ky., Sept. 15.—Investigation here to-day failed to establish any connection of Hans Schmidt, held in New York for the murder of Anna Aumuller, with the murder in Louisville of eight-year-old Alma Kellner, whose mutilated body was found in the basement of St. John's Catholic Church on Dec. 8, 1909.

Schmidt was visiting in Louisville at the time of the girl's disappearance and the finding of her body. The manner in which the girl's body was cut into pieces and disposed of being similar to the methods employed in the murder of Anna Aumuller, caused the suspicion that Schmidt might have been connected with the Kellner murder, for which crime Joseph Wendling, former janitor of St. John's Church, is serving a life sentence in the penitentiary at Frankfort, Ky.

MAY BE MURDER CLUE.

Pillow with Blood Stains Found at May's Landing.

EGG HARBOR CITY, N. J., Sept. 15.—Reports that a murder had been committed here were circulated to-day, when it became known that a blood-soaked pillow had been found on May's Landing, near the Egg Harbor County Boulevard. The pillow was encased in a fancy lace-covered slip, and was of expensive material, stuffed with eiderdown feathers. How the pillow came upon the landing has not been explained. It bore no mark or tag which might lead to the identification of the owner, and the pillow slip had no distinguishing initial upon it.

The pillow was found by a group of boys, who at once reported their discovery to the police. The town and county authorities are investigating the case.

BUSINESS TO STOP FOR GAYNOR SERVICE

Mayor Kline Calls on City's Industry to Halt for an Hour While Funeral Is Held.

PLAN FOR BODY'S ARRIVAL

Coffin Will Be Taken First to Gaynor Home and from There to the City Hall.

As a mark of respect to Mayor Gaynor, all business will be suspended in the city for one hour next Monday while his funeral is being held, if the suggestion contained in this proclamation, issued by Mayor Kline yesterday, is adopted:

> Office of the Mayor,
> Sept. 15, 1913.
>
> A proclamation to the public.
>
> The funeral of the Hon. William Jay Gaynor, the beloved late Mayor of New York City, will occur next Monday morning, Sept. 22, at Trinity Church.
>
> The people of this city cannot pay too high honor to the memory of this great man and great Mayor, who practically gave up his life in their service.
>
> As Mayor of this city through the calamity of his death, I feel that next Monday, the day of his funeral, should be observed throughout the city as generally as possible as a day of mourning. I therefore request the citizens of this city, as a mark of respect to his memory, to place all flags at half-mast on that day, and would suggest a suspension of all business for a period of one hour while the funeral ceremony is being held.
>
> I have ordered that all city departments except those which it is necessary to keep open for the public convenience shall be closed for the entire day.
>
> I believe that this is as little as can be done to honor the memory of the man who performed such lasting service for our city, and who is so universally beloved by all its people.
>
> Furthermore, I desire to announce that until after the funeral only the necessary routine business of this office will be transacted. While the body of our late Mayor is on the ocean bound for this city, and until after the funeral ceremonies, I feel it to be only fitting that his memory should be honored in this way.
>
> A. L. KLINE, Mayor.

The wishes of Mrs. Gaynor that the utmost privacy be observed until the funeral services begin with the transfer of the coffin from the Gaynor home in Brooklyn to the City Hall on Saturday evening, will be carried out. The body of the Mayor will be transferred as soon as the Lusitania arrives to the Department of Correction boat, and outside of the crew, only members of the Committee of Arrangements, Mayor Kline, Norman Gaynor, the Mayor's son, and W. Seward Webb and Harry K. Vingut, his son's-in-law, will be on the boat.

The boat will proceed to some Brooklyn pier and from there the body will be taken to the Gaynor home at 20 Eighth Avenue, where it will stay until Saturday. Saturday evening the body will be removed to the City Hall. It will lie in state in the rotunda, guarded by policemen and firemen. The doors of the City Hall will be open to the public at 8 o'clock on Sunday morning. The Committee on Arrangements which planned these details at a meeting at the City Hall yesterday also arranged for the public funeral next Monday. Chairman R. A. C. Smith announced that the services would be held at Trinity Church at 11 o'clock in the morning. There will be twelve honorary pallbearers whose names will be announced to-day. Bishop Greer will officiate at the funeral services, assisted by Dr. Manning, rector of Trinity, if he returns from Europe in time; the Rev. L. E. Holden, pastor of the Episcopal Church at St. James, L. I., and the Rev. Dr. Page, who was formerly rector of St. James's Episcopal Church in Brooklyn, where the family are communicants.

The funeral procession will depart from the City Hall at 10:30 o'clock, and after the church ceremonies the procession will proceed across the Brooklyn Bridge and will disband at Borough Hall, Brooklyn. The burial will be in Greenwood Cemetery.

The coffin will be carried to and from the hearse by eight men, four from the Police Department and four from the Fire Department. Lieut. William Kennel, who has been the personal guard of every Mayor since Mayor Strong, will walk beside the hearse. Although Gen. Barry, representing the United States Army, and Gen. O'Ryan of the National Guard of New York, both offered a military escort, it was declined at the request of Mrs. Gaynor, who wanted the ceremonies kept as simple as possible.

This delegation from the Broadway association will attend the funeral: Jefferson De Mont Thompson, William De Hurthurn Washington, Percy S. Straus, C. B. Collins, J. H. Emery, F. A. Muschenheim, Marc Klaw, D. B. Mulligan, J. A. Clark, and David Robinson. Chairman Smith of the Committee on Arrangement said yesterday that so many organizations and associations had applied for representation in the funeral procession and in the church that the number would have to be limited. He requested all bodies that wished to be represented to send him word by next Thursday noon. The seating capacity of Trinity Church is 783, and the Justices of the Supreme Court and Appellate Divisions of this and the Second Districts, together with the members of the Board of Estimate, heads of departments, and other city employes will have to be provided for. For this reason the Citizens' Committee, of which ex-Mayor Seth Low is Chairman, will be confined to 100 persons.

The Republican Club, at its regular monthly meeting last night, adopted this resolution on the death of Mayor Gaynor:

> The Republican Club of the City of New York expresses its sorrow at the sudden passing away of Mayor Gaynor. We recall his earnest and eloquent address before this club last Winter, in which he so ably presented the right of the wage earners and the need of fairer legislation in their behalf.
>
> We also recall his many other acts as a public-spirited citizen, as a Judge for many years, and as Mayor. Always he showed his deep interest in the welfare of all the people. We extend to his sorrowing family our heartfelt sympathy in their bereavement.

In opening the Fall term of the Supreme Court in Carmel, Putnam County, yesterday, Justice Keogh made this reference to Mayor Gaynor:

"We knew Judge Gaynor as a lawyer and as a Judge. As a lawyer he was a master of compact and lucid statement, always direct minded and an honorable, but a dangerous adversary. As a Judge he was perhaps the most striking figure in the State. He seemed to love work. To him nothing was law that was not reason. He was a hater of shams and technicalities. Where he was Judge, justice was never strangled in a web of law. He had no patience with a negligent and unready lawyer, but a man with an honest case well prepared found in Judge Gaynor's court a sure haven in which he got speedy and exact justice.

"Of his great public career and service to the community proper tribute will doubtless be paid elsewhere. In noting his passing away we recall him as industrious and just, a courageous and faithful Judge. In the court where he presided, wrong, no matter how ably defended, was never victorious, and right, no matter how feebly upheld, never went down in defeat."

BOARD TO CLOSE FOR GAYNOR.

Stock Exchange Session Will Begin at Noon on Monday.

The Board of Governors of the New York Stock Exchange in a special meeting yesterday voted to keep the Exchange closed for half of the day when the funeral of Mayor Gaynor is held. It was also voted to appoint a committee to attend the services. These resolutions were passed:

> Whereas, In the death of William J. Gaynor a conspicuous figure has passed from our political life; and the public has lost not only a man of marked personality but an able and fearless man to discharge the difficult duties of his office with great intelligence and independence; therefore, be it
>
> Resolved, That a committee be appointed by the President to attend the funeral; and
>
> Resolved, That the Governing Committee direct that the Exchange be not open on Monday, Sept. 22, the day of the funeral, until 12 o'clock noon; and
>
> Resolved, That these resolutions be spread upon the minutes of the committee, and a copy sent to the family of the deceased.

When the funeral of the late J. P. Morgan occurred the Exchange was closed until noon, and when Vice President Sherman was buried on Nov. 2, 1912, no business was transacted all day, this being a Saturday. The Exchange observed the funeral of Queen Victoria on Feb. 2, 1901, and of President McKinley on Sept. 15, 1901, by being closed for the entire session. On April 20, 1910, the Exchange was closed from 10 to 12 o'clock as a mark of respect to King Edward VII., whose funeral took place on that day.

ICED LADYBUGS FROM WEST.

60,000 Shipped from California to Refrigerating Congress in Chicago.

Special to The New York Times.

SACRAMENTO, Sept. 15.—The International Refrigeration Congress, now in session at Chicago, has called upon California to illustrate the value of refrigeration for the suspension of ladybug life over a period of five months.

E. J. Vosler, Superintendent of the State Insectary, shipped two crates of ladybugs last week to the Chicago gathering, and they will be exhibited there in a refrigerator with a glass front as an illustration of what this State has done to aid the farmers in the fight against the parasites which attack orchards and fields.

Although the ladybugs are in a semi-hibernating condition at this time of the year, the exhibit will serve to show the effectiveness of refrigeration as a help to agriculture, and a poster will explain the process as carried on in this State.

Early in February the ladybugs are gathered in large quantities in the Sierra Nevada Mountains and shipped to this city. Here the insects are separated into crates, each crate containing approximately 30,000, and placed in a room, the temperature of which is kept at 35 degrees. Beginning April 1, the insects are removed from the refrigerators and turned loose to fight the parasites.

Justice Brown Left About $75,000

WASHINGTON, Sept. 15.—The will of the late Justice Henry Billings Brown, retired Associate Justice of the Supreme Court of the United States, was filed for probate here to-day. The bulk of the estate, about $75,000, is left to the widow; $10,000 goes to Yale University, a collection of paintings to the Detroit Museum of Art, and a number of rare books to the United States Government.

THIS AMERICAN WAS A PIRATE FIGHTER

Standard Oil Man, Here on a Visit, Tells of Six Years in Chinese Customs Service.

HE WAS MADE A MANDARIN

J. J. Rule Decorated for Bravery in Hot Battle with Cutthroats on the West River.

A man arrived at the Waldorf yesterday who spent six years looking for pirates and smugglers in the Far East. He is J. J. Rule, an American, who is assistant manager for the Standard Oil Company at Canton, China, and under the Imperial Government he held the rank of mandarin of the sixth class. This was awarded him as a result of a fight on the West River some years ago, when he helped fight and capture a lot of pirates who were about to seize a river steamer.

Mr. Rule has lived in Southern China seventeen years, and a good part of that time he spent in the Chinese customs service. He speaks Chinese fluently. He says he would feel as safe in the interior of China, even during a revolution, as anywhere else in the world, because a foreigner who speaks the language and knows Chinese customs is secure when traveling in the country away from the seaboard.

"I left Canton the latter part of May," said Mr. Rule yesterday. "That was, of course, before the latest troubles came up. Business at that time was about normal, considering the state of affairs that then existed.

"Pirates on the Pearl River? Well, they call them pirates, but they are hardly pirates of the old school, such as used to prowl about the coast of China. You see, a gang of them gets some inside information that a certain steamer is carrying treasure, and it gets on the boat as passengers at some port; and then, after overpowering the crew and beaching the craft the pirates take to the shore and scatter all over the province. It is next to impossible to run them down collectively.

"I had to come into contact with some of those fellows when I was in the Chinese customs service. I was on duty up the West River for five years, and then for a year and a half I was on the frontier back of Macao. That is where most of the smuggling is done, and we had to keep a sharp lookout for opium coming in and also rice for junks going out loaded with contraband grain. We had a mixed guard of Indians and Chinamen, at first, and they used to say that one nationality was employed to keep the other awake. But since the dispute with Portugal over the boundary of Macao I understand they have come to employ only Chinese.

"Things happened in those days, but the hottest time we had with the pirates was at Samshui, when I was on duty up the West River. A lot of cutthroats had gone on board a steamer at Wuchow, ostensibly as passengers bound for Hongkong. We had word that they intended to take possession of her, so the Chinese harbor master and I with a small force of men, went on board to arrest them. As we reached the steamer, the pirates opened fire, and there was quite a little shooting within a few minutes. We killed two of them and wounded one, but the harbor master was wounded. However, we captured fourteen men. The harbor master afterward received the decoration of mandarin of the fifth class, and at the same time I was made a mandarin of the sixth class. This would have been of a lot of use to me had I remained in the service. That fight lasted only about ten minutes, for we were soon surrounded by gunboats, and there was no way for the pirates to escape.

"I like Canton better as a place of residence than Hongkong, because from it it is easy to get into the country. We have only eight or nine Americans in Shameen, the foreign concession. I was in Canton through the other revolution. In fact I was senior lieutenant of the Shameen defense corps, but things soon got beyond us and British and Indian troops were sent to protect the settlement."

RIVAL SHOWS SPLIT TOWN.

Film War Results in All Night Exhibitions at Monticello.

Special to The New York Times.

MONTICELLO, N. Y., Sept. 15.—The residents of this place are divided into two factions over the rivalry between Geraghty & Son and L. F. Guimond, proprietors of two moving picture theatres.

The Geraghtys for a long time had the only picture show in town, but recently L. F. Guimond of Newark, N. J., built a $25,000 casino here and immediately the proprietors of the shows advertised special attractions to get the patronage. Geraghty & Son advertised six reels and Guimond made it seven. Thereupon the Geraghtys came back with eight reels and Guimond toured the town with an automobile bearing signs, "eleven reels to-night and steam heat." This prompted Geraghty & Son to engage two operators and put on an all-night show, announcing "come and stay as long as you like." The house was packed until daylight.

Ice cream and restaurant men are protesting because their patronage is falling off, and a petition has been sent to the President of the village asking that the moving picture proprietors be prohibited from showing more than six reels.

The Well Dressed New Yorker
Edited by Beaunash

PERCHED on an island, New York in its codes and modes is itself an island, detached from the mainland of Provincialism and set out in the midmost Atlantic of Individualism. It is the most protean of cities—horsecar and Subway—East Side and Riverside—"Millionaire's Row" and "Bread Line," with Coney and Tammany to pepper the whole.

This shop "biographs" the pre-advanced modes of The Well Dressed New Yorker, and "films" them with camera-like fidelity—a six-month beforehand.

INDICT HANLEY FOR CHASTISING FATHER

College President Admits He Switched and Spanked Parent for "Abusing" Mother.

USED CLUB, SAYS FATHER

Also Complains of Being Kicked—Action by Grand Jury Follows Report of a Reconciliation.

TERRE HAUTE, Ind., Sept. 15.—The Rev. Elijah M. Hanley, President of Franklin College, was indicted late today by the Vigo County Grand Jury on a charge of assault and battery, growing out of his attack on his father, Calvin Hanley, last Thursday. President Hanley is said to be at Franklin, and the Rev. C. M. Parker, a member of the Board of Trustees of the college, told court officials to-night that he would appear when wanted.

The attack on Calvin Hanley took place at his home near Middletown, Ind. It was charged that the minister attacked his father because of remarks made to his daughter-in-law and on account of treatment of Mrs. Calvin Hanley to which the son objected. The father told neighbors that he had been beaten with a club and kicked by Dr. Hanley.

President Hanley, in a statement issued at Indianapolis on Saturday, asserted that he had not beaten his father, but had "switched and spanked" his parent for ill-treatment of his mother and other members of his family. In this statement he recited what he termed abuse of his mother by his father, and asserted that he should have taken a hand in the matter years before.

Returning to Terre Haute Saturday night, the Rev. Mr. Hanley went to his father's farm, where a reconciliation is said to have taken place. Then it was said the father begged forgiveness, the son, kneeling before his parent, asked his blessing, and both pledged themselves to forget the incident and work together for the happiness of Mrs. Calvin Hanley. When the reconciliation was announced a Trustee of Franklin College announced that the affair was closed so far as the college was concerned.

The Rev. Mr. Hanley is regarded as one of the leading Baptist ministers of the county, having held important posts at Cleveland and Providence.

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., Sept. 15.—The Rev. E. J. Hanley arrived here tonight from Franklin, Ind., but declined to discuss the case. Dr. Hanley said he would depart for Terre Haute to-morrow morning to surrender to the Sheriff there. He expects to be able to provide bond at once.

G. A. R. ENCAMPMENT OPENS

Chattanooga Entertaining 35,000—Veterans Visit Lookout Mountain.

CHATTANOOGA, Tenn., Sept. 15.—The formal opening to-day of the Grand Army of the Republic's forty-seventh annual encampment was occupied chiefly with sightseeing tours to historic battlefields in this vicinity. A drizzling rain did not deter thousands of veterans from making pilgrimages to Lookout Mountain, Chickamauga Park, and Missionary Ridge.

To-day was officially designated as "Lookout Mountain Day," and the veterans swarmed the scenes of the struggles of fifty years ago between Confederate forces under Gens. Bragg and Longstreet and Union troops commanded by Gens. Grant and Thomas.

Interest of the veterans already is being manifested in the election of a Commander in Chief to succeed Gen. Alfred B. Beers. Among the names prominently mentioned in this connection are Private Orlando Somers of Kokomo, Ind.; Col. Clair E. Adams of Superior, Neb.; ex-Congressman Washington Gardner of Kalamazoo, Mich., and Gen. J. N. Harrison of Kansas.

The first general business session of the National Encampment will be called to order Thursday morning, and the election of officers is likely to take place soon thereafter. Mobile, Ala.; Houston, Texas, and Detroit, Mich., are seeking the honor of entertaining the forty-eighth encampment.

Estimates place the number of visitors in the city to-night at 35,000. This number includes delegates to the allied organizations holding meetings in connection with the national encampment.

The forty-first reunion of the Army of the Cumberland also was formally opened to-day. An address was delivered by Gen. Anson Mills, U. S. A.

OPENS FOR GOOD SEAMEN.

No Rooms at Church Institute for Those Who Drink.

Two floors of the Seamen's Church Institute, at Coenties Slip and South Street, were opened yesterday for the accommodation of seafarers and twenty-three men registered for rooms. Supt. Dean informed the reporters that only good sailors who did not drink would be allowed to have rooms in the new institute.

When it was pointed out to the Superintendent that statements had been given out to the press that no seafaring man would be turned away and there would be a special room for those who came in late at night to recuperate from the over indulgence, he said that it was probably some press agent story.

For two years the Institute has been receiving subscriptions and is now holding back the restaurant and lunch counter until another $150,000 has been subscribed. The Sailors and Firemen's Union has attacked the Institute repeatedly on the ground that it is not run for the benefit of the seamen.

FLAGS TO FLOAT AT PRIMARIES TO-DAY

National Emblem Will Be Displayed in Accordance with New Law.

BALLOTS OF MANY COLORS

Green for the Democrats, Pink for Republicans, and Yellow for Independence League.

Throughout the city to-day the electors will go to the polls and under the provisions of the primary law will nominate the candidates on the municipal, county, and borough tickets, and the candidates for Assembly selected by the various designating committees. For the first time an American flag will be displayed in front of every polling place. This is in accordance with the provisions of a law signed by Gov. Sulzer on June 2 last. The new law provides that the national emblem shall be displayed not only in front of every polling place in primary elections, but in general elections as well. In the City of New York there are 1,780 polling places, and in the entire State the number is 4,900. The Board of Elections will withhold the pay of the Chairman of the Board of Election Inspectors in every election district until the flag and other election paraphernalia are returned.

Six parties instead of the usual five will nominate their candidates for the forthcoming campaign to-day. The added party is the National Progressive, which did not acquire legal standing as a political party until after election last November. This necessitated a special enrollment last Spring in order that the Bull Moose followers might vote under their party emblem to-day. The remaining five parties which will participate in to-day's primaries are the Republican, Democratic, Socialist, Prohibition, and Independence League.

Because the designation of James A. Allen as Mayoralty candidate of the Independence League reached the office of the Board of Elections after the printers had started work on the ballots, stickers have been printed and the name of Mr. Allen will be pasted at the top of the column by the Election Inspectors after they have opened their supply of ballots at the polling places.

The polls will open at 3 o'clock this afternoon and will remain open until 9 o'clock to-night. In the even-numbered election districts the Democrats will vote at the usual polling places and the members of the other parties will vote in the usual polling places of the nearest odd-numbered election district.

The voters will make nominations today of candidates to fill two Supreme Court vacancies, and will also nominate a successor to Stephen J. Stilwell as Senator in the Twenty-first Senatorial District.

The vacancy in Congress caused by the resignation of Francis Burton Harrison, who has been appointed Governor General of the Philippines, will be filled at the general election, although designees for the seat will not appear on the ballots to-day. The Secretary of State has ordered special meetings held of the Designating Committees of the various parties in the Twentieth Congressional District to make selections for his place.

Nothing as yet has been done about nominating a successor in Congress to Timothy D. Sullivan.

The death of Mayor Gaynor does not affect to-day's primary elections, as his nominating petitions were for a place on the general election ballot.

In order to simplify the work of the election officials the various party ballots in to-day's primaries will be of differing colors, as follows: Democratic, green; Republican, pink; Independence League, yellow; Socialist, buff, Prohibition, mandarin, and National Progressive, light blue.

GAYNOR MEN ARE AT ODDS.

Committee Will Determine Upon Future Course of Action.

On the part of the political supporters of the late Mayor Gaynor there was a marked inclination yesterday to drop discussion until after the Mayor's funeral next Monday. There was besides a feeling that it would be wise to await the revelations to be made to-day of the real opinions of the electorate at the primaries.

The Gaynor headquarters at the Hotel Breslin was closed, it was announced, until the end of the week. No one will be surprised if the headquarters is not opened again. R. Ross Appleton, President of the Gaynor League, issued a statement in which he said that the Mayor could have no successor. A number of the organizations which had helped to form the league met yesterday in the offices of William Lustgarten at 67 William Street and formally resolved to carry into effect the Mayor's wishes. These they defined as keeping the city from falling into the hands of certain corrupt politicians, so that although Mr. Lustgarten said all political debate was to be avoided this week, it appears that the organizations represented will oppose the Tammany ticket.

Mr. Appleton returned yesterday from the Adirondacks, where he was when the news of the death of the Mayor was received. In expressing yesterday the opinion that it was impossible to find a candidate to take Mr. Gaynor's place, he said:

"I can only say that in my opinion Judge Gaynor has no duplicate. There is no one to take his place. The Gaynor League was formed to nominate and elect him. Its inspiration was Gaynor. He is dead. I have no heart to look for a successor, no desire to attempt the impossible."

Mr. Lustgarten yesterday fired another broadside at Fire Commissioner Johnson, although he said that there was no sense in entering "into a personal squabble with a political hireling of the Johnson type." He asserted that it had not been the desire of the Municipal Democracy or himself to do or say anything until after the Mayor's funeral, until, as he said, the Commissioner "had been discovered 'casting lots upon the garments' of the dead Mayor within an hour after the confirmation of the Mayor's death."

"My presence at the Gaynor headquarters in the Hotel Breslin," Mr. Lustgarten went on, "was not because of any friendship for Johnson or speaking acquaintance with the gentlemen forming the Mayor Gaynor Fusion and Nominating League. I was there at the personal behest and request of Mayor Gaynor. On Sunday, Aug. 31, I called on the Mayor at his home in St. James. I spent several hours with him, and he urged upon me the necessity of being constantly at headquarters and watching every move that was being made, for he was afraid of being 'sold out.'"

Mr. Lustgarten thereupon called a meeting of the Executive Committee of the Municipal Democracy, at which, after a resolution of regret at the death of the Mayor had been adopted, it was decided to pledge the support of the organization to the Fusion ticket. The reasons for this move were explained in a formal motion.

The organization was, it was said, now limited in its choice to the support of a ticket headed by a man "who has on many occasions spoken harshly and unjustly of our dead leader," or a ticket made up of men "whose treachery and injustice in denying Mayor Gaynor his well-earned renomination was the proximate cause of his sudden death."

As in his last speech Mayor Gaynor had referred to Tammany as the enemy, and as he would in the opinion of the organization undoubtedly have united all the anti-Tammany elements, now they could, they considered, do nothing else but support the Fusion candidates as the one strong anti-Tammany force.

In Mr. Lustgarten's office there was a meeting later of representatives of the County Club of New York, the Williamsburg Association, the Williamsburg Professional Men, the People's League, the Gaynor Club of the Twenty-eighth District, the Business men's Progressive Association, the Flushing Gaynor League, the Citizens' Democracy, the Gaynor Club of the Thirtieth District, the East Side Gaynor League, the Bedford Gaynor League, the Woodhaven Gaynor League, the Shinnecock Club, the Brownsville Gaynor League, the Williamsburg Business Men's League, the Gaynor Builders' League, the Twenty-second District Fusion Committee, the Citizens' Fusion Committee, and the Municipal Democracy.

John H. Leach, representing the Woodhaven Gaynor League, said that his organization could not support Mr. Mitchel, but all discussion was cut off at this juncture as unseemly, and the delegates present adopted a resolution saying simply that two representatives of each of these organizations should form a committee to carry into effect Mayor Gaynor's wishes.

This committee, it appeared yesterday, cannot rely on the support of the Gaynor League of Foreign Born Citizens, of which Joseph Barondess is the head. He said that he would work with neither Mr. Johnson nor Mr. Lustgarten, but would probably none the less support Mr. Mitchel.

"After all," he said, "the main issue is to defeat Tammany Hall."

Leonard M. Wallstein, one of the County Committeemen of the National Progressive Party, expressed the opinion yesterday that it would be illegal for Commissioner Johnson to substitute the name of any other candidate for that of Mayor on the nominating petitions unless he obtained new signatures. He quoted a precedent at the last election. Justice Chester of Albany refused to permit such a procedure.

TO FIGHT GAYNOR'S FIGHT.

Clews Says Mayor's Friends Will Keep After Grafters.

Special to The New York Times.

SARATOGA, Sept. 15.—Henry Clews in discussing the New York Mayoralty situation to-day said that the Gaynor party would not die with the Mayor. Mr. Clews had reference to the Gaynor Fusion and Nominating League, with which many other organizations were affiliated.

"We cannot hope to find a man equal to the Mayor," said Mr. Clews, "but we shall not give up our resolve to remain a separate party, and aid in every way possible the cause of good government in New York. We are organized now, and we will remain organized. If we can't get a Mayoralty candidate, and I fear it will be a hard job, we shall remain in statu quo, continuing our existence and fighting for the good of the city all the time.

"Mr. Schiff, Mr. Ridder, and myself are determined upon this. We are ready to spend any amount to defeat the grafters. William R. Willcox would make a good, strong candidate. We have thought of him seriously."

ALLEN CHARGES TRICKERY.

No Plan, He Says, to Turn League Over to Tammany.

James A. Allen, the Independence League candidate for Mayor, replied angrily last night to the suggestion that because he had recommended that the league's members should vote today for one Tammany designee for General Sessions Judge and for the Tammany designee for City Court Judge in place of C. C. Nott and William L. Ransom, the Fusion nominees, he was going over body and soul to Tammany Hall. He was only urging, he maintained, the exercise of the rights conferred by the direct nominations law, and he described it as pathetic to see John J. Hopper, the Independence League County Chairman, "so subservient to bossism."

"In response to the statements contained in the newspapers of this morning to the effect that an effort is being made to turn the Independence League over to Tammany Hall," said Mr. Allen last night, "I desire to say that that is a dishonest construction of the effort of myself and friends to maintain the principles and self-respect of the league, and is meant to be a dishonest construction of such effort."

Then Mr. Allen went on to say in his formal statement that "this hue and cry of turning the league over to Tammany Hall" was meant to deter the league from taking advantage of the direct primary law, and "the hope of thereby driving them into ratifying at the polls trickery on the part of the Fusion Committee of 110, which would not be tolerated even in Tammany Hall."

In his formal statement Mr. Allen goes on to say that he has no objection whatever to the nomination for Judge of General Sessions of William H. Wadhams, as he considers him in every way qualified, personally and professionally, but he criticises the designations of Assistant District Attorney Nott for the same court, and William L. Ransom for the City Court.

"We were and are," he goes on, "opposed to the selection of Mr. Cardozo for the Supreme Court, to Mr. Nott for General Sessions, and to Mr. Ransom for the City Court, because their selections were involved in such trickery, treachery and dishonor, (for which, however, they were in no wise to blame personally,) as would not be countenanced even in Tammany Hall."

Then Mr. Allen takes a slap at Mr. Hopper, County Chairman of the party which has designated him, and accuses him of subserviency to bossism. This is what he says:

"The most pathetic thing about the whole matter is to see John J. Hopper, who has labored for many years to procure the enactment of a direct nominations law, become so soothed into subserviency to bossism by nomination at the hands of the Fusion Committee as to seek to nullify the effect of that law now that it is obtained by making the unfounded charge of an attempt by Tammany Hall to steal our primaries."

To all members of the league Mr. Allen sent yesterday a circular signed by himself and twelve other members, including Deputy County Clerk Charles E. Gehring, James A. Donegan, who once ran for the City Court on the league ticket, and Abraham G. Meyer, in which they are advised to write on the primary ballots to-day the names of Warren W. Foster for General Sessions and Robert L. Luce for the City Court. Sample primary ballots marked to show how the changes may be made are included.

PROGRESSIVES HAVE FEARS.

Hear Republicans Will Try to Have Their Candidates Written In.

The Executive Committee of the Progressive Party in New York County met at their headquarters in Washington Square yesterday and discussed reports that the Republicans at the primaries to-day might attempt to steal the Progressive designations for Assembly and Aldermen by having the voters write in on the Progressive ballots the names of the Republican candidates.

Badges were given to the district leaders and the watchers at the polls, and they were instructed to watch each voter carefully, and if any attempt at fraud was discovered to have the voter arrested.

The report that Job E. Hedges would be selected to run Mr. Mitchel's campaign was also discussed. The Progressives are against the selection of Mr. Mitchel, it was said, because they feel that they should have a share in the running of the campaign.

HAS PLAN TO BEAT POUNDS.

Democratic Candidate Arouses Anger of Moose Leaders in Kings.

Supporters of Lewis H. Pounds, designated by the Fusionists for Borough President of Brooklyn, were perturbed yesterday when they learned that Frank Mann, the Democratic candidate for the office, was seeking to defeat Mr. Pounds for the Progressive nomination in the primaries to-day. Mr. Mann has been sending circulars to the rank and file of the Progressives, overlooking the leaders, asking them to write his name in the blank space on the ballot opposite the printed name of Mr. Pounds.

One of these letters, by mistake, it is said, was sent to Controller Prendergast. There was indignation among the Progressive leaders over the move. They assured Mr. Pounds that they would make every effort to defeat Mr. Mann's plan.

"I do not think that any one will be deceived in this matter," said Mr. Pounds. "It is so palpably an attempt to repudiate and reverse the recommendation of the Executive Committee of the Progressive Party and the action taken by that party as a designating committee that it will not carry much weight."

In reference to the matter Mr. Mann said:

"Does Mr. Woodruff, who claims to be the head of the Progressive Party in the borough, believe he has a copyright on the makeup of the primary ballot? I am entering the contest as a legitimate right, open and above board, and only ask for a free expression of judgment."

THAW IN HANDS OF U. S. MARSHAL

He Will Be Taken Before a Federal Judge To-day and Jerome Will Contest Writ.

ECHO OF THE POKER GAME

Canadian Constable Who Arrested Jerome Crosses Line and Is Locked Up on Old Charge.

Special to The New York Times.

COLEBROOK, N. H., Sept. 15.—Harry K. Thaw has passed into the hands of the Federal authorities, and what may be the last leg of his fight for liberty will begin to-morrow morning. United States Marshal E. P. Nute arrived in Colebrook during the afternoon, armed with an order of the United States District Court, directing that he take charge of Thaw with Sheriff Drew. The Sheriff was out of town, and was not served until 8 o'clock to-night.

Marshal Nute will take Thaw to Littleton to-morrow morning on an early train, and will produce him before Judge Aldrich at 11 o'clock, when arguments will be heard on the Federal writ of habeas corpus.

Mr. Jerome predicted to-day that there would be no long delay. He tried to end the case Saturday night by sending Bernard Jacobs to Concord with the extradition papers signed by Acting Gov. Glynn. He hoped that the Governor would sign the papers immediately, but this request was refused.

Mr. Jerome said he would appear in court to-morrow and ask that an adjournment be refused on the writ. He will argue that the writ was sued out in bad faith, and said he was confident it would be dismissed.

Thaw probably will be taken from Littleton to Concord to-morrow night for the hearing on the question of extradition before Gov. Felker on Wednesday morning.

Mr. Jerome believes that the hearing will occupy only a short time. If Thaw is ordered extradited and the Federal warrant is dismissed, he will endeavor to get possession of Thaw and carry him to New York State before another writ can be sued out by Thaw's lawyers. With the Federal courts taking cognizance of the case for the first time, it is felt here that Thaw's lawyers must put aside hope of long delay. Some of Thaw's lawyers are now in Concord endeavoring to arrange for a further appeal to the courts in the event that they lose the fight before the Governor.

Jerome's Foe Arrested.

Constable John G. Andrews of Coaticook, Quebec, the man who arrested Mr. Jerome because he played poker a week ago last Thursday, appeared in the limelight again to-day, much to his discomfiture. Andrews dropped into town to bid Thaw good-bye and found that he had walked into a trap. To-night he was detained on an old charge that he had brought a pauper into the United States.

Sitting in the lobby of the Monadnock Hotel, where Thaw was under guard, the grizzled old constable—he is 75—scratched his head reflectively when asked why he had been arrested.

"I dunno," he replied. "Maybe you can help me out and tell me why."

It turned out that Andrews owed his undoing to the fact that he had played so prominent a part in placing New York State's Deputy Attorney General in a cell of the Coaticook Jail the day after the poker game.

When he was released on bail Mr. Jerome went to Nortons Mills, Vt., believing that Thaw would be deported summarily. He met George R. Allen, United States Immigration Inspector, who told him of the charge hanging over Andrews. Allen said that he would arrest the constable if he could induce him to come into the United States.

Strays Into Trap.

Constable Andrews drove into Colebrook by automobile early this afternoon with his wife and two friends. He was born at East Columbia, eight miles from here in New Hampshire, and knew half the residents of Colebrook. Capt. John Lanyon, Mr. Jerome's private detective, saw him discussing the Thaw case with a little group of men in front of the Post Office. He telephoned to Inspector Allen, who was at Island Pond, and received instructions to have the constable watched. Allen said he would come with the warrant.

Chief of Police Kelly shadowed the constable so successfully that Andrews began to suspect that something was wrong. He nudged his wife and they edged over toward the automobile. Then Kelly stepped forward and tapped Andrews on the shoulder.

"What's the matter, Charlie?" asked the constable with a sickly smile.

"Don't know," said Chief Kelly. "But they want you."

Arm in arm Kelly and Andrews started for the Monadnock Hotel, with Capt. Lanyon following. Chief Kelly picked out the most conspicuous place in the hotel lobby, and seated Andrews there. Mr. Jerome passed by, gave Andrews a glance, and hurried his steps. The crowd of men in the lobby laughed.

"Do you think Mr. Jerome had anything to do with this?" Andrews was asked.

"I wouldn't express an opinion," he replied. "If I did and I was wrong I wouldn't be able to go to him and ask him to forgive me. He would be away.

"I didn't treat him bad in Coaticook. Why, I fought the people away when they wanted to squint at him through the cell bars, thinking he looked like something on exhibit there. I told them I wouldn't let any of them ever have the right to say they had seen Jerome behind the bars."

Thaw was told of Andrews's predicament and at once offered to defend him. As a result Ira Oakes, one of the Thaw counsel, was put on the case. Inspector Allen arrived in town at 8:30 o'clock tonight by automobile and took charge of Andrews. It is understood that the constable was indicted by the Federal Grand Jury at Windsor some time ago on the allegation that he and another man had sent a penniless woman over the line to Reading, Mass., on an excursion train.

PLAN NEW SANITY TEST.

Thaw to be Held for Conspiracy if He Is Brought Back.

Special to The New York Times.

BEACON, N. Y., Sept. 15.—That William Travers Jerome will endeavor to have Harry K. Thaw brought back on the conspiracy charge and not because of insanity is asserted by persons in close touch with every move being made in the Thaw case. Sheriff Hornbeck has a warrant charging Thaw with conspiracy. If Thaw is turned over to the New York State authorities it will be on this charge, it is asserted. The plan is to bring Thaw to the Dutchess County jail on the conspiracy charge. He then will be examined by two physicians and if found insane will be committed to Matteawan. Thaw's lawyers always have made much of the fact that he was not being confined as a criminal because he had been acquitted by a jury. Should he be committed to Matteawan after arrest on the conspiracy charge and examination, his status would be the same as that of other patients.

PRESS MONTREAL WRIT.

But Hearing of Thaw's Fight on Immigration Law Is Put Off.

Special to The New York Times.

MONTREAL, Que., Sept. 15.—N. K. La Flamme, K. C., one of the Thaw counsel, announced to-day that should the Court of King's Bench decide that the immigration act was unconstitutional, it would be sufficient ground on which to ask for Thaw's return to Canada. This is interpreted to mean that an effort will be made to have Thaw returned to the Dominion once his counsel's contention that the act is irregular is established.

The hearing of the habeas corpus writ was postponed until Thursday morning. The postponement was asked by Gustave Lamothe, who had been retained as Dominion counsel in the case.

The most important point raised by the counsel for the Immigration Department, and which indicated the line along which the defense would conduct its fight, was the statement that the notice of the writ did not reach Coaticook until after the decision of the Immigration Board had been reached, although that decision was not announced until later in the day.

E. Blake Robinson, Assistant Superintendent of Immigration; T. D. Whillans, P. R. Thornton, Theodore C. Garceau, and D. H. Reynolds, the members of the board who were defendants in this case, did not appear. Judge Gervais inquired as to their absence and why they had not appeared to tell the court why the one demanded by the writ was not there. Dominion counsel promised that all would be present at the hearing on Thursday.

PLEA TO PRESIDENT FOR MRS. PANKHURST

Suffragists Find No Comfort in Secretary of Labor's Reply on Right to Land.

LEAVES ALL TO INSPECTORS

Mrs. Blatch for Woman's Political Union Urges President Wilson to Follow Last Administration's Ruling.

The reply of Secretary Wilson of the Department of Labor at Ellis Island for a special examination to the question whether Mrs. Emmeline Pankhurst would be detained when she landed in New York, just received by the Women's Political Union, is not considered satisfactory, and the union has now sent a letter to President Wilson.

The telegram received yesterday from Secretary Wilson reads:

> Washington, Sept. 15, 1913.
>
> Mrs. Harriot Stanton Blatch, New York.
>
> Replying to your telegram of yesterday, would say that Inspectors of Immigration have original jurisdiction of aliens seeking admission to the United States. The department has appellate jurisdiction, and that only in cases of persons excluded by Inspectors. If Mrs. Emmeline Pankhurst seeks admission to the United States her case will be handled in exactly the same way as any other alien seeking admission.
>
> W. B. WILSON.

The union says this is "evasive and unsatisfactory." This is the letter sent to President Wilson by the President of the union:

> New York, Sept. 15, 1913.
>
> To his Excellency, Woodrow Wilson, President of the United States, Washington, D. C.:
>
> My dear President Wilson—Because of persistent rumors, the Women's Political Union sent a telegram to the Secretary of Labor, a copy of which I inclose. A copy of the Secretary's reply is also forwarded with this letter.
>
> The Women's Political Union finds this answer of the Department of Labor in marked contrast to the assurances received from the Secretary of Labor under the last Administration at the time of Mrs. Pankhurst's first and second visits to America. In 1910 the then Secretary of Labor, to our inquiry as to what treatment Mrs. Pankhurst would receive at the Port of New York, immediately assured us that, as Mrs. Pankhurst's acts in England showed no "moral turpitude," she could enter the country as would any other visiting foreigner. In 1911, when Mrs. Pankhurst's second visit occurred, we received to our inquiry as to the proposed attitude of the immigration authorities toward her the same reply as in 1910. Mrs. Pankhurst's acts were regarded throughout the Taft Administration as not showing "moral turpitude."
>
> At the end of March of this year, for the first time one of the English militants was held for inquiry at one of our ports, but in the end it was again decided that, although Miss Florence Ward had been imprisoned many times for destroying property in connection with the struggle of women for political freedom in England, her acts in no way showed "moral turpitude," and she was admitted to the United States at the Port of Boston, Mass.
>
> In the case of Miss Ward, she not being widely known, there may have been ground for subjecting her to a searching inquiry, but surely no such excuse could be offered in defense of subjecting Mrs. Pankhurst to such treatment. No intelligent person but knows that Mrs. Pankhurst is engaged in a political struggle with the English Government and has no political connection and is not seeking any with the authorities of the United States.
>
> We urge the present Administration to take exactly the same frank and unequivocal position invariably held by the last Administration and refuse to introduce into the Immigration Department any invidious distinction between the treatment accorded those who are conducting a fight for political freedom of women in England and that accorded those who are conducting a fight for the political freedom of men in Russia. We ask for Mrs. Pankhurst and the militants of Great Britain the same treatment by the immigration officials as that shown the Russian revolutionists Mme. Breshkovsky and Count Tschaikovsky. They were not subjected to any inquiry as to their acts in Russia or attitude toward the Czar, and no English militant should be required to answer questions in regard to their attitude toward the English Government. I am respectfully yours,
>
> HARRIOT STANTON BLATCH.

"Mrs. Blatch feels," said an officer of the union, "that she can speak with knowledge much more exhaustive and accurate than that of the Secretary of Labor or of any of the persons who are discussing the matter as to the treatment of foreigners entering our ports, because for thirty years she has made repeated entries as an alien. Never in her experience has she been questioned by any immigration authority as to her opinions or attitude toward this or any foreign Government. She has merely made out her declaration and handed it in as do other foreigners, and she only hopes that the department may, as it says, 'handle Mrs. Pankhurst's case' in exactly the same way as that of any other alien."

SUFFRAGE SCHOOL OPENS.

150 Women Enrolled in Mrs. Chapman Catt's Training Courses.

The unique two weeks' school for suffragists arranged by Mrs. Chapman Catt, President of the International Woman Suffrage Association, which recently met at Budapest, opened yesterday morning at the headquarters of the New York State Woman Suffrage Association, 180 Madison Avenue, with nearly 150 women present. They were of all ages and from all parts of the country, and included a member of one of the militant suffrage organizations of England, Miss Eva Ward.

Originally the school was intended to train a few needed organizers—a dozen, Mrs. Catt hoped—to work in New York State to educate the voters for 1915 when the question of woman suffrage will be put before the people. The interest was so universal that it was decided to make the school one for national work. Women from seventeen States have registered, coming from as far south as Texas.

After the opening of the school at 9:30 o'clock its purpose was explained. Then Mrs. James Clarkson took the first hour for the history of woman suffrage and in the second hour Mrs. Catt gave a history of government from the time of the cave man to the present democracy, showing woman's position in it. Of the morning sessions of the school four each week will be given over to a study of organization and two to parliamentary law. The afternoon sessions will be devoted to public speaking and voice culture, Miss J. M. Long and Mrs. Beatrice Forbes Robertson Hale being the instructors.

legislative acts which will arm the authorities of the States concerned with ample power to secure the improvement of one of the most important of the food supplies for New York's vast population.

Yours very truly,
WILLIAM SULZER.

Dr. Broder said the three delegates met at the Academy of Medicine, and after deliberating four or five days, drew up a report which was sent to the Governor. Later he said Mr. Sulzer sent for him, told him the report was all right and that the next thing to do was to put the recommendation in the report in the form of a bill to be introduced in the Legislature, and that when the bill was passed it would provide for the appointment of a permanent commission, and that Dr. Broder would be one of the commissioners. Wilson Hoover, a lawyer, said Dr. Broder drafted a bill and it was sent to the Governor. In a day or two he said he received this letter from the Governor:

> State of New York.
> Executive Chamber,
> Albany.
> Feb. 19, 1913.
>
> Dr. Julius Broder,
> 103 East Sixteenth Street,
> New York City.
>
> My dear Doctor: I have had your bill introduced in the Legislature by Assemblyman Levy, the Democratic leader. I am sending you by this mail under separate cover a half dozen copies.
>
> You and all interested in this bill should write to Mr. Levy to fix a date for a hearing, and then you should appear before the committee and urge its favorable report and passage.
>
> With best wishes, believe me, as ever,
> Very sincerely your friend,
> WILLIAM SULZER.

Dr. Broder said he saw Mr. Sulzer many times thereafter, and that on one occasion Mr. Sulzer suggested that he get prominent people to come before the Assembly Ways and Means Committee and advocate the passage of the bill. Among [illegible] it, said Dr. Broder, was Dr. Lederle, Health Commissioner; Dr. Hermann Biggs and Dr. Parks of the Health Department, and a number of physicians and representatives of milk companies. When the Legislature adjourned without passing the bill Dr. Broder said he went to Mr. Sulzer, who told him he was sorry the bill had not passed and that he would still continue to use his efforts to have a bill of that sort passed.

Upbraided the Governor.

"I saw him again, once or twice after that," said Dr. Broder, "but got no satisfaction from him, and I finally wrote him a very sharp letter in which I told him in substance that I had not been taken care of, and I reminded him of the work that I had done for him, and I received a reply from him in which he acknowledged that I had been of service to him and said that he was my friend and that he would surely take care of me." Dr. Broder produced this letter:

> STATE OF NEW YORK.
> EXECUTIVE CHAMBER.
> Albany, April 19, 1913.
>
> Dr. Julius Broder, 103 East Sixteenth Street, New York City.
>
> My dear Doctor:
>
> Thanks for your letter. I appreciate all you say, and, of course, I am a friend of yours, and will do everything in my power to help you. More later on.
>
> With best wishes and hoping the data I am sending you by this mail under separate cover will interest you, believe me as ever.
>
> Very sincerely your friend.
> WILLIAM SULZER.

At the morning session of the board it was announced that the board's counsel was convinced that Frederick L. Colwell, who is supposed to know all about Mr. Sulzer's Stock Exchange transactions, was being kept in hiding so that he would not be able to give testimony at the trial. Search for Mr. Colwell has been made at points as far distant as Canada and the Pacific Coast. Aaron J. Levy, Chairman of the board, gave out a statement calling upon Mr. Sulzer to aid in the search for the witness.

"Information in the possession of the counsel to the managers," says the statement, "would indicate that Colwell is absenting himself from the jurisdiction of the court in this State at the direct instigation of the Governor for the purpose of avoiding testifying against the Governor. It is known that on the very day when Colwell was to appear before the Frawley Committee he was in communication by long distance telephone with the Governor, and following his talk with the Governor it is known that he asked his home at Yonkers to have his bags packed and to meet him at a northbound train at the Yonkers station, which was done."

Hugh J. Reilly, the Cuban contractor, who had dealings with Mr. Sulzer when the latter was in Congress, was another witness before the Board of Managers yesterday, but no information regarding what he talked about was given out.

The board will hold another session at 87 Wall Street to-day, the last before the impeachment proceedings begins.

SUBPOENA J. J. MURPHY.

TROY, N. Y., Sept. 15.—Joseph J. Murphy, leader of the Rensselaer County Democracy, and son of the late United States Senator Edward Murphy, Jr., was served with a subpoena to-day to appear before the Board of Managers in charge of the Sulzer impeachment proceedings in New York to-morrow morning. Mr. Murphy said he was willing to appear, and had nothing to conceal.

The Troy politician is a warm personal friend of Mr. Sulzer, and was one of the largest contributors to the Sulzer campaign fund. Gov. Sulzer appointed several Rensselaer County Democrats to lucrative positions. It was alleged before the Frawley Committee that Mr. Sulzer had negotiated State patronage for contributions to the fund and opposed the advancement of the Sulzer Primary bill. Mr. Murphy also made a large contribution to the fund to finance Mr. Sulzer's direct primary fight.

FEW CAN HEAR SULZER TRIAL.

Special to The New York Times.

ALBANY, Sept. 15.—The personal letters sent to members of the Legislature urging their presence at the session Wednesday night to act on necessary financial legislation were followed to-night with telegrams sent to all the legislators by the clerks of both Houses.

The intense interest in the Sulzer impeachment trial will, it is expected, do much to assemble the three-fifths membership of the Assembly necessary for the passage of financial bills. But the limited space for spectators in the courtroom galleries will disappoint many who come. Already Assemblymen are complaining because there is no place provided for them. On the floor of the court there will be room for not to exceed a dozen persons besides the court counsel, Board of Managers, witnesses, and newspaper correspondents. There have applied for seats on the floor more than 200 correspondents, with only 51 seats to be had. This is 20 more than was originally planned.

The talk of postponing the proceedings of the court for at least a week after it assembles is given no credence. D Cady Herrick, counsel for Mr. Sulzer, said to-day that he knew of no occasion for a postponement even at the start, and Harold Corbin, for ex-Senator Brackett, counsel for the Board of Managers, went before Justice Van Kirk today and asked to have the cases in which Mr. Brackett was counsel put over.

ALL GERMANY RAISES MISOTHORIUM FUNDS

Cities Devote Public Money to Purchase of Alleged Panacea for Cancer.

SUBSTANCE IS VERY COSTLY

Physicians Favor Movement; Surgeons Skeptical—One Patient Swallowed the Misothorium.

By Marconi Transatlantic Wireless Telegraph to The New York Times.

LONDON, Tuesday, Sept. 16.—A telegram from Munich to The Times says:

"All Germany is obsessed with the idea of procuring misothorium as a panacea for cancer. It is stated to have the power of emanating rays similar to but much more effective than those of radium. Its cost seems almost as great.

"The substance is derived from thorium. It is used in tiny portions inclosed in a silver covering, in which extremely small holes are pierced. The silver box is then placed upon the part affected with cancerous growth, and it is said slowly but effectually to remove traces of the disease.

"There is hardly an important town in the country which has not voted a large sum from the public funds for the purpose of purchasing some of the costly material. Where public funds are not forthcoming, concerts, bazaars, and such like means are adopted for the raising of money for the purpose.

"Medical men to whom I have spoken seemed to favor the movement for procuring misothorium, but I have not been fortunate enough to meet a medical man who has actually tried it.

"Surgeons, on the other hand, are not unanimous in their opinions. A leading surgeon informed me that so far as he could judge, the new product might have beneficial effects in many cases, just as radium was also beneficial, but he could find no proof that it was an actual panacea. In fact, he was rather skeptical about the claims made for it. This view is also taken by one or two leading practitioners in the north.

"A surgeon referred to one case of gastro-cancer where the misothorium box, to which a cord was attached, was then lowered into the stomach. The patient bit through the cord and swallowed it. He was immediately operated upon for the purpose of recovering the valuable box."

15 KILLED IN HOUSE'S FALL.

Explosion of a Gas Main at Coburg Causes Collapse of Building.

COBURG, Sept. 15.—Eight persons are known to have been killed, the bodies of seven others are believed to be buried in the ruins, and six more were injured by the collapse of a tenement house caused by a gas explosion here last night. Six families were in the building.

Soldiers and firemen are at work digging out the rest of the victims.

The explosion, which occurred in the gas main in the middle of the street, was so violent that it lifted the house bodily several feet. Fire then started. Several of the injured are badly burned.

DOG BITES 4 CHILDREN.

Seizes Man Who Goes to Their Aid—Dog Shot by a Policeman.

Four children and a man were bitten yesterday afternoon by a large Dalmatian dog, which ran snapping through Fifteenth Street, Brooklyn. The victims of the dog were Gustave Schroeder, 27 years old, of 412 Seventh Avenue; Serino Ventimiglio, 5 years old, of the same address; Emily McCormick, 4 years, of 460 Twelfth Street; Richard Brown, 4 years old, of 429 Fifth Avenue, and William Black, 3 years old, of 561 Tenth Street.

The children were playing near the corner of Fifteenth Street and Seventh Avenue when the dog ran among them, snapping and snarling. Hearing the screams of the children, Schroeder went to their assistance, and the dog turned upon him, seizing him by the right arm. Patrolman James Daly came on a run and shot the dog. The carcass of the dog was sent to the Board of Health for examination. Physicians cauterized the wounds of those who had been bitten.

LOFT BUILDING ABLAZE.

Three Alarms Near Midnight from Crosby Street—Woman Rescued.

Three alarms were sounded for a fierce fire in the seven-story loft building at 13, 15, and 17 Crosby Street at 11:50 o'clock last night. Within half an hour, too, the fire was under control of Chief enlon. Thousands of persons were drawn to the scene. The damage was estimated at $60,000.

Patrolman Carl Fisher of the Mulberry Street Station discovered the fire on the second floor of the loft building while he was passing on patrol, and he turned in the first alarm.

Chief Kenlon ordered the tenants of the five-story tenement house at 19 Crosby Street out of their apartments. The fire did not reach this tenement, but the smoke filled the halls and rooms almost to suffocation.

The police of the Mulberry Street Station searched the house from cellar to garret, and took many of the women in night clothes to the station house. No one noticed, apparently, that one elderly woman had found her way to the roof, and it was not until half an hour after the fire started that a man on Crosby Street saw her waving her hands in despair on the housetop.

Policeman O'Connor made his way to the roof up the tenement stairs. The trapdoor leading from the garret to the roof he found wedged so tightly that it was impossible to open it from the roof. He found the woman, Angelica Rozerta, in a hysterical condition. She was soon to be a mother, it was said. O'Connor carried her to the pavement and a neighbor took her in.

The ground floor of the big loft building was occupied by S. Deniers, manufacturer of mirrors. The second floor, where the fire started, was occupied by the Central Chandelier Company; the third and seventh by the Century and Gas and Electric Fixture Company. The fifth and sixth floors were vacant.

Eight firemen under Battalion Chief Pelle were caught in a back draught when at work on the back of the second floor, and although all were bowled over, they managed to scamper to safety. None was reported hurt.

BOUTROUX TO TALK HERE.

Will Speak at Columbia as Well as at Princeton and, Perhaps, Harvard

By Marconi Transatlantic Wireless Telegraph to The New York Times.

PARIS, Sept. 15.—Emile Boutroux, the well-known Academician, stated to-day that his forthcoming visit to America was connected with the opening of a new college at Princeton University, which he was to attend in company with the German philosopher Alois Riehl.

M. Boutroux's address at the inaugural exercises will deal with "Science and Culture." He will also give two lectures at Columbia University, one on the Thiers Foundation and the other on "The Evolution of Contemporary Philosophy." He is likely to speak at Harvard as well.

Recalling his visit to Harvard in 1910, M. Boutroux to-day paid a tribute to the late Prof. William James, saying he was surprised that Prof. James was able to indulge in high thought at his charming home at Cambridge "amid the chatter of women over teacups."

M. Boutroux's own study is devoid of creature comforts. The room is uncarpeted and furnished only with a desk, hard chairs, and bookcases.

FAITH AIDS LOURDES 'CURES'

Doctors and Nurses Impressed by Improvement in Non-Superstitions.

By Marconi Transatlantic Wireless Telegraph to The New York Times.

LONDON, Tuesday, Sept. 16.—The medical correspondent of The Daily Mail telegraphs from Lourdes:

"While there have been startling and complete cures of unmistakable organic disease during the Irish pilgrimage, I have been greatly struck by the large number of cases of improvement, which I can only attribute to the profound faith which actuates the habitues of the shrine of Lourdes.

"The cases of patients who, though grievously crippled, have convinced nurses and doctors that they have distinctly improved since their arrival are too numerous to mention. A few who benefited are ignorant peasants. The majority, however, are well-educated and level-headed men and women, not in the least likely to be led away by mere superstition.

"The doctors, nurses, and lay pilgrims, who leave Lourdes to-morrow, cannot fail to be impressed by the undoubted benefit the devout sick may hope for by blessings from Our Lady of Lourdes."

STRIKE IN DUBLIN GROWS.

5,000 Builders Join Ranks of Idle—Food Scarce and Poor Suffer.

DUBLIN, Sept. 15.—The labor situation has assumed a more serious phase and the city is affected to a greater extent by the strike than in any in its history. To-day 5,000 builders went out after refusing to sign a declaration proposed by the employers that they would not join with or support the Transport Workers' Union which started the original strike.

Two thousand farm laborers and 600 dock workers are also out. Four steamers, loaded with grain, are unable to discharge. Food is running short and the poor are beginning to suffer.

TO AID WORLD'S WORKERS.

Berne Conference Begun—Another to Discuss Limiting Work Hours.

BERNE, Sept. 15.—An international conference for the protection of workers, convoked by the Swiss Federal Council, opened here to-day.

E. Schulthess, head of the Swiss Department of Commerce, Industry, and Agriculture, delivered a speech in which he laid stress on the importance of a conference which has been called by the International Association for the Protection of Workers, with the object of preparing conventions limiting the working day to ten hours for women and young industrial laborers, and also forbidding the employment of the latter in night work. He asked that the Federal Council invite other Governments to send delegates to this conference.

SERVICE FOR CAPT. HAYES.

On her arrival at the home port Capt. Richard Hayes will receive a silver tea and coffee service from the officers of a regiment that was taken from Jamaica to Portsmouth, England, last October. This is in appreciation of his seamanship in bringing the Orotava safe through a dangerous hurricane.

Bulgars, Deserted by Powers, Also Lose Much Other Territory.

CONSTANTINOPLE, Sept. 15.—It is officially announced that an agreement on the principal points of the frontier question was reached at the sitting of the Turkish and Bulgarian peace delegates to-day.

Bulgaria will lose the greater part of Thrace given to her by the Treaty of London. Turkey will take Adrianople, and it is believed will have Kirk-Kilisseh, to the east of the Maritsa River, and a considerable tract to the west of that river.

Bulgaria vainly hoped that the powers would help her to obtain better terms.

NEW WOMEN'S PARTY HEADED BY DUCHESS

Former Consuelo Vanderbilt Founds Organization to Improve Civic Conditions.

IS CONFINED TO LONDON

No Connection with National Suffrage Cause—Well-Known Women Associated with Duchess.

By Marconi Transatlantic Wireless Telegraph to The New York Times.

LONDON, Sept. 15.—The "Women's Municipal Party" is the title of a new organization founded by the Duchess of Marlborough, formerly Consuelo Vanderbilt of New York. It will make a strong attempt to interest women in municipal affairs and promote their election to local Government bodies, on the ground that women are not treated properly in the matter of municipal representation.

The organization consists of women of all political parties. It [illegible] confined to London, and has nothing to do with the suffragette movement in the sphere of national politics.

Associated in the organization with the Duchess of Marlborough, who is its President, are Adeline, Duchess of Bedford; the Countess of Essex, Lady Moira Cavendish, Lady Frances Balfour, Lady Willoughby De Broke, Lady Kathleen Lawrence, Lady Byles, Lady Slack, Viscountess Castlereagh, Countess Brassey, Lady Wolverton, Lady Meyer, Lady Cowdray, the Hon. Mrs. Rochford Maguire, Mrs. Leopold de Rothschild, Mrs. Alec Tweedie, Mrs. Cazalet, Mrs. Leland Buxton, and Mrs. Hylton Dale.

In a description of "the wants of the Women's Municipal Party," which is signed by the Duchess of Marlborough, are the following passages:

"We want for our women and children reform in housing, to include cheap, decent municipal hostels for women, such as are provided for men, and educational reforms, to include grants for play centres and gardens and the utilization of waste spaces.

"We want a greater number of women Inspectors in all municipal services, supervision by women of the female wards of lunatic asylums, inebriate homes for women, day nurseries and baby farms, and better administration of children's acts."

Statements that the Duchess of Marlborough had become a suffragette and a follower of Mrs. Pankhurst were made in a London newspaper last Sunday, with a long article which purported to be "The Duchess of Marlborough's views on women's suffrage."

Replying to an inquiry regarding the accuracy of the announcement, the Duchess sent the following telegram to The Daily Express from Aviemore:

"I have just seen the article in The London Budget. It in no way represents my views."

BERLIN, Sept. 15.—Prince Ludwig Ferdinand of Bavaria, who is not only well known as a surgeon, but is also an active member of the orchestra of the Royal Opera at Munich, rendered first aid to an injured prima donna, Frau Bertha Morena, at a performance of "Tristan und Isolde" last night.

Frau Morena, who is well known at the Metropolitan Opera House in New York, wrenched her arm while manipulating her long veil in one of her Isolde solos. Although the accident caused great distress to her, she insisted on completing the scene. She was then attended by the royal violinist-surgeon.

MURDER ATTEMPT IN CANDY

Man Lays Poisoned Chocolates in Chelsea Children's Path.

Special to The New York Times.

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., Sept. 15.—What is believed to have been an attempt to commit murder with chocolates, in each of which had been placed enough bichloride of mercury to kill two persons, was frustrated by Anna Marshall, a maid, in Chelsea to-day. The police have the box of chocolates and are making an effort to hunt down the man who placed them on the sidewalk in front of children who were approaching from an opposite direction.

Miss Marshall noticed that the man acted strangely. He came up Hartford Avenue from the direction of the boardwalk. He wore no hat, and appeared excited. He went as far as Winchester Avenue, laid the box of chocolate on the sidewalk, and then took to his heels. The children picked up the candies, and were about to sample the contents when Miss Marshall interfered and took the sweets away. She called Policeman Geiger, and told him of the occurrence. He took the candies to a physician near by, who discovered that bichloride had been inserted in the bottoms of the candies.

Satisfied then that the candy had been placed there for the purpose of murder, the policeman took the candy to headquarters, where it was analyzed by Police Surgeon J. T. Beckwith. He said there was sufficient poison in each candy to kill two persons. Chief Woodruff assigned three or four men to hunt up the man, a good description of whom was given by Miss Marshall, who had seen the candy deposited on the sidewalk. Although they searched all over Chelsea, they failed to find him.

BELIEVE SUZANNE HURT.

Explorer Reported Bitten by His Dogs in Woodside Kennels.

Residents of Woodside, L. I., along Kelly Avenue, heard a loud barking of dogs about 8 o'clock last night. It did not take them long to suspect that something had gone wrong in the kennels of Jacques Suzanne, the French arctic explorer, hunter, artist, and dog fancier, who lives at 6 Kelly Avenue. When they went outdoors they heard the door of a kennel where half a dozen fierce Eskimo dogs were confined, shut with a bang, and then they saw a man running from the Suzanne house.

It was believed that Mr. Suzanne had been bitten by one of the sledge-drawing dogs after a fierce fight. None of the doctors in the Woodside was called to the house, however, and there was apparently no one there when a reporter called later. A large number of dogs were protecting the house.

Many of the Eskimo dogs in the Suzanne kennels have taken first prizes at local and Long Island shows. Some of the dogs which Admiral Peary used on his dash to the north pole are in the pack.

The explorer has attributed his success largely to his methods of feeding. Eskimo dogs, he holds, should not be fed more than twice a week, and then they should have about 10 pounds of raw meat each. Nor should the dogs be coddled, he insists. This treatment necessarily makes for viciousness, but it has always been understood in Woodside that the explorer could handle the fiercest of his dogs without the use of club or other safeguard. His dogs weigh from 75 to 100 pounds each.

FORGOT TO ASK DEPUTIES

But Our Ambassador to Brazil Got Over a Difficult Situation.

RIO JANEIRO, Sept. 15.—Edwin V. Morgan, United States Ambassador to Brazil, will leave here to-morrow on an excursion to various States of the Republic. He will be absent for a fortnight, and on his return here will go to the United States on leave of absence.

An incident which caused a slight stir between the American Ambassador and the Chamber of Deputies arose because the Ambassador forgot to send invitations to the members of the Chamber to a ball given by him in honor of Lauro Muller, the Brazilian Foreign Secretary, on Senhor Muller's return from the United States. The matter, however, was arranged in an amicable way, Mr. Morgan paying a visit to the Chamber and explaining the situation.

CAR CRUSHES WOMAN'S FEET

Mrs. Green is Injured in Trying to Avoid an Automobile.

Mrs. Mary Green, 23 years old, of 328 West Fifty-eighth Street, was crossing Seventh Avenue at Forty-eighth Street last night when in avoiding a southbound automobile she stepped in front of a northbound surface car. Before the motorman, Patrick Keating, could stop the car the front wheel had run over the woman's feet.

Policemen Nevins and Hyer removed the woman to a near-by store. Nevins improvised tourniquets from night sticks. An ambulance took the woman to the Polyclinic Hospital, where her feet were amputated.

GENEVA, Sept. 15.—Four experienced Swiss mountain climbers, one of them Mlle. Bunzli of Pontresina, have been missing since Friday on Piz Palu, a summit of the Upper Engadine, in the environs of Pontresina.

As continuous snowstorms have prevailed since then, there is little hope of finding the climbers alive. Two rescue parties of guides, which started from different points, were driven back by fierce windwhirls of snow.

TOKIO, Sept. 15.—The Japanese Government to-day dispatched two cruisers and several torpedo boat destroyers to the Chinese coast.

Japan's demands in connection with the killing of several Japanese subjects in the recent fighting at Nanking have been agreed to in principle by China, but pending their actual settlement and the re-establishment of order the Japanese Government feels that the presence of increased naval forces in Chinese waters is justified.

GENTLEMAN'S AGREEMENT

A gentleman's agreement is one which flourishes in the fertile soil of mutual confidence and good will.

The complexities of a building operation, however, render documentary agreements absolutely necessary for the protection of the contracting parties against misunderstandings which may possibly arise from debatable technicalities.

But between this Company and its clients there exists a gentleman's agreement, based on the Golden Rule, which far transcends the repetitional verbosity of a contract.

ACCLAIM HUERTA AND INDEPENDENCE

Mexico City Crowds Cheer Provisional President Ringing Bell for Nation's Birthday.

BEGINS THE CELEBRATION

Urrutia Resigns from Cabinet—Was Author of the "Ultimatum" to United States.

MEXICO CITY, Sept. 15.—"Viva la Independenca! Viva Mexico!" was the cry which ushered in to-night the celebration of the one hundred and third anniversary of Mexico's independence. As in the capital, so every city, town, and hamlet observed the time-honored custom marking the hour of the ringing of the first liberty bell.

Sharp on the stroke of 11 o'clock, in the presence of thousands who packed the big square in front of the national palace, President Huerta appeared on the balcony, grasped the cord attached to the tongue of the big bell suspended above, and shouted the magic words.

Instantly the crowd, which prior to this had been standing in silent expectation, burst into an echoing roar of vivas for the independence of the nation.

For the fourth successive year a new President officiated at the independence ceremony. Gen. Porfirio Diaz for the last time sounded the liberty bell at the celebration of the one hundredth anniversary in 1910. He was followed by Francisco de la Barra as Provisional President, who in turn was succeeded by Madero a year ago.

Air Filled with Fireworks.

A pelting rain which fell in the early hours of the evening ceased suddenly, and when the hour arrived a brilliant moon had broken through the clouds. Rockets began to soar from every quarter of the city, and for hours the air was filled with bursting fireworks.

The Palace, the Cathedral, and the Municipal Palace, surrounding the big square and park, were outlined in electric lights. Along San Francisco Avenue and Cinco de Mayo Avenue the buildings were ablaze and were gorgeous with flags and bunting.

Preceding the "grito," President and Señora Huerta gave an elaborate reception in the halls of the palace, which was attended by the Government officials, the members of the diplomatic corps, and friends of the Executive and his wife.

To-morrow the celebration will be on in earnest. A monster parade will be the feature, with receptions, speechmaking, and general festivities as accessories.

Dr. Aureliano Urrutia, Minister of the Interior, has left the Cabinet. His resignation was accepted late last night by Provisional President Huerta.

During his short term in office Dr. Urrutia's anti-foreign sentiments have not been disguised, and it is said that the foreign diplomats here were opposed to his retention in the Cabinet. Dr. Urrutia was the author of the so-called Huerta ultimatum to the United States, which was promptly repudiated by Federico Gamboa, the Foreign Minister.

Dr. Urrutia is under charges preferred by Senator Manuel Calero, former Mexican Ambassador at Washington, for arresting him in defiance of his immunity as a Senator.

Dr. Urrutia gave as the reason for his resignation of the Ministry of the Interior that the post required qualities which he did not possess.

CROWDS IN VERA CRUZ.

Great Preparations Made to Celebrate Mexican Independence Day.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

VERA CRUZ, Mexico, Sept. 15.—The start of the Mexican Independence Day celebration, which is to begin late to-night, has aroused great enthusiasm here, and the city is full of visitors, including many Americans.

Although the crowds on the streets this evening are expected to get rough, the police have made excellent arrangements to maintain order.

Mr. Lind has expressed great interest in Provisional President Huerta's message which is to be read to Congress in Mexico City to-morrow.

British Minister Stronge arrived here this afternoon and will sail on the steamer Fuerst Bismarck to-morrow. Mr. Stronge came here in the President's special train. He is a warm personal friend of President Huerta, having baptised one of his children. The Minister has been called to London to report his action during the revolution and give an explanation of many of his acts. He was charged with having been found in hiding while the fighting was going on in Mexico City.

RELIEF MEASURE PASSES.

$100,000 Now Available to Help Americans Out of Mexico.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 15.—The joint resolution appropriating the $100,000 asked for by Secretary of State Bryan to bring Americans from Mexico passed the Senate early this afternoon by unanimous consent. A single objection would have necessitated sending the resolution to the Committee on Appropriations, but, though Senator Bristow of Kansas voiced the disapprobation which many Senators feel toward the policy of urging Americans to leave their properties in Mexico, his objection was withheld. As the measure has already passed the House, the money is immediately available.

"I regard this policy of evacuation as very unfair," said Mr. Bristow. "From many sources I have been informed, since the warning to American citizens to quit Mexico was promulgated, that the lot of Americans remaining in that country has been harder than before. Many letters to this effect have come to me. However, the withholding of the appropriation granted in this resolution would not remedy the situation, so I do not object."

Mr. Gallinger of New Hampshire, the minority leader of the Senate, joined with Mr. Chamberlain of Oregon, acting for Chairman Martin of the Senate Committee on Appropriations, in asking for immediate action on the resolution. Mr. Gallinger called attention to the rule requiring the reference to the committee of all measures appropriating money, but said that he thought the urgency of Mr. Bryan's appeal justified prompt action. It would be difficult at this time, he said, to muster a quorum of the Committee on Appropriations.

Nothing come to light to-day to indicate what would be the character and scope of the message that President Huerta will send to the Mexican Congress when it mees to-morrow. The Administration is still hopeful that Gen. Huerta will announce that he will not be a candidate for President in the Constitutional elections to be held on Oct. 26, but it was said that nothing of an authoritative sort had come to this Government to justify that hope.

Messages from the State Department have gone to the American Consuls at Chihuahua and Tepic inquiring as to the truth of the report that Morris P. Root, a nephew of Senator Root, had been shot at the latter place. In this case Mr. Bryan is acting upon newspaper reports of the affair.

Sam Drebben, one of the better known soldiers of fortune in the foreign legions in the Mexican revolutions during the last three years, came here to-day with Manual Castilla Brito, Constitutional Governor of Campeche, for conferences with the Constitutionalist Junta.

AMERICAN REFUGEES SAFE.

Party of 100 from Torreon Reported as Having Reached Saltillo.

LAREDO, Texas, Sept. 15.—American refugees from Torreon, Mexico, for whose safety fears have been expressed during their overland journey to Saltillo, reached the latter place in safety today, according to official advices received at Mexican Federal headquarters at Nuevo Laredo to-night.

Reports that the Americans were molested on the way by Constitutionalists were declared unfounded. The party numbered about 100 persons, including many women and children.

AMERICAN OFFICIALS FREED.

Men Who Killed Mexican Captain in Texas Found Not Guilty.

EL PASO, Sept. 15.—T. J. Johan and Tom Heifrin of the United States Customs and Immigration Service were acquitted to-day in the District Court of the charge of having murdered Capt. P. Acosta of the Juarez garrison on Sept. 6.

Johan testified that the Mexican officer crossed the international bridge, firing at the two officers, and that they killed him in self-defense. Judge Jackson instructed the jury to bring in a verdict of not guilty.

CARRANZA MOVES CAPITAL.

Constitutionalist Headquarters Now in Hermosillo, Says Leader's Brother

EAGLE PASS, Texas, Sept. 15.—An entire change of programme by the Mexican Constitutionalists was announced to-day by Gen. Jesus Carranza, brother of the Constitutionalist leader. He said their provisional capital probably would be moved from Piedras Negras to Hermosillo, Sonora.

Gov. Carranza is in Sonora, and his brother said political developments in the last two weeks were responsible for this change, and that the actions of Gen. Felix Diaz and Gen. Mondragon have further complicated the political outlook.

The Coahuila Constitutionalist Army is being mobilized to meet an advance by the Federal Generals, Navarrette and Maas.

BANDITS KILL AMERICAN.

Refugees Report Morris Root, Mining Engineer, Slain at Tepic.

Special to The New York Times.

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 15.—Among the hundred American refugees who arrived here yesterday on the Pacific Mail steamer Peru from Pacific Coast ports of Mexico were several who told a story of the murder of Morris P. Root, an American mining engineer, by bandits while he was unarmed and helpless. Root was Superintendent of El Tegre mines at Tepic, and while on his way to join employes of the company who were preparing to defend the mine against a band of bandits, he was seized and disarmed, and then hacked to death by the machetes of half a dozen of the outlaws.

The murdered man had been in Mexico for sixteen years, and it was generally understood he had gone there on account of trouble with his family. He was 50 years of age and was an expert miner.

G. Hirschfield, a native of San Francisco, who was among the refugees, laid strong emphasis on what he called the futility of President Wilson's pacification idea.

"The country can be pacified in only one way, and that is with the big stick, such as Porfirio Diaz wielded," said Mr. Hirschfield. "It is hard to even suggest pacification, for it is beyond human power to bring the various bandit factions together. The rebel chiefs do not recognize each other, and, between looting, they fight among themselves. They are fighting for loot, and for nothing but loot."

D. M. Leamer, a mining man of Puebla Nuevo, who was held up three times by different bands of rebels, told of a quasi-Government established in Durango by the opponents of the Huerta régime. He believes the life of every American in Mexico is in danger unless all leave in the next few weeks. All of his valuables, including a saddle horse and three pack mules, were taken from him by looters.

"Americans are not safe in Durango," he said. "All the State is in the hands of Carranza, Pereyra, and Contreras. They have control of whatever government there is, and are operating the trains from Durango to Pedricena. All along the coast from Salina Cruz, north, there is a feeling of great unrest, as it is feared a new period of looting is at hand. At Acapulco the steamer officers found the people were fearful of an attack by the rebel forces.

"George Merino, resident agent of the Pacific Mail at Acapulco, was assaulted by a dozen unidentified men the early part of August. He was seated in front of his office when the crowd came along and without warning began to beat him. He was badly bruised, but when the Peru was at Acapulco he was able to be about again."

PROTEST HUERTA'S CONTROL.

Mexican Refugees in Mobile Want Supervision of Coming Elections.

Special to The New York Times.

MOBILE, Sept. 15.—Strong protests against Provisional President Huerta conducting the Presidential elections in Mexico next month are being voiced by Mexicans who are refugees here.

Among these are Augustin Urdapilleta, a prominent lawyer of Mexico City, and Gen. Manuel Castilla Brito, Constitutional Governor of the State of Campeche, who left Saturday night for Washington.

It is reported that one of the objects of Gen. Brito's trip to Washington is to see Secretary Bryan. It is thought he will ask the Secretary of State to use his good offices to have some impartial agency conduct the coming elections in Mexico, or else allow the United States to supervise them.

Señor Urdapilleta holds a like opinion, although he is of the belief that the United States cannot supervise the elections. "To-day the struggle reaches its most active period," said Señor Urdapilleta. "Chihuahua, Sonora, Coahuila, Sonaloa, Zacatecas, Durango, California, Tamaulipas, Morelos, Michoacan, Tabasco, Campeche, and other States are positively in the power of the Constitutionalists who are fighting against the Huerta Government. In all the other States, and even in the Federal District of Mexico City, there are rebel groups, or revolutionists, and, finally, the press, although threatened and harassed, still clearly shows that the infamous work of Huerta will not prevail, and that his bad Government is seeing its end."

PORFIRIO DIAZ IS 83.

Former President of Mexico Celebrates Birthday with Banquet.

BIARRITZ, France, Sept. 15.—Gen. Porfirio Diaz, former President of Mexico, celebrated his eighty-third birthday to-night by a banquet, which was attended by twenty-five intimate friends who came from various parts of Europe to offer their congratulations. The guests included his son, Porfirio Diaz, Jr., and his nephew, Gen. Felix Diaz, who, it is understood, will remain for some time at Biarritz.

The ex-President appeared to be in excellent health despite his great age.

W. C. ADAMS BANKRUPT.

Son of "Policy King" Owes $31,234—Loser in Wall Street.

A voluntary petition in bankruptcy was filed yesterday by Walter C. Adams of 21 Claremont Avenue, son of the late "Al" Adams, the "Policy King," who committed suicide in the Hotel Ansonia in October, 1906, leaving an estate of $600,000. In his petition Adams places his liabilities at $31,234 and his assets as of unknown value. The assets consist, he says, of his equity in an assigned interest in the estate of his father and one-eighth interest in claims against the Oro Grande Mines Company, now held by Albert J. Adams, Jr., his brother. Most of the liabilities are balances due on stock transactions in 1911-1913 with Wall Street stockbrokers.

This is the second time that Adams has been in financial difficulties. On May 21, 1907, Judge Green in the City Court signed an order appointing Daniel F. Niely as receiver in supplementary proceedings for Adams on the application of Albert H. Hastorf, who held a judgment against the defendant for the sum of $890.

"Al" Adams appointed as his executors Christian F. Tietjen, George Karsch, and Charles F. Bauerdorf. After making provisions for a few relatives, he directed that the residue be divided among his children and his wife. His widow, Isabella V. Adams, received one-third, and the remaining two-thirds went to his children. The will directed that the testator's personal property, consisting of stocks in the Karsch Brewing Company and in the Guanajuato Amalgamated Gold Mines Company, be held intact, and that the stock be not sold except at the discretion of the executors. He directed that his widow and sons each receive their proportionate share of the income derived from these stocks. His realty holdings were disposed of under similar provisions.

To Deport Rich Chinese Merchant.

COLUMBUS, Ohio, Sept. 15.—Upon the ground that the evidence offered to show that the defendant was born in America was not credible, United States District Judge Sater to-day ordered that Ng You Neuy, a wealthy Chinese merchant of Zanesville, be deported. Neuy, who is reputed to be worth several hundred thousand dollars, was ordered taken to San Francisco and placed aboard an American transport bound for the Orient.

CLASS LINES VANISH AT SULLIVAN BURIAL

75,000 LINE THE BOWERY

Charles F. Murphy and McCall, Candidate for Mayor, Accompany the Hearse as Pallbearers.

Through streets lined with thousands of mourners the funeral procession of "Big Tim" Sullivan, the Bowery leader, wended to old St. Patrick's Cathedral in Mott Street yesterday morning. In the throngs, estimated at 75,000 persons, that packed the streets, the man from uptown in silk hat and fashionable clothing rubbed elbows with the gunman and the thug, women clad daintily stood shoulder to shoulder with the shawl-draped women of the tenements, and politicians, prizefighters, Judges, saloon-keepers, actors, and gangsters jostled and pushed in an effort to get close to the police lines that began at the door of the Sullivan Clubhouse at 207 Bowery and ran up the Bowery to Bleecker Street, across that street to Mott Street, and from there south to the iron gates of St. Patrick's, the third oldest Roman Catholic edifice in the City of New York. Men who have known the Bowery for half a century said that never had they seen a crowd that presented such a strange medley of types as the one that joined in the tribute to the memory of the "Big Fellow."

Here are some of those who crowded into the famous clubhouse and marched in the procession to the cathedral: Charles F. Murphy, leader of Tammany Hall; Chairman McCall of the Public Service Commission, who is the Tammany candidate for Mayor; Judge Otto A. Rosalsky, "Honest John" Kelly, Tom Sharkey, the saloon keeper and ex-pugilist; Supreme Court Justices Erlanger, Giegerich, Lehman, Greenbaum, and Delany, United States Senators James of Kentucky, O'Gorman of New York, and Martine and Hughes of New Jersey; "Eddie" Burke, "Dick" Bernard, ex-Deputy Police Commissioner Thomas F. McAvoy, "Sam" Prince, the old-time labor leader; Congressmen Riordan, Goldfogle, Levy, Fitzgerald, Henry George, Jr., Kinkead, Maher, Conby, Wilson, Gould, Underhill, Payne, Fairchild, Chandler, the only Progressive Representative from New York; Platt and Gittens; Aldermen John White, Hugh Cummuskey, and John J. Boylan, Speaker Smith of the Assembly, "Jimmy" Kelly, George Considine, Jack Dunstan, proprietor of "Jack's" restaurant; Frank Farrell, ex-Chief of Police "Big Bill" Devery, State Senator James J. Frawley, Deputy State Controller Goldenkranz, State Tax Commissioner Thomas Burns, Thomas F. Smith, Secretary of Tammany Hall; ex-Sheriff "Big Tom" Foley, Sheriff Harburger, ex-State Senator William H. Reynolds, Alderman Max Levine, City Clerk Scully, The McManus, Joe Vendig, the bookmaker; Frank D. Eyan, John F. Ahearn, and Nicholas J. Hayes.

The funeral procession was scheduled to start from the clubhouse at 10 o'clock in the morning, but long before that time the Bowery for blocks in both directions was thronged. Up to 9 o'clock in the morning, when the clubhouse was closed to the public, a steady stream of men, women, and children climbed the three flights of stairs that led to the assembly room where the body of "Big Tim" lay in state. It was estimated that at least 50,000 persons had filed by the coffin since Saturday night to take a last look at the face of the dead leader.

At 9 o'clock the doors were closed, and the police, under command of Capt. Ryan of the Delancey Street Station, and Capt. Kinsler of the Mulberry Street Station, ordered the crowds to the sidewalks. When the hour for the body to be removed from the clubhouse arrived, the streets leading to the church were choked with onlookers. There was not an inch of unoccupied space behind the police lines, and yet notwithstanding the congestion, the throng was wonderfully well behaved. It was said that the gangsters who make the Bowery their headquarters, had called a truce until the body of "Big Tim," who they worshipped, had been buried.

It was 10:30 o'clock before the procession started. The coffin was carried to the street on the shoulders of eight east siders, all of whom had been devoted followers of the dead man. Over the coffin was a floral pall containing 3,000 American Beauty roses and 2,000 snow-white chrysanthemums. This was the gift of the Sullivan Association. As the coffin was put in the hearse the men in the great throng removed their hats. Many in the crowd were weeping.

Ahead of the hearse five mounted policemen rode and after it came six carriages each piled high with beautiful floral tributes. Then came the family; Patrick Sullivan and his family, Larry Mulligan and his wife and little girls, Mrs. Hickey, a sister of the dead leader and her little ones, Police Lieut. Michael Summers and his wife, another sister, the widow of "Little Tim" and her little boy, and after her the others of the clan whose relationship to the dead leader was not so close.

On either side of the hearse walked the pall bearers. Charles F. Murphy on the right, and behind him, "Big Tom" Foley, Judge Rosalsky, and The McManus. On the left, Chairman McCall, the Tammany candidate for Mayor, ex-Sheriff Nicholas J. Hayes, Justice Erlanger and Senator James J. Frawley. The hearse was driven by Michael Ryan, for forty-five years a friend of "Big Tim." Facing the Cathedral in Mott Street is a large six-story tenement inhabited almost entirely by Italians. Eighty windows, in the upper five stories look down upon old St. Patrick's and each of those windows yesterday was crowded with onlookers. Even the landings of the fire escapes were thronged.

At the cathedral the flower-laden carriages proceeded on south to a point in Prince Street, just east of Mott. The hearse stopped in front of the cathedral at 10:43 o'clock. The bearers drew the coffin from it, and in so doing the great pall of roses and chrysanthemums was disarranged slightly, and a dozen American beauties fell to the ground, to be gathered up quickly by the crowd as souvenirs of the funeral.

The pall-bearers preceded the coffin into the church, and it was followed by the members of the Sullivan family and the Congressional delegation. After them came the close friends of the leader. It was pointed out that among those who followed the coffin was a man who owed "Big Tim" more than $25,000 that he got on a note Sullivan indorsed and which Sullivan had to make good.

The service was the solemn requiem mass of the Roman Catholic Church, and there was no eulogy. Mgr. Kearney, a life-long friend of "Big Tim," was the celebrant, assisted by the Rev. Father Severino Faccacia as deacon; the Rev. Father John J. Sheridan, subdeacon, and the Rev. Father Gaetano Arcesi as master of ceremonies. The choir consisted of thirty boys, nearly all of them Italians. Two anthems in English were sung: "Rest, Rest for the Weary" and "O, Grave, Where is Thy Victory; O, Death Where is Thy Sting." The services lasted an hour. At the close the procession to the grave started. The route was again through crowded streets. The mourners were driven across the Williamsburg bridge and through Brooklyn to Calvary Cemetery.

WALDO STARTS AN INQUIRY.

He Will Find Out Why Sullivan's Body Was Not Identified Sooner.

Police Commissioner Waldo announced yesterday that he had started an investigation to find out why the body of "Big Tim" Sullivan had stayed in the Fordham Morgue for nearly two weeks without any effort having been made to identify it. The Commissioner pointed out that the body, while it was in the Fordham Morgue, was under the supervision of the Charities Department. His investigation will be confined to determining whether the police did all required of them.

Commissioner of Charities Michael J. Drummond said that his department would welcome an investigation, and he asserted that if such an investigation was made the fact would be revealed that the Fordham Morgue was not controlled by the Department of Charities but by the Bronx Board of Coroners and Fordham Hospital. He said that he knew that bodies were often held too long in the Fordham Morgue. He pointed to the fact that within a short time after the body passed into the control of the Department of Charities it was identified.

The friends of the dead leader, notably Alderman John Smith, are planning an investigation that, it is said, may result in a complete reorganization of the city's Morgue system.

FITZGERALD GETTING WELL.

Senator Has No Incurable Malady, but Pneumonia, His Sister Says.

Mrs. H. L. Lamson of 2,425 Ocean Avenue, Sheepshead Bay, sister of State Senator John C. Fitzgerald, the lifelong friend of the late "Big Tim" Sullivan, indignantly denied last night the report that her brother was dying at her home from an incurable malady.

"He has had an attack of pneumonia and was a pretty sick man for several weeks," she explained. "He is getting better now, however, and will be up and out in about two weeks."

Fitzgerald was chosen by "Big Tim" to succeed to the leadership of "Little Tim" Sullivan in the Sixth Assembly District upon the latter's death. When Mrs. Lamson was asked if her brother had been informed of the death of Senator Sullivan she replied in the affirmative.

"He was very much affected, and expressed a desire to attend the funeral," she said. "However, that was clearly impossible, as he is unable to stand as yet without assistance."

HOLD TRAINMEN FOR NEW HAVEN WRECK

Coroner Lodges Manslaughter Charge Against Engineer, Conductor, and Flagman.

MILLER UNDER $5,000 BAIL

Railroad Not Blamed—Best Signals Useless in Face of Violation of Orders, Mix Says.

NEW HAVEN, Sept. 15.—August B. Miller, engineer of the White Mountain Express, which crashed into the Bar Harbor Express at North Haven, on the New Haven Road, on Sept. 2, and Bruce G. Adams, conductor, and Charles J. Murray, flagman, of the Bar Harbor Express, are held responsible for the fatal wreck by Coroner Mix, who handed down his finding to-day.

Miller was arrested on a bench warrant issued by Judge Gager of the Superior Court. The engineer was taken into court and charged with manslaughter "for driving his locomotive recklessly, lawlessly, and at a high rate of speed." He pleaded not guilty, and his case was continued till the October term of the court. He was released on $5,000 bond.

Adams, the conductor, and Murray, the flagman, are accused of complicity in causing the wreck. Adams's implication is a surprise. He is not in the State, but his friends assert that he will return to-morrow and announce his willingness to stand trial.

Coroner Mix holds that he was negligent in having a man "whom he had found to be careless and irresponsible" do the responsible work of going back and setting the signals. Murray is here and he will be arraigned to-morrow.

Censure for Wands.

The three are accused of being criminally responsible in causing the death of Royal Hotchkiss, a New Haven schoolboy who was crushed to death in the rear car of the Bar Harbor Express. While not made criminally responsible, Rufus Wands, engineer of the second section of the Bar Harbor Express, is declared negligent in not observing the rules of the road, and the Coroner recommends that he be disciplined.

The Coroner neither blames nor absolves the New Haven Road for the wreck. He finds the signals were in perfect working order, and whether the banjo signals are obsolete or not, he says, the accident would have been prevented if the company's rules had not been violated. He touches upon the question of steel coaches, and an improved signal system only incidentally, suggesting that these matters are not within his jurisdiction, but within the scope of the State Public Utilities Commission.

In his finding the Coroner says in part:

"I find that whether banjo signals, such as are maintained upon the line of railway where this fatality occurred, are obsolete, and a better, more efficient, or safer system of signals exists upon other divisions and other railways, whether cautionary signals are so placed as to indicate that the signal beyond will be the danger signal, thus giving the engineer warning that he is approaching a danger signal before he reaches the same it w;as clearly and unmistakably apparent that had Engineer Miller of the White Mountain express observed the rules, which were clearly understood by him, and by which he was running his train, this wreck would have been prevented.

Defends Banjo Signals.

"The testimony of practical engineers is in accord to the effect that the type of signal known as the banjo signal was a safe and efficient signal for the running and guidance of his train, had Engineer Miller observed the rules of the company. I so find.

"The lives of a large number of people were in his (Miller's) care, and he was duty bound to take no chances and incur no risks. I find that said morning was foggy, the rails inclined to be slippery, and that Engineer Miller was aware a late train was ahead, and that it was imperative and his duty to have had his train under perfect control, ready to stop at a signal of danger.

"It was not his duty to rely in any degree upon a warning of torpedoes or fusee from the train ahead of him. Engineer Miller approached the banjo signal set at danger just north of the wreck at a reckless rate of speed."

Blame for Conductor.

The Coroner finds that Engineer Wands of the Bar Harbor train also ran by the danger signal.

"But," says the Coroner, "although Wands was aware he had violated the rule, he had a right to believe that the engineeer of the White Mountain Express behind him would not pass the danger signal. Although believing a dangerous condition existed (while his train was at a stop) and which Wands attempted to relieve, he was prevented from so doing by the direct order of his conductor, Adams." The Coroner adds that Wands's overrunning the signal was "an incident rather than the proximate cause of the wreck."

Concerning Conductor Adams, Coroner Mix says:

"It was clearly his duty (after the train had stopped) to get away from danger at once, and clearly his duty to have left a competent flagman behind, and at once proceed; especially so since he was aware that his flagman was to be relieved upon arrival in New Haven. There still remained additional trainmen, any one of whom in emergency could be called upon to protect the train."

Of Flagman Murray the Coroner says:

"It is claimed that he did not have time to go back the required distance before being called in by a signal given by the engineer. From all testimony taken on this subject I find directly to the contrary. He did not go immediately out when the train came to a stop; he did not endeavor to go back the required distance, and he did not set his torpedoes or light his fuses.

The Coroner devotes considerable attention to violations of the company's rules. He says:

"From Jan. 1, 1911, to Sept. 1, 1913, 101 cases were reported to the management of the road of improper flagging; 158 cases of engineers running by signals."

The company has meted out discipline in all cases, adds the Coroner, but the violations "have been too frequent and too numerous. The record is a sorry one."

"I urge upon the Public Utilities Commission of the State," he goes on, "to make a thorough investigation of the system of discipline. I believe it to be a very fruitful field of inquiry, and one in which attention should be immediately directed.

"I find that the company has not countenanced violations of the rules, and under conditions existing has endeavored, whenever said violations were brought to their knowledge, to prevent their recurrence."

We Are Very Much Pleased To Invite Men to See The NEW LONDON OVERCOATS
Which the Steamers Have Just Brought

¶ Our best collection, so far, and the broadest that men will find in town today.

¶ Seven different London tailors have made these Overcoats for us, including the most famous firm in the business.

¶ There is in them that distinctive partnership between cloth and style that marks the coat that possesses it as thoroughly English.

Among them is the BALMACAAN, designed by a man who knows from experience what coat comfort ought to be. Buttoning to the neck, with deep Raglan sleeves that give no end of room, and a very wide sweep to the skirt. Straps inside the coat allow it to be worn as a cape, leaving the arms free.

THE AINTREE—the standard London Box Coat with plain sleeves and of three-quarter length—is another always favorite model.

THE DEFIANCE is an Aintree with flaring cut (the skirt measures over 70 inches around the bottom). Cut in a two-piece model, with single-seam back, and straight shoulders.

¶ CLOTHS include the fashionable black-and-white and a smart brown-and-white Irish hand-loom homespun, that seems to smell of the peat fire; also English cheviots, light and warm, and soft-finished Vicunas, all in Fall weights. The heavier fabrics include English and Scotch cheviots, chinchillas, cassimeres and woolens with knitted back.

¶ None of the coats are lined, save at the shoulders, except a Balmacaan of luxurious Vicuna for evening wear, which is silk-lined and silk-faced, and is $65.

The Other London Overcoats Begin at $32. Fourth floor

Do You Buy at a "Circus Store" or at a "Value Store"?

Definition—A "Circus Store" is a store that offers Free Concerts, Trading Stamps, Moving Picture Shows or vast Display Rooms or Premium Parlors or a "liberal" Credit System as its inducements to push you into buying.

Definition—A "Value Store" is a store that offers Low Prices and Reliable Merchandise as its sole inducements to push you into buying.

You probably know that a store cannot be both a "Circus Store" and a "Value Store." The cost of the "Circus" features makes that impossible.

Therefore, though you may occasionally go to a "Circus Store" to see and enjoy the Circus, you doubtless go to a "Value Store" to spend your money.

The question is: Which Value Store?

Each one of the "Value Stores" has gone a few steps on the road of Business Economy.

Macy's alone has had the courage to keep on until it has reached the goal of Supreme Efficiency.

The best of the other "Value Stores" avoid Trading Stamps and Free Concerts—and it is better to buy at these stores than at stores that have to add the cost of those give-something-for-nothing schemes to the price of merchandise.

But best of all is to buy at the store that avoids all extravagance, the store that recognizes that a Credit System is not a more necessary expense than Free Concerts and that "Inside Prices" to certain classes have as little place in its selling system as Trading Stamps.

The store that has consistently lived by these principles is—Macy's.

Macy's, with its great facilities for giving exceptional values, is, as a Source of Supply (not as a Source of Entertainment), as far ahead of the average "Value" Store as the ordinary "Value" Store is ahead of the "Circus" Stores.

MONEY BILL MAKES HEADWAY IN HOUSE

Ten Sections Adopted—Opponents' Amendments Fail—Attack on Federal Board To-day.

MORE HITS AT CAUCUS RULE

From Democrats This Time—Moore Says Measure Will Scatter Savings of Working Men.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 15.—Rapid progress was made to-day by the House in its consideration of the Glass Currency bill for amendment. Scores of amendments were submitted by the Republican opposition, but those adopted came solely from the Banking and Currency Committee, with the approval of the backers of the measure.

The amendments offered by the opposition ranged from a proposal by Representative Lindbergh of Minnesota to prohibit interlocking directorates in the proposed new Federal reserve system to another by Representative Morgan of Oklahoma to utilize as a special fund for the improvement of public highways all earnings of the Federal reserve banks. Defeated on that plan, Mr. Morgan proposed that these earnings be used for the guarantee of bank deposits, a suggestion as promptly rejected.

The opposition was badly scattered and lacked cohesion. Some of the amendments offered from the Republican side did not even have the support of Representative Mann, the Republican floor leader, or of Representative Hayes of California, the ranking Republican member of the Banking and Currency Committee.

Eighteen of the fifty pages of the bill were considered under the five-minute rule and adopted. When the House adjourned at 8 o'clock to-night it had reached Section 11, which provides for the creation of the Federal Reserve Board and enumerates the vast powers with which it is to be clothed.

This stage was considered a convenient breaking point, because it was realized by the bill's advocates that there would be more coherent and stronger Republican opposition to this feature of the bill than any of its other sections. It is anticipated that much of to-morrow will be given over to the Republican attempt to strip the Federal Reserve Board of some of its powers, but this movement will be futile, as the Democratic ranks are standing solidly, under their caucus action, behind Chairman Glass and the framers of the bill.

More Flings at Caucus Rule.

Representative Jeremiah Donovan, a Democratic member from Connecticut, showed signs of wincing under the joint Republican and Progressive attack upon the secret caucus, whose approval of the bill makes its adoption by the House a foregone conclusion, and its consideration under the five-minute rule largely a matter of form. Mr. Donovan asserted that the "secret caucus is the device of the devil," and that the time had come for the Democrats to abandon that practice, which had ruined the Republicans.

Mr. Donovan charged that the Democrats had abandoned the measure to the new members and criticised those members who were absent.

"They draw their pay without being here, and that is scarcely better than stealing. Why, the great State of New York has only one member present, and there is the gentleman from Kentucky, who strolls in, though this is the first time I have seen him here in about four months."

Mr. Murdock retorted that it would make no difference if the entire 435 members of the House were present, because the action of the Democratic caucus in making the bill a party measure and binding Democrats to vote for it, foreclosed all chance for independent consideration.

The debate brought an announcement from Representative Sisson, Democrat, of Mississippi, that because of his opposition to "secret caucus methods" he would vote against the bill.

Representative J. Hampton Moore of Pennsylvania attacked the bill from a new angle.

"If there ever was a bill that tended to make one section ill at ease with another section of the country," said Mr. Moore, "it is this kind of a measure. You have taken away from us, or propose to take from us in the industrial centres, the protection of industries under the tariff system, and now, seeing that certain men have been thrifty and saving their resources, you propose to take away the proceeds of that thrift and saving and scatter them broadcast.

Bill Hits Savings, Says Moore.

"You tell the people you are attacking Wall Street; you say you are bringing to book the malefactors of great wealth. But how have you dealt in this bill with the rights of workingmen, of the men who have their savings deposited in the savings banks of the country?"

Mr. Moore quoted the report of the Controller of the Currency for 1912 to show that the savings on deposit in the country represented at least one-fourth of all the bank resources and liabilities reported.

"Those savings," continued Mr. Moore, "are not the increment of malefactors of great wealth. They do not belong to the rich men, the Rockefellers, the Carnegies, but belong to the working people. What do these savings aggregate? According to the Controller's report to June 14, 1912, they represent $4,400,000,000 of savings alone. Money in the banks that you think to take away and scatter over the country, because you are after the rich men in Wall Street."

Chairman Glass asked Mr. Moore to indicate how "we are to take possession of the savings of any of the banks and scatter them all over the country."

"The proposition is plain in this bill," replied Mr. Moore; "you do it by taking out of all reporting banks at least 20 per cent. of their money, whether strong or weak banks, and throw it into the country for the benefit of everybody."

Mr. Glass again interrupted with a request for an explanation as to how the bill "undertakes to seize the savings of any of the banks."

"By creating twelve regional banks," answered Mr. Moore, "and scattering the money away from those centres where it has been saved by the people."

"We simply require," said Mr. Glass, "a certain percentage of reserve that now belongs to the people of the various sections to be brought back to those sections."

"And," retorted Mr. Moore, "you take it out of Massachusetts and Connecticut, and put it down in Kansas, Nebraska, and Mississippi. That's the point exactly. The savings of New England aggregate $287 per capita. The savings of the Eastern States, and there are only six of them, including the District of Columbia, amount to $129.23; in the Pacific States, eight of them, including Alaska, they amount to $82.48; in the eight Middle Western States they amount to $40.18, and in the thirteen Southern States, represented by twenty-six Senators, they amount to $0.80 per capita; while in the nine Western States, including Oklahoma, they amount to $8.30, and I mention Oklahoma because its per capita savings amount to 80 cents."

The Banking Committee brought in an amendment to remedy a defect pointed out by Representative Scott, Republican, of Iowa. It was to limit the loaning power of the regional banks to their transactions with the Government.

Financial experts who will testify at the reopening of the hearings on the currency bill before the Senate committee to-morrow will include Prof. O. W. M. Sprague of Harvard and Charles A. Conant. The hearing will probably run for a week before the committee begins actual work on the Administration bill.

SENATORS TO HEAR BANKERS.

New York Financiers Among Others to Give Views on Bill.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 15.—The Senate Committee on Banking and Currency will resume its hearings on the Owen-Glass bill to-morrow with a long list of witnesses, including bankers, economists, and merchants. Of the nineteen men whose views the committee will hear, nearly all had asked to present arguments either for or against the bill. John Wanamaker of Philadelphia, however, was invited by the committee because of his wide experience in commercial affairs.

It is thought that the hearings will last over a week. Prof. Sprague of Harvard will testify first. Other witnesses will be Charles H. Davis of Petersburg, Va.; Samuel Untermyer of New York, J. H. Davis of Sulphur Springs, Texas; Prof. Jeremiah Jenks of Cornell University, Charles A. Conant of New York City, Logan Murray of the Louisville Board of Trade, H. L. Mohelentas of the Wisconsin Bankers' Association, Prof. Irving Fisher of Yale University, Newton D. Oaling of the Nassau National Bank, New York City; E. D. Hulbert of the Merchants' Loan and Trust Company, Chicago; W. W. Flannagan of Montclair, N. J.; John H. Rich of Red Wing, Minn.; E. F. Swinney of the First National Bank, Kansas City, Mo.; John Claflin of the New York Chamber of Commerce; Douglas H. Thomas, President of the Merchants and Mechanics' National Bank, Baltimore, Md.; William H. Berry, Chester, Penn.; Andrew J. Frame, Waukesha, Wis., and A. Barton Hepburn of the Chase National Bank, New York.

Filipino Slave Report to Garrison.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 15.—Secretary Garrison received to-day from Brig. Gen. Frank McIntyre, Chief of the Bureau of Insular Affairs of the War Department, a copy of the voluntary report on slavery and peonage in the Philippines, made by Commissioner Dean Worcester, who retired from office to-day. Its important features will probably be submitted to the new Philippine Governor General, Francis Burton Harrison, now on his way to the islands.

Democratic Levy to Meet Debts.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 15.—The Democratic Congressional Committee, in accordance with a recent resolution, called to-day on every Democratic member of Congress for a contribution of $25 to defray the expenses of the last campaign, to be made on or before Jan. 1 next. Each Democratic Congressman is to be assessed $25 additional, and must therefore pay $50 on or before July 1, 1914. The committee is in debt nearly $4,000 and has no money in the Treasury.

ARMY NEVER BETTER, SAYS WAR SECRETARY

Wants Educated Men to Join on Short Service, Afterward Forming a Reserve.

LONG ENLISTMENT DISLIKED

Garrison So Finds After Inspecting Western Posts and Troops on Mexican Border.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 15.—Returning to-day from a long inspection trip of army posts throughout the West and reviewing troops in service along the Mexican border, Lindley M. Garrison, Secretary of War, said that the army was never in better condition or more efficient.

Mr. Garrison was absent for more than two months. Beginning with an inspection of posts in the South Atlantic States and of the second division camped at Texas City, Mr. Garrison visited all the army posts of the Pacific Coast and West and Middle West States, leaving for a future trip the posts of the New England and Middle Atlantic States.

"I found the army in what may candidly be regarded as a first-class condition," said the Secretary this afternoon. "I was everywhere pleased with the bearing of officers and men, and the spirit shown by them. The army was never in a more thorough state of readiness for action than it is now.

"I was also very much gratified at the display of interest in the welfare of the army among the citizens of the various cities I visited. I am satisfied that if we are to have a strong army maintained at a high standard of efficiency, we must secure the intelligent and informed support of the people. Then there will be little trouble about getting just what we want."

Secretary Garrison said he had concluded that the best interests of the army would be served by having an enlistment term of three years, with an arrangement by which, if a young man desired to return to civil life he could do so by passing an examination on military work and study. This would, he thought, add a large number of competent young men to the reserve military strength of the country in a few years.

It is the Secretary's idea to allow enlisted men to go up for these examinations for discharge at the end of twelve, eighteen, twenty-four, and thirty months' service. He thinks it would draw into the army the sons of people of the better classes with more than ordinary education, give them a year or so of military training, and send them back to civil life in plenty of time to continue their education and enter their professions, taking with them good physical development and a capacity for executive work.

Secretary Garrison said he found men everywhere in his trip who commended this idea, and many said they would gladly put their boys in the army for a year or two for the value of the training they would get. The Secretary scouted the idea that a good soldier could not be made in a year and even less. He pointed to the enthusiasm of the college men who joined the Summer school at Gettysburg last Summer and did good work. It is from such men that he believes the army would derive great benefit.

No recommendations will be made to Congress by Mr. Garrison in regard to this idea until he has conferences with Representative Hay and Senator Chamberlain, Chairmen of the House and the Senate Committees on Military Affairs. He did not find any sentiment for conscription or for a large army. Army officers generally desired the shorter terms of enlistment, with some arrangement for a reserve.

The Secretary said, however, that the seven-year enlistment—four with the colors and three in the reserve—would not work. The enlisted men did not understand such conditions, and did not like them. Recruiting officers had tried every device and argument to make them effective, and had failed. Enlistments have fallen off decidedly owing to its adoption, and it is very clear, in Mr. Garrison's opinion, that some other plan must be found if the army is to be kept up to its adequate complement.

N. A. M. REFUTES MULHALL.

Emery Denies All Lobbyist's Charges—Cole Also Contradicts Him.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 15.—The House Committee which is investigating the charges of lobbying made against the National Association of Manufacturers by Martin M. Mulhall, heard a three-hour defense of that body to-day from James A. Emery, its chief agent. Mr. Emery repudiated Mulhall's accusations in detail. He denied that the association packed Congressional committees, that it campaigned against members who opposed it, and for Congressional candidates who favored it, and that it spent several hundred thousand dollars in "lobby work" through Mulhall himself.

"The evidence before this committee conclusively demonstrates that the character of Mulhall destroys every right to believe him, nor is his written word worth more than his oral statement," said Mr. Emery. "Dismissed from his employment two years ago, he undertook to betray his employers, while still in their pay, to representatives of organized labor, and while pleading for reinstatement he was manufacturing evidence to vilify former benefactors."

Ralph D. Cole, formerly a member of Congress from the Eighth Ohio Congressional District, told the committee that it was former President Taft, not the National Association of Manufacturers, who was largely instrumental in obtaining his nomination for Congress from that district in 1908.

Mr. Cole took the stand because of Martin M. Mulhall's references to the former Congressman in letters and testimony submitted to the lobby investigators. Mulhall had said he helped Cole to obtain his nomination in 1908. Mr. Cole testified that he had never received a contribution from the N. A. M., and that he had ordered Mulhall out of his office when the latter came there.

HUNTS DERELICT 700 MILES.

Revenue Cutter Picks Up the Schooner Lottie R. Russell.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 15.—A bottom-up derelict which the revenue cutter Seneca found 150 miles east of Halifax and to-day towed into that port proved to be the American schooner Lottie R. Russell, which was abandoned 70 miles east of Cape Henry on April 15. In five months the wreck had drifted 1,000 miles and her final capture in the path of commerce by Capt. Johnston of the Seneca was regarded as one of the most unusual incidents in the history of the revenue cutter service.

The schooner, lumber-laden, left Charleston, S. C., for New York on April 11, and a few days later met disaster. Her crew was taken off by the British steamer Georgian Prince. For several days the revenue cutter Onondaga searched the shoals of Hatteras for the disabled craft, but she had been driven to sea and lost. Early in September a derelict was reported in the path of commerce off Halifax. The Seneca on Sept. 5 started on the 700-mile chase, which finally solved the mystery of the Lottie R. Russell.

TIME WASTED, SAYS JUDGE.

Swann Thinks That Rules of Evidence Should Be Changed.

On his return yesterday to his duties in the Court of General Sessions, Judge Edward Swann criticised the present rules of evidence, which, he said, were in great part responsible for the delay in bringing prisoners in the Tombs to trial. Judge Swann said that under the present system the court calendars must be crowded, with a resultant overcrowding of the City Prison.

Judge Swann's remarks were made at the end of the trial of George Newton Clarke, a negro from Bermuda, who is accused of bigamy. In order to prove the first marriage witnesses were called to verify signatures. After a great amount of time had been consumed the lawyer for the defense conceded the first marriage. Judge Swann thought that much time had been wasted.

"Without referring specifically to this case," Judge Swann said, "what injustice would there be in requiring a defendant to state what his defense is so that time shall be given only to the real defense. The only relief that can be obtained from all this useless procedure is through the Legislature, which should enact laws simplifying the rules of evidence."

$25,000,000 for National Roads.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 15.—A bill to appropriate $25,000,000 for the construction of roads in conjunction with the States and under the direction of a national bureau of public highways was introduced in the Senate to-day by Senators Thornton and Bankhead. The bill proposes that the States provide an equal amount.

TARIFF CONFEREES ADJUST WOOL ITEMS

ACCEPT CUT PAPER RATES

Rapid Progress Continues — Only Silk and Metal Schedules Remain After Free List.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 15.—Continuing its rapid progress, the Tariff Conference Committee reached an agreement to-day on all except a few paragraphs in the wool and paper schedules. The silk schedule was passed over temporarily, and five or six pages of sundry items were disposed of. The free list will be taken up to-morrow, and the metal and silk schedules, with a few isolated paragraphs, will then be the only questions affecting rates still to be adjusted.

In settling differences between the two houses in the wool schedule many compromises were agreed to. The House rate on combed wool and tops was 15 per cent., the Senate rate was 5 per cent. The agreement is somewhere between those two extremes, probably at 10 per cent. A Senate amendment cut the House rate of 20 per cent. on woolen yarns to 15 per cent. and that difference was also compromised. The House provision imposing a 25 per cent. tax on cheap blankets was restored. The Senate made them free.

The House provision imposing a straight levy of 50 per cent. on all carpets and various kinds of rugs was finally accepted by the conferees instead of the Senate provision imposing the 50 per cent. levy only on carpets and rugs worth more than 80 cents a square foot, while on rugs of less expensive type the duty was fixed at 5 per cent. ad valorem in excess of the rate that would have been levied on carpets of the same class. The paragraphs relating to angora goat hair and mohair were passed over temporarily.

The raw wool provision was also passed over. Members of the House Committee insisted that raw wool should be admitted free of duty as soon as the Tariff act became effective, as provided in the bill and approved by the House. To this the Senate conferees objected. They stood steadfastly by the Senate amendment providing that raw wool should not be transferred to the free list until Dec. 1.

Senator Simmons, Chairman of the Senate Committee on Finance, and the leading Senate conferee, explained that the amendment had been inserted to satisfy Democratic Senators from wool-growing States, and the retention of the amendment was practically a moral obligation to those Senators. It is probable that the Senators will have their way in holding that raw wool shall not become free until December.

The paper schedule was adopted practically as modified in the Senate, though several reductions in rates from the Senate levels were accepted. The paragraph relating to pictures, cards, labels, cigar bands, and the like was passed over for later adjustment.

JUDGE IN CHINA ACCUSED.

Charges Filed Before House Committee Against Rufus Thayer.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 15.—Charges against Judge Rufus F. Thayer, United States District Judge at Shanghai, China, were laid before the House Committee on Expenditures in the State Department to-day by John F. Curtis. Mr. Curtis charged that Judge Thayer left his court at Shanghai and spent much time in Canton, while various prisoners were waiting trial before him. He also charged that the expense accounts of the court were irregular.

The committee will receive documentary evidence in support of the charges Wednesday.

INJURIES WILL GROW, TRAINMEN CONTEND

DANGER IN NEW ECONOMIES

Federal Statistics for the Country, Covering Years 1890-1912, Put in Evidence.

F. J. Warne, the statistician employed by the conductors and trainmen, continued yesterday the exposition of his tables before the Arbitration Board, sitting at the Hotel Manhattan, which is to decide as to the justice of their claims for more pay and better working conditions on the Eastern railroads.

The figures presented by Dr. Warne yesterday related to the increased density of traffic in recent years and the greater number of accidents to trainmen, between which the men contend there is a direct connection. The claim for higher wages is based on increased risk, as well as increased labor and responsibility, and the statistics were intended to support the contention that, although the roads were gainers by the use of larger cars and the larger tonnage handled per man, the employes had not been correspondingly compensated.

All of Dr. Warne's figures were based on the reports made by the railroads to the Interstate Commerce Commission. The commission includes enginemen and firemen in its classification of trainmen, so that the figures relating to deaths and injuries were not confined to the classes of railway labor concerned in the arbitration, namely, conductors and trainmen, but it was argued that the comparison applied as well to these classes as if engineers and firemen were not also included.

As bearing on the increase in traffic, Dr. Warne showed from the Interstate Commerce Commission reports that from 1900 to 1910 the average number of passengers per train mile increased in the Eastern territory from 60 to 76, in the Western territory from 47 to 63, and in the southern territory from 39 to 51.

Taking up the subject of injuries, Dr. Warne pointed out that the Interstate Commerce Commission's figures had to do only with injuries that were reported in the claims departments of the roads.

"It is evident," he said, "that thousands and tens of thousands of railway employes have been injured annually, of which there is no official record. According to the instructions of the Interstate Commerce Commission, also, no report is made of an injury that does not prevent the employe from performing his usual duties for there days out of the ten following the accident."

In support of the contention that increased traffic means more accidents, Dr. Warne called attention to the fact that the number decreased in 1894, when traffic was greatly reduced following the panic of 1893.

"One fact," he said, "stands out conspicuously in any analysis of the statistics of railway accidents. This fact can best be described by the statement that good times for the railroads are exceedingly bad times for the employes as regards the risk of being injured and probably killed. An increase in the number of employes means an increase in the number of accidents. Similarly, an increase of traffic means an increase in the number of accidents.

"This peculiarity of railway employment—this tendency of increasing prosperity resulting in greater risk to the employes—is deserving of serious attention at this time, because of the fact that the railway industry of the country has entered upon such a period.

"Of all the different classes of railway employes subject to injury or death by accident, those engaged in the movement of trains run much the greater risk. This is especially true of trainmen. It is also especially true of this class, more so than of any other, that accidents resulting in injury or death naturally tend to increase with the density of traffic. Accidents to these employes occur mostly from falling from trains and engines, from coupling and uncoupling cars and locomotives, from collisions and derailments, from overhead obstructions and so on. This greater risk of employment to trainmen is emphasized in nearly every report on accidents made by the Interstate Commerce Commission.

"Virtually all the accident and old-line insurance companies classify railroading as extra hazardous. Many of them refuse absolutely to insure railway employes on account of the great risk of loss to the company, and where these employes are insured there is a definite limit set to the amount of the risk and an extra charge is made to the assured. Many of the fraternal societies refuse membership to railway employes; others accept these employes as members, but at advanced rates."

One of Dr. Warne's tables, confined to the Eastern territory, showed that half or more of the railway employes killed or injured over a period of eighteen years were trainmen. Another table, taking in the entire country, showed the number of trainmen employed, the number injured, including those killed; the number injured per 1,000 employed, including those killed, and the number per 1,000 killed. This is Dr. Warne's second table:

ARREST EX-BANK HEAD.

Wyckoff Charged with Larceny of $1,500 by Mrs. M. D. Hitchings.

William F. Wyckoff, formerly President of the Woodhaven Bank, which was closed by the State Insurance Department, was placed under arrest yesterday afternoon by order of Magistrate Walsh in the Adams Street court, Brooklyn. The application for the warrant was made several weeks ago by Mrs. Maria D. Hitchings of 58 Prospect Place, Brooklyn.

Mrs. Hitchings charges Wyckoff with the larceny of $1,500 which she invested in a mortgage through him several years ago. The mortgage was later satisfied, but Mrs. Hitchings says she never received her money. Wyckoff admitted that he had received the money, but said he was bankrupted by the closing of the Woodhaven Bank. He pleaded not guilty to the charge when arraigned in court, and Magistrate Walsh continued the hearing until Sept. 23.

Wyckoff is 55 years old and lives at 90 Herrman Street, Jamaica. He formerly was a member of the law firm of Wyckoff, Clarke & Frost of 215 Montague Street. Mrs. Hitchings had all the members of the firm summoned to court in an effort to determine who was responsible for the loss of her money.

Both Clarke and Frost insisted that Mrs. Hitchings was a client of Wyckoff, and that her relations with him were personal and had nothing to do with the affairs of the law firm or with them. Magistrate Walsh dismissed the information against them.

ARREST IN OPIUM RAID.

Federal Customs Inspectors Seize Seventy Cans of Drug.

In compliance with the recent order of Secretary McAdoo, holding special Treasury agents responsible for the suppression of the smoking opium traffic in their districts, Special Agent Esterbrook with four Customs Inspectors yesterday raided the top floor of the tenement house at 25 Baxter Street. They made their way up the fire escape and entered through the window.

They say that they found a full-sized smoking opium manufactory and seized seventy cans of the drug, each of which contained 500 "foons," or 6 2-3 ounces. They arrested Lin Guey Shang, otherwise known as Billy Lin, and he was held by Commissioner Hitchcock on the charge of having violated the Federal law.

SLAYS WIFE'S FAMILY.

Memphis Man Kills Her Father, Mother and Brother with Shotgun.

MEMPHIS, Tenn., Sept. 15.—Charged with murdering his wife's father, mother and 16-year-old brother early to-day, D. E. Baxter, 35 years old, a telephone lineman, is being sought by the police of this city.

Baxter and his wife had been separated several months. Early this morning, it is alleged, he went to the home of his wife's father, Henry Smith, where Mrs. Baxter had been staying, and opened fire on the family with a shotgun. Smith, his wife, and son Oscar, were killed almost instantly, but Mrs. Baxter succeeded in eluding her husband and escaped from the house.

After the shooting Baxter is said to have reloaded his shotgun and walked leisurely away.

NEW HAVEN'S WIRES MENACING TRAINMEN

Service Commissions Trying to Find Out How Lines Can Be Guarded in Electrical Zone.

'TELLTALES' CAN'T BE USED

Men Complaining That Despite Killings in Danger Spots the Railroad Has Made No Change.

To inquire into the precautions which the New York, New Haven & Hartford Railroad should take to protect its trainmen from being shocked to death in its electric zone a joint hearing was held yesterday by Commissioner James E. Sague of the up-State Public Service Commission and Commissioner James E. Eustis of the City Commission, at which were present by special invitation Chairman Richard T. Higgins and Commissioners John H. Hale and T. B. Ford of the Connecticut Public Utilities Commission. The hearing was held on the complaint of John Fitzgibbons, legislative representative of the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen, who brought about the adoption of the Full Crew bill.

The danger arises from the fact that, with the overhead electrical equipment of the New Haven, it has been necessary to take away in its freight yards the "telltales," which warned the trainmen who are compelled to go upon the tops of freight cars of the approach of low bridges. Counsel for the complainant read the names of three men who had thus been killed in the company's yards on July 29, 30, and 31, and said that in each case it was reported that no action had been taken to prevent similar accidents. There were other cases, he said, and in each case the same report of inaction had been made.

When Mr. Fitzgibbons was called to the stand, he said that the company had issued Order No. 100, in which employes were forbidden to go to the tops of cars in the electric zone, but almost immediately afterward a bulletin was issued saying that employes might get on the cars when necessary, as, when a train was backing and the engineer was dependent on the brakeman's signals, it was absolutely necessary for the brakeman to stand on the top of a freight car. If he did not go to the top of the car, he would be dismissed; if he did go he would be killed. Mr. Fitzgibbons expressed the view that the order forbidding employes to go to the top of the cars was issued to give the company a defense in damage suits.

The bulletin amending the original order directed the men to keep fourteen inches away from the overhead wires.

"I appeal to the Commissioners," said Mr. Fitzgibbons, "to tell us how in the darkness a man can tell how many inches he is away from the contact wire or a low bridge without the 'telltales.' There is danger in every wire that is charged."

William S. Murray of McHenry & Murray, consulting engineers, who had had in the employ of the New Haven much to do with the installation of the overhead wires, argued that the overhead system was preferable to the third rail, such as the New York Central used, but said that it was impossible to use the "telltales" with the overhead wires.

"I think," he said, "that the wire itself is the best 'telltale.' If I was an employe I should be thinking all the time of the wire."

In a series of direct questions Commissioner Eustis brought out from the witness that the New Haven had done nothing to remove the danger of which the men were complaining.

"But," said Mr. Murray, "the company is scratching its head to find some way to improve things. We are always looking for improvements. I think our present equipment is safe."

Commissioner Sague pressed the necessity of installing warnings of the places where there was danger from low bridges, which necessitate the wires coming nearer to the top of the track, if it was only because of the need of safeguarding the green men who must from time to time be employed.

C. L. Bardo, general manager of the New Haven, was then called and he testified that it was an absolute necessity to send men from time to time to the tops of the cars.

"We have," he said, "to consider the protection of other classes of employes besides the trainmen."

Mr. Bardo took care to disclaim responsibility for Order No. 100, as it had been issued before he became connected with the New Haven, and said that warning signals would be put up. However, he had no great faith in them, as he believed that the best thing was for each man to look out for himself. Most accidents, he said, took place in broad daylight, where men would se. Asked if there would be any change in the methods adopted by the company, Mr. Bardo replied:

"In view of the recent experiences of the New Haven, I have had to change my opinion on a good many facts."

The hearing was closed and the experts of the Commissions will meet with the complainant and the company's representatives to inspect the electric zones and decide what changes are necessary. Then the three Commissions will draft an identical order to be adopted by all of them.

OPERATING SYSTEM CHANGED.

Divisions Split Up by Elliott's Order—Brotherhood Men Gather.

Special to The New York Times.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Sept. 15.—President Howard Elliott's new rules for engineers and firemen, announced yesterday, were followed by a general shake-up of the operating department of the New Haven system to-day.

Two divisions have been created to reduce the territory covered by the General Superintendent. Hereafter all the lines east of Willimantic and New London and comprising the Boston, Providence, and Old Colony Divisions, will be known as the Eastern Grand Division. All the lines west of these points, comprising the Midland, Western, and Present Shore Line Divisions, will be known as the Western Grand Division. The Shore Line will be divided and a new division covering the main line west of New Haven, with the Danbury and New Canaan branches, is to be known as the New York Division, with headquarters at Harlem River. The Shore Line Division will cover the lines between New Haven and Springfield and New Haven and New London, including the Northampton branch.

John A. Droege was appointed Superintendent of the Western Division and Clayton N. Woodward General Superintendent of the Eastern Division. Mr. Droege's office will be in New Haven, that of Mr. Woodward in Boston.

Charles S. Motsett was appointed Superintendent of the New York Division, with offices at Harlem River, and William H. Foster Superintendent of the Shore Line Division, with offices in New Haven.

The engineers will ask no conference with the road regarding the new rules until all the officials of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers arrive. General Chairman Evans and Vice President Griffing are here now. Mr. Evans said to-night:

"The committee of the men met the matter squarely and made concessions to meet all requirements, but that did not satisfy the management. Other changes, which would in no way add to the safety of the train service, but proposed for the purpose of economy for the company and loss of pay to the employes, were urged by the management and opposed by the men."

Mr. Griffing said that there certainly would be no immediate break between the men and the company.

"The Committee of Adjustment has asked for another conference with Mr. Bardo, and we have every reason to believe that he will grant it," he said.

Round Up Three Alleged Sharpers.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 15.—Three men who said they were John M. Geehan, 33, of 82 Crane Street, Newark, N. J.; Edwin B. Daubney, 26, of Boston, and Henry Wood, 22, of 222 West 108th Street, New York, were arrested near the Washington Monument by local detectives on the charge of being operators of a flim-flam game. With them was Carl Myers of Afton, Iowa, whom, the police say, the men were trying to victimize. Victims in several recent flim-flam cases will be asked to inspect the trio. Among the alleged victims is Fred W. Becker of 305 West 143d Street, New York. He is out $45.

SHE WASN'T AFRAID OF A MERE BURGLAR

So Mrs. Eberhard Grabbed Intruder in Flat and Screamed for Her Neighbors.

HER HOLD A GOOD ONE

He Finally Shook Her Off, but She Then Led Chase—Her Jewelry Recovered.

The pluck of Mrs. Priscilla Eberhard of 429 East 162d Street in clinging to the neck of a man who had entered her apartment and had appropriated jewelry valued at several hundred dollars yesterday afternoon resulted in the arraignment in the Morrisania Court several hours later of Joseph Clayton, 29 years old, of Manhattan Avenue, Greenpoint, on the charge of burglary. He was held in $5,000 bail by Magistrate Levy after he had waived examination.

Throughout the morning Mrs. Eberhard made preparations to move tomorrow. At noon she went shopping, it being her intention to prepare luncheon in the apartment of a neighbor, her own being in disorder.

When she returned she observed that the door of her flat, on the fourth floor, was open. She assumed that her husband had returned home and was engaged in packing, but thought it best to investigate. As she stepped into the apartment she faced a swarthy man, stockily built. Mrs. Eberhard had never seen him before.

"What are you doing in my apartment?" demanded Mrs. Eberhard.

"I am a gas inspector," replied the intruder.

"I did not telephone the gas company," said Mrs. Eberhard. "Now, you don't leave this apartment until I have found out who you are."

Mrs. Eberhard blocked the man's egress, but he lifted her out of the doorway and deposited her inside the flat.

"I'm going down stairs and I don't want any interference," he said, endeavoring to swing the door shut.

"You'll get more interference than you expect," was the retort.

Mrs. Eberhard locked her arms around his neck. He tried to shake her off, but his efforts were to no avail. In the meantime she had screamed for help, and the occupants of neighboring apartments had flocked into the fourth floor hallway. The man finally threw Mrs. Eberhard off and started down the stairs. She, however, retained her hold upon his tie.

The neighborhood, with Mrs. Eberhard in the lead, started in pursuit. The chase continued through 161st Street to Elton Avenue, where Patrolman George Burnell of the Morrisania Station and two young men seized Clayton. He was subdued after a brief struggle. In Clayton's possession, the police say, were found the following articles of jewelry, which were identified by Mrs. Eberhard as her property: A diamond brooch, a ring set with twelve small diamonds, a gold locket set with five small diamonds, a gold watch and chain, a gold hatpin head, and a small kit of tools. A jimmy, the police say, was also found in Clayton's possession. At Police Headquarters it was said that Clayton was known under the name Donohue.

ACCUSES TWO LAWYERS.

Barr Brings Charges Against H. M. Hitchings and M. G. Palliser.

Charges of unprofessional conduct in the litigation over an estate were made against Hector M. Hitchings and Melvin G. Palliser, two Manhattan lawyers, in a complaint filed yesterday in the County Clerk's office in Brooklyn. The plaintiff is James A. Barr of Metuchen, N. J. He is suing the defendants to compel them to account for money and land at one time part of the estate of John Barr, who died at Islip, L. I., on March 29, 1902. James A. Barr, as executor of the estate of William H. Barr, his father, sues in behalf of himself and other heirs of John Barr.

John Barr and William H. Barr were cousins. The former left no will. His estate was estimated at $60,000, most of it in Brooklyn realty. Of 120 cousins who were his nearest living relatives, three of them lived in this country. They were James A. Barr, Mrs. Margaret Rossiter, and Mrs. Mary E. Bailey. The others lived in Ireland.

It is alleged in the compplaint that the lawyers informed Mrs. Rossiter and Mrs. Bailey they would get the property for them for a retainer of 33 1-3 per cent. of the estate. The women agreed, it is alleged, and Mrs. Bailey was appointed administratrix. She obtained possession of all the property, and, after the debts against the estate were paid, the balance was divided among Mrs. Rossiter and the defendants. The lawyers, it is alleged, got $4,500.

The complaint says that the defendants then suggested to the other relatives that for a contingency fee of 33 1-3 per cent. of Barr's property they would get the property for them. Before an agreement was made the property was sold for taxes. The defendants are said to have advised the relatives that they had advanced $1,698 to protect the property and asked to be reimbursed.

SAYS JOHNSON WILL RETURN

Back in Time for Hearing on Appeal, Fighter's Counsel Declares.

CHICAGO, Sept. 15.—Jack Johnson, champion heavyweight prizefighter, will return to Chicago from France when his appeal from a conviction under the Mann White Slave act is to be heard, according to Benjamin Bachrach, Johnson's attorney. Bachrach and Assistant District Attorney Harry Parkin argued before Federal Judge Carpenter to-day as to the proper form for a bill of exceptions, on which Johnson's appeal is based.

Johnson's trial on the Milwaukee cases under the Mann act indictments is set for the middle of October. No date has been set for the hearing of the case before the Court of Appeals.

A warrant for the arrest of Eddie Foy was issued in the Jefferson Market Court yesterday when the comedian failed to appear in response to a summons issued last Monday. Magistrate Freschi allowed two adjournments, and when Foy failed to appear yesterday, he issued the warrant. The actor is charged with a misdemeanor.

DEAD MAN IN WOODS VISITED BY A WOMAN

Her Trail Followed by Boys to Where He Lay and There Her New Gloves Were Found.

HIS HEAD WAS CRUSHED IN

The Woman, Who Took a Car for New York, Had Been Seen Coming from a Thicket Near Hastings.

Special to The New York Times.

HASTINGS-ON-HUDSON, Sept. 15.—The police of this city and Yonkers are working to establish a connection between the death some time ago of a man whose body was found in the woods near here to-day and a woman who left a pair of gloves beside the body only a few minutes before it was discovered. The woman walked to Yonkers and left there for New York by a street car, after leaving the woods.

At about 5:30 o'clock this afternoon James De Carlo, the son of a barber, and James Frost, the son of a grocer of this city, were driving together toward Yonkers along Warburton Avenue. As they came to a stretch of woods a quarter of a mile or more from any house, a woman dressed completely in black forced her way through the underbrush to the road. The boys looked at her with surprise and some suspicion, as she asked them to give her a lift to Yonkers. They refused, and she went on her way.

When she had gone the lads got out of their buggy, and with boyish curiosity followed her trail through the woods to see what she had been doing. The tracks led them down a steep hill toward the New York Central right of way, and it was hard work to get through the underbrush. There was not the vestige of a path, but it was possible to follow the trail of the woman through the reeds and over trunks of fallen trees. After they had gone a considerable distance they came upon the feet of a man protruding through the long grass.

They crept up and at a glance saw that he had been dead for a long time. His clothing was discolored with rains and dew.

The boys rushed as hard as they could up the hill back to the road, and then drove at top speed to the Yonkers city line. There they came across Mounted Patrolman Carson of the Yonkers force. They told him what they had seen, and he went back to the woods with them. As he examined the body he found to his surprise lying close to it a pair of woman's gloves. They were almost new and of brown kid, and they looked as though they had just been taken off the hands of a woman and thrown down. The shape of the hands and fingers could plainly be distinguished in them. The only special mark about them was the letter "T" on the buttons.

Carson at once notified the police of Yonkers and Hastings, and Chief of Police Wolf of Yonkers, Capt. Cornell of Hastings, and Coroner Dunn and a number of detectives hurried to the scene. They asked the boys for a description of the woman, and they said she was of medium height and florid complexion, and had been wearing a long black silk coat, a black silk skirt and a black hat, and was carrying a cloth bag. One of the lads was willing to assert that he had noticed a small billy in her bag, but the police set that statement down to youthful enthusiasm.

Coroner Dunn thought when he heard what the boys had to say, that he had seen a woman answering their description getting on a southbound Broadway car in Getty Square a little before the alarm arrived. That would mean that she was making her way back to New York.

A hasty examination was made of the body. No scrap of paper was found upon it to reveal its identity. The black clothes, striped shirt, and laced shoes worn had been good. The wearer evidently had been well dressed. In a pocket was a silk handerchief with a red plaid border. Since the body had been lying there for so long it may not be possible ever to establish the manner of death.

Hunting around the woods near the body, the police found a rough piece of wood, which seemed to have been improvised as a blackjack. It had been thrown into the bushes, and had been so much exposed to the weather that it was difficult to be certain that it had been used for murder, but it was taken by the police as an important piece of evidence. There is a hole in the skull three inches long.

Though the police are not by any means certain that the woman in black was the actual murderer, they believe that she knew that the body was in the woods. She had come back, they suggested, to see the dead again. They find it difficult, however, to fit in with this theory the entire lack of any desire on her part to conceal herself, and her complete presence of mind as she accosted the lads. A general alarm has been sent out for her.

Manufacturer Senseless in Street.

Charles Hawkins, a manufacturer, 65 years old, living at 65 Noble Street, Brooklyn, was taken to Bellevue Hospital last night from First Avenue and Twenty-fourth Street suffering from cerebral hemorrhages. He was found in an unconscious condition in the street by Patrolman Cluer of the East Twenty-second Street Station, who summoned Dr. Nammack from the hospital. His condition is said to be serious.

RICHARD PARR'S DENIAL.

Says He Didn't Foreclose on Mrs. Jenkins—Holds No Mortgage.

Richard Parr, Deputy Surveyor of the Port, denied yesterday that he had foreclosed on Mrs. Helen Dwelle Jenkins, as he was said to have done in a news article published last Friday. He said that he did not now hold any mortgage against her property. The only mortgage he ever held was for $5,800, which he took over from loan sharks in return for sums of money advanced by him to her at the time she was a Government witness. This mortgage she executed in May, 1911, when she was living at Broadway and Seventy-seventh Street. He assigned this mortgage about July 17 to Louis C. Van Brink, representing Darling & Co., auctioneers, for $5,800. Mr. Parr said that the statement that he now had a chattel mortgage for $30,000 on her property was unjust to him and misleading to the public. The value of Mrs. Jenkins's property, he said, had been greatly exaggerated, her furs having been sold to A. A. Graff Company, 1 West Thirty-fourth Street, and her silverware put in pawn by her. She had only three or four rugs in her apartment, he said, when she executed the chattel mortgage to him, and two or three oil paintings.

He explained that he had been annoyed by the publication, as it had led to his being summoned as a witness in a proceeding brought by one of Mrs. Jenkins's creditors, the Mulhearn Steam Heating Company, and that instead of her house in West Fifty-eighth Street being foreclosed, the fact was that she had not lived there nor had anything to do with it for several years, having sold her equity in it for $500. Included in the chattel mortgage for $5,800, which she gave him in July, 1911, he said, was an automobile which was sold for $1,500 before the mortgage was assigned to Mr. Van Brink.

ARRESTED GIRL IN TAXICAB.

She Kicked Taximeter Out — $98 and $1,000 in Jewels with Her.

A young woman, who said she was Lucy Loring, an actress, of 182 Riverside Drive, got into a taxicab at Times Square last night and ordered the chauffeur to drive her home. Before the chauffeur reached Eighty-sixth Street the flag on the taximeter had been dropped four times and the meter refused to register. According to the chauffeur, William Levine, of the Yellow Taxicab Company, the flag had been kicked and put out of commission.

Rather than lose his fare, the chauffeur took the young woman to the nearest police station and preferred a charge of disorderly conduct. When searched, $98 and five diamond rings valued at $1,000 were found on her.

When arraigned in the Women's Night Court Miss Loring told Magistrate Barlow that she was very sorry for what she had done.

"I never was arrested before," she said in tears, "and I hope that an apology to the chauffeur will make everything all right."

"I'll fine you $1," replied the Magistrate.

Miss Loring paid her fine and then paid Levine $1.60 for the ride from Times Square to the police station.

"Aren't you sorry for having me locked up in that dreadful place?" she said to the chauffeur while friends were leading her away. He merely smiled as he counted his fare.

CLOSING FRANCO BANK.

Orders from Paris to Put Wall Street Branch in Liquidation.

Martin Paskus, legal representative in this country of the Franco-American Bank, announced yesterday that he had received orders from the home authorities of the institution in Paris to close up the New York office at 45 Wall Street. The bank, according to dispatches from Paris, is about to be liquidated.

It was said at the branch office in Wall Street that the bank did very little business in the East, and most of its affairs in the West are being looked after by a Chicago trust company.

BARRED ARMY OFFICERS.

Rochester (Minn.) Hotels Would Not Receive Three Lieutenants.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 15.—Secretary Garrison received a letter to-day from a Minnesota lawyer telling how three commissioned officers were unable to obtain rooms at two hotels in Rochester, Minn., because they were in uniform and were very dusty after a long horseback ride.

The officers, Lieuts. Claude B. Tummel, Charles C. Reynolds, and John E. Hatch, had accompanied their batteries to Sparta, Wis., and returned through Rochester.

The clerk at the first hotel they entered affected to make a search of the house, only to find that he could not take them in. At another hotel the proprietor found that he had rooms, but said that he would rather not take them in.

The Secretary can probably take no action in the matter, but his attention has been called to the fact that Minnesota has a law forbidding discrimination against any one wearing an army or navy uniform.

CHILDREN AT WORK ON LINDQUIST CARDS

Woman Complains That Labor in Tenements for Congressman's Firm Violates Law.

THE CONTRACTS SUBLET

Head of Woolen Concern Asserts His Company Is Not Responsible for Employing Young Workers.

Complaints that children are being overworked in the tenements in this city have been received by the State Factory Inspection Bureau, and when a specific complaint was made yesterday by Mrs. Sophie Baer of 848 Saratoga Avenue, Brooklyn, that children between the ages of 8 and 13 were compelled to work long hours in a tenement at 107 Second Street, Manhattan, Inspector Stewart Owen of the State Factory Department set forth to investigate.

Inspector Owen arrived at the six-story tenement house at 5 o'clock yesterday afternoon. He went to the third floor front and pushed open a door leading into a dingy three-room apartment. Here in one of the rooms he saw several long tables piled high with cardboard and bits of woolen material. There were several pots of glue on the tables, and sitting about them, with their heads bent over their work, were a dozen children. A woman, who was directing the work, rose to meet the Inspector as he entered.

The woman said that she was Mrs. Fanny Herman; that she was the wife of Leo Herman, a peddler, and that it was her apartment in which the children were working. She said that they pasted samples of the woolen materials of various colors onto the cardboard slips, and that they were paid for this work at the rate of 75 cents an hour. The children worked, she said, from 3 o'clock in the afternoon until 8 o'clock.

The children said that they sometimes worked longer hours than this. Several of them slipped out of the room when Inspector Owen entered. Those who stayed gave their names as Rachel and William Hurkowitz, 12 and 10 years old, of 173 Second Avenue; Vera and Gerson Friedburg, 12 and 11 years old, of 107 Second Avenue, and Harry Herman, 11 years old, the son of the woman accused of hiring the children.

The cards on which the woolen samples had been posted were printed for the most part in Italian, but contained in large letters the English words, "Canada Mills Company, Greenville, Michigan." Under these words was a photograph labeled, "Congressman Francis O. Lindquist, Washington, D. C." Congressman Lindquist, it was learned later, is President of the Canada Mills Company of New York and Greenville and Muskegon, Canada.

No arrests were made yesterday at the house at 107 Second Avenue, but it is believed that Mrs. Herman will be summoned to appear either in the Essex or Jefferson Market Court to answer a charge of having violated the child labor law. To Inspector Owen Mrs. Herman pleaded ignorance of the law.

Perry Heidelberger, New York manager for the Canada Mills Company, made this statement at his home, 3,905 Broadway, last night:

"The Canada Mills Company is a large firm, and any attempt to keep track of those who do work for us would be futile. We contract with several printing firms in the city to do our printing and mounting. These firms sublet much of the work. They give it to some one whom they think responsible, but who may turn out to be irresponsible. That such a thing has happened in this case is the only way that I can explain it. Congressman Lindquist, who is President of the company, would be the first to condemn any violation of the child labor law."

When interviewed in Washington last night Mr. Lindquist said:

"I do not know the particulars of the preparation of any such cards, and do not know anything about Mrs. Fannie Meyer of Brooklyn or of the employment of child labor. This may refer to some contract which we have let for the printing of mail order catalogues or cards to advertise our goods. I am in the mail order clothing and manufacturing business, being President of the Canada Mills Company of New York and Greenville and Muskegon, Mich. The clothing is manufactured in New York City and distributed from our establishments in Michigan by mail order business.

"It has been our custom to send out catalogues in which we paste samples of the clothing and cardboard folders, to which samples of the cloth are attached also. The contract for the printing of these catalogues and cards is let by our New York house at 130 Bleecker Street, which is managed by Perry Heidelberger.

"In letting contracts for this printing we go to some big printing concern, get a bid and award the contract. We have nothing to do with the printing of the cards or catalogues or with the pasting of the cloth samples in them. That is part of the contract we make with the printer, who hires his own labor.

"If child labor is being employed on the making of these advertising sample cards it is news to me. I have been busy here in Washington on account of the extra session and do not even know who received our printing contracts this Fall. But I do know our practice has been to award the contract and to receive the catalogues and sample cards, with cloth samples attached, in completed shape."

LEAPS OFF NIAGARA BRIDGE.

Suicide Strikes Head Foremost and Is Engulfed by Whirlpool Rapids.

NIAGARA FALLS, N. Y., Sept. 15.—In view of many sightseers, a man believed by the police to be John Hawkins, 68, of Erie, Penn., committed suicide by jumping into the Niagara River from the lower steel arch bridge this afternoon. The bridge spans the river just above the start of the whirlpool rapids and is 200 feet above the water.

Hawkins was staying at the Waverly Hotel. He crossed the bridge to the Canadian side this afternoon. Returning, he climbed upon the four-foot railing on the north side of the bridge and sat astride looking down at the turbulent waters. No one was within 100 yards of him. There he remained several minutes. When officials from the Canadian side ran toward him, he lurched forward. His body turned over in the descent and he struck the water head foremost. He came to the surface once before the white foam of the big drift closed over him.

This suicide was the first from the lower arch bridge in three years. Hawkins was pulled from the bridge railing Saturday night, but convinced his captors then that he was not bent on suicide.

BRIDE TWICE SEEKS DEATH.

Mrs. Rickert, Accused of Picking Pockets, Hangs Herself in Cell.

Special to The New York Times.

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 15.—Two attempts to hang herself were made in the Central Station to-day by Mrs. William F. Rickert, 22, of Pittsburgh, a bride of three weeks, who was arrested for picking pockets in a department store. Mrs. Rickert declared her husband was a Lieutenant in the navy and was stationed in Brooklyn. The records failed to prove this. Then she said he was an orderly in the naval hospital in Brooklyn.

The first attempt at suicide was made after she had talked with her mother, Mrs. Anna Copp of Pittsburgh, and a short time before she was to be arraigned. She made a noose with her belt ribbon, fastened it around her neck, and tied it to the top of the cell door. A police surgeon revived her, and she was able to appear at the hearing.

When Mrs. Rickert returned to her cell she tied her shirt waist around her neck. Her face was blue and she was breathing heavily when again discovered. She was revived after half an hour and was placed in care of a physician.

ATTACK WATCHMAN AT NEW CATHEDRAL

Men Guard Suspects of Seeking St. John the Divine Art Treasures Fracture His Skull.

ONE HELD WITHOUT BAIL

Policeman Catches Intruder as He Runs Away After Knocking Watchman Unconscious.

Peter Foy, employed as a night watchman in the grounds of the Cathedral of St. John the Divine, at 113th Street and Morningside Avenue, was attacked by two men whom he attempted to eject from the church grounds early yesterday morning. He was taken to St. Luke's Hospital suffering from a fractured skull. Foy thought that the men wanted to get possession of the keys which he carried, in order to rob the cathedral of the costly collection of works of art housed there, including seven tapestries depicting sacred subjects woven for Pope Adrian VII, at Rome in 1620.

An hour after the assault Patrolman Magner of the West 125th Street Station saw a man running along the cathedral grounds at 112th Street, and chased him. After pursuing him for several blocks he caught the man, who said he was Gordon C. Johnson of 32 West Ninth Street, Wilmington, N. C. He was taken to St. Luke's Hospital and led before Foy, who had just revived.

"That is one of those who threw stones at me," said the watchman, who then relapsed into unconsciousness. His first words on regaining consciousness at the hospital had been:

"Where are the keys to the cathedral?"

"I am glad," he exclaimed when assured that the keys were safe. He thought that the men had taken the keys away from him after they had knocked him unconscious and that they had broken into the church.

Johnson was arraigned later in the Harlem Police Court and was held by Magistrate Krotel without bail for forty-eight hours to await the result of Foy's injuries.

Special to The New York Times.

WILMINGTON, N. C., Sept. 15.—Gordon C. Johnson, who was arrested in New York, is a son of the late B. F. Johnson, who was an Alderman and prominent business man of this city. His mother is Mrs. Mary Johnson and his wife, Mrs. Rachael Johnson, divorced him three years ago. G. C. Johnson was once well to do, but he has disposed of his money in gay living. On Aug. 20 he was arrested here for stealing a suitcase from a chauffeur with whom he had been riding, but after three days in the city prison he was acquitted. He departed from the city soon after his discharge here. For some time he has been traveling for a Charlotte, N. C., novelty house.

DISMISS STUART WRIT.

Widow of Noted Tailor Sent Back to Ward's Island.

Supreme Court Justice Delany yesterday dismissed the writ of habeas corpus on which Mrs. Ellen Marie Stuart, widow of William Henry Stuart, once a well-known Fifth Avenue tailor, was brought before him from the Manhattan State Hospital for the Insane on Ward's Island. Mrs. Stuart alleged that she had been forced into the institution by a conspiracy of the Episcopal Church and the Masonic order of Brooklyn, whose motive she said was to prevent her contesting the will of her grandfather, by which the bulk of a $350,000 estate was bequeathed to the two institutions.

In attempting to annul the commitment of Mrs. Stuart her lawyers said that Mrs. Hannah Fitzgerald of 243 Lincoln Road, sister-in-law of the late Timothy D. Sullivan, had known Mrs. Stuart for the last fifteen years and had offered as a friend to take her into her home and care for her. The only reason why Mrs. Fitzgerald was not in court, the attorneys said, was because she was attending the funeral of her brother-in-law.

EX-PRESIDENT LEGUIA HERE.

Peruvian Exile Arrives on Liner—Silent on Politics.

Augusto B. Leguia, ex-President of Peru, arrived yesterday on the United Fruit steamship Tenadores from Panama, accompanied by two sons whom he is going to place at school in this country. Mr. Leguia, who is a tall, clean shaven man of about 45 years of age, said that he did not wish to talk about politics as he was a political exile from Peru, but hoped to return to his country some day.

After the election of President Billinghurst at Lima Mr. Leguia was arrested on the charge of armed assault and thrust into prison. The choice was offered to him whether he would remain in prison or have his liberty on condition that he left Peru immediately. The former President said that he chose exile to jail, and after spending a few weeks in New York he intends to go to the South of France to live until he can go back to his own country.

The eldest son, Augusto, 21 years old, is going to the University of Washington to complete his college course.

RIO GRANDE INCREASE.

Nearly $1,000,000 More for Year After Charges and Taxes.

The Denver & Rio Grande Railroad Co. earned in the fiscal year ended on June 30 gross income of $24,452,965, a gain over 1912 of $1,172,563. Net operating revenue amounted to $7,405,793, an increase of $1,126,000, and there was left for the preferred stock after paying charges and taxes $2,076,372, an amount $949,452 greater than in the preceding year and the equivalent of 4.16 per cent.

"The result of the year's operations," said President Bush in the pamphlet report yesterday, "cannot but stimulate the confidence of the owners of the property. It cannot be claimed that the twelve months, as a whole, are to be regarded as conspicuously favored, for in the returns are included, at least for a portion of the period, the results of the public clamor for something—undefined—but giving expression in reduction of traffic rates and increase in direct as well as indirect taxation."

The general balance sheet showed assets amounting to $170,918,000 as compared with $166,262,400 at the close of the previous fiscal period.

CHARITY FUNDS MUDDLED.

Two Bishops and Other Trustees in Los Angeles Resign.

Special to The New York Times.

LOS ANGELES, Sept. 15.—After an exhaustive investigation, during which it was admitted by officers of the organization that "deplorable conditions existed," the Board of Trustees of the Associated Charities resigned to-day, and the city took charge of the work through its Municipal Charities Commission.

Two members of the board which resigned were Bishop Johnson of the Episcopal Diocese of Los Angeles and Bishop Conaty of the local Catholic Diocese. None of the Trustees could estimate how much money had been taken in, or by whom. The books are said to be hopelessly confused, and there are many instances where entries were made, but no accounting of the funds can be found.

"There is no doubt," said O. M. Soudan, a Trustee, "that many worthy persons failed to get funds meant for them."

GIANTS WIN LONG GAME---YANKEES LOSE---TENNIS---FOOTBALL

THIRTEENTH INNING LUCKY FOR GIANTS

They Defeat Cubs with Two Scratch Hits and a Sacrifice Fly, 4 to 3.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, Ill., Sept. 15.—A home run by Vic Saier with two out in the ninth inning to-day made a red-hot game of what up to that time was an uninteresting contest and forced the Giants to go thirteen innings before they won. The score was 4 to 3.

New York scored twice in the first session, and Tesreau wasn't in any danger until he had disposed of twenty-six men. With one man on base Saier came up in the ninth and pounded the ball against the right field signboard, knotting the count. New York forged to the front in the twelfth, only to be overtaken, again principally through Saier, who led off with a double in the local half of the session and again tied the score when Archer singled.

Bunched hits in the hoodoo period, coupled with an error and a sacrifice fly, gave the visitors the big marker. The Cubs were worn out by the incessant uphill battling and were easy in their last stand.

Charlie Smith started for the locals, but retired in the ninth inning, and Lavender finished the contest.

After the Cubs tied the count for the first time they went after the Giants tooth and nail and wrangled over every decision that went against them. Tommy Leach was chased to the clubhouse by Umpire Klem in the tenth inning for objecting to a called third strike, and several other athletes were in danger of being banished for kicking. McGraw used only nine men throughout the contest, while Evers had to call upon fourteen.

Singles by Snodgrass and Doyle, Fletcher's sacrifice, and Burns's fly to Leach gave the Giants a run at the start of play, and another followed when Phelan failed to handle Shafer's tap properly.

Smith was in trouble again in the second inning when he passed Tesreau and Snodgrass had hit safely after two were out, but Doyle retired the side by bounding a grounder against Snodgrass. This was the last scoring opportunity offered the visitors until the combat had progressed beyond the regulation number of innings.

A great stop by Snodgrass cut off a Cub counter in the first inning. Schulte singled with two out and Phelan followed with a vicious drive between left and centre fields that looked like a home run, but Fred leaped and speared the ball as it was bounding over his head and held Schulte at third. Tesreau then forced Saier to lift an easy one to Fletcher.

Big Jeff had easy sailing after this until the sixth inning, when Leach led off with a double. Then Evers balled things up by bounding to Tesreau, who trapped Tommy between second and third bases.

Only four hits were made off the big pitcher up to the ninth inning. With one gone in that inning, Tesreau hit Schulte, who was forced by Phelan. Then came Saier's home run and the score was two all. Tesreau retired the side in order in the tenth and eleventh innings. Lavender had a tight squeeze in the former chapter, as singles by Tesreau and Doyle put men on third and first bases with two out. Jimmy then made Fletcher roll an easy one to Saier.

Merkle's double, an out, and Snodgrass' hit gave the Giants the lead in the twelfth, but Saier's double, an out, and Archer's single again evened matters up. The winning run was scored in the thirteenth inning on scratch hits by Fletcher and Burns and Shafer's sacrifice fly. The score:

Reds Tie the Phillies.

CINCINNATI, Ohio, Sept. 15.—Cincinnati and Philadelphia played to a tie, 2 to 2, in ten innings to-day, darkness preventing further play. The game was a nip-and-tuck struggle. Rowan, a recruit purchased from the Dayton Club of the Central League, pitched excellent ball, although he was hit safely in every inning except the ninth. Rixey, who started the contest for Philadelphia, was not hit hard, but was wild, and was taken out at the beginning of Cincinnati's half of the sixth inning, and Alexander succeeded him. The latter was touched up somewhat, but only allowed one run to be scored against him. Philadelphia scored the first run in the third inning on Knabe's three-base hit and Becker's sacrifice fly. They scored their second run in the fifth on a single by Killifer, a sacrifice hit by Rixey, and an out by Knabe. Cincinnatis scored their first run when Groh was hit by a pitched ball, Marsans's single, and an out by Hoblitzel. Groh also scored the local's second run when he singled, stole second, and crossed the plate on Hoblitzel's one-base drive. Bates was put out of the game in the second inning for questioning a strike called on him by the umpire. The score:

British Cricketers Lose Match.

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 15.—The all-Philadelphia eleven to-day won the cricket match from the Incogniti Club of London by three wickets. The Englishmen scored 140 runs in their first innings and 199 in their second, a total of 339. The Philadelphians having made 203 in their first time at bat needed 137 in their second innings to win, and they took the match, making 139 runs for the loss of seven wickets. The match was begun last Friday, and when it was resumed to-day the Englishmen completed their second innings. With the victory almost within their grasp, the Philadelphians played carefully in their second turn at the wicket, and the score mounted slowly. After 135 had been registered, H. W. Middleton won the match by snicking a fast ball off M. Falcon's bowling to leg for four runs. W. P. O'Neill, 24, topped the Philadelphia batters in the second innings, while Middleton, not out, 23, came next.

World's Tour Opens in Cincinnati.

CINCINNATI, Ohio, Sept. 15.—Charles Comiskey, President of the Chicago American League Club, announced to-night that the first game of the tour of the world which the New York National and the Chicago American teams will make this year will be played in this city on Oct. 18. From this city the two clubs will proceed westward by easy stages to the Pacific Coast.

Grandfathers' Golf Tournament.

CHICAGO, Sept. 15.—A tournament unique in golf will be played on Wednesday, when grandfathers of the Homewood Country Club will vie for honors. The event was once postponed through the influence of prospective grandfathers. Unless visits of the stork make other members eligible, thirty-four players will enter. Each has been invited to bring a guest, who also must be a grandfather. Each contestant will be allowed half a stroke for each grandchild and a full stroke for each grandchild produced at the tee. A bronze statue of a child teeing a ball, designed by the daughter of a member of the club who is a grandfather, will be awarded the winner.

YANKS LOSE CHANCE TO LEAVE CELLAR

Could Have Defeated Detroit and Advanced to Seventh Place, but Didn't.

The Yankees missed a chance to hobble out of last place at the Polo Grounds yesterday, when they lost a game to Detroit by a 7 to 5 score which they should have won. St. Louis lost to Boston, and a Yankee win would have shoved the Browns into the cellar. Twice the Yankees crawled up on even terms after the Tigers had taken the lead.

Going into the ninth inning the teams were locked at 5 to 5. Edgar Willett came to the bat with two on bases, and everybody said, by force of habit, "Win your own game, Ed." Which Edgar proceeded to do by spanking out a two-bagger to the left side of the lot, driving Gibson and Louden home with the victory.

Umpire Ferguson became so unpopular with players and spectators that it would be doubtful if anybody in the park would have lent him a nickel even if he was hungry. Ray Fisher was as wild as a citizen of Borneo in the third inning, and began to force in runs. Out of the goodness of his heart he handed Detroit the game right then and there, with the aid of Sweeney's poor catching.

He forced in the second run when he passed Louden. Walking boldly up to the umpire, Fisher informed Mr. Ferguson that there were dozens of Subway guards who were better umpires than he was. Husk Chance also appeared and backed up Fisher's argument with a few remarks of his own. Fisher was banished from the field, but took his own sweet time about going. Fisher was mad enough to eat raw pig iron. Warhop then came upon the scene. His underhand flinging was easy for the Detroits, and they bunched hits off the Irish Indian in two innings and won the game.

Manager Chance changed his line-up for the 817th time. Two Texans, Whiteman, an outfielder, and Reynolds, a catcher, both edged into the pastime. Neither had a chance to show much. When Reynolds went in to catch Warhop looked him over, and noticed that he was a stranger. "What's your name?" asked Warhop. "Who? Me? I'm Reynolds," said the catcher. "All right," said Warhop, "I'll see you after the game and we'll get acquainted." Manager Chance said he didn't know there were so many ball players in the world as the bunch who have reported to him this season. He only knows about half of them by name. When he speaks to the others he just says, "Hey, there, you."

Hughey Jennings doesn't know what it is to get discouraged. He is out on the coaching lines barking with just as much enthusiasm as if the Tigers and the Yanks were fighting for first place. Every time Hughey looks over at the New York bench he smiles with glee to think that he is the manager of Detroit.

The game was a see-saw affair. Maisel walked in the first, went to third on Holden's hit, and scored when Whiteman, the new boy from Texas, hit into a double play. Detroit tied it in the second. With two out, Onslow singled, stole second, went to third on Sweeney's passed ball, and counted on Willett's hit.

Fisher went to pieces in the third. Bauman singled to centre and Crawford rolled to Williams, who made a low throw to second and missed an out on Bauman. Cobb walked and crowded the bags. Veach and McKee were easy outs. Fisher hit Onslow in the ribs and forced Bauman over the plate. He gave Louden a base on balls, and Crawford tallied. That was Fisher's finish.

The Yanks caught up again in the fourth. Whiteman walked, stole second, and went to third on McKee's error. Williams's two-bagger scored Whiteman and Knight sacrificed. Gilhooley's single near first base scored Williams. In the fifth Detroit jumped ahead. Cobb singled to centre and Veach skied out. McKee singled, sending Cobb to third. Cobb scored on a double steal with McKee. McKee took third on Zeider's error and counted on Onslow's sacrifice fly. McKee turned his ankle badly sliding to the plate, and had to leave the game.

Once again the Yankees tied the score in the sixth. Whiteman walked and Williams singled to right. In returning the ball, Sam Crawford heaved it over to the field boxes back of third base and Whiteman scored, Williams landing at third. He registered on Knight's single to centre.

Detroit broke up the game in the ninth. After Veach popped to Maisel, Gibson singled to second and stole. Onslow flied to Williams and Louden got a pass. Willett then smashed out his two-bagger, scoring Gibson and Louden. A dozen Yankees were stranded on the bases. The score:

Boston Wins Easily from Browns.

BOSTON, Sept. 15.—Timely batting by Rehg and Lewis enabled Boston to defeat St. Louis to-day 6 to 3. It was Lewis who drove in the locals' first run in the opening inning. It was Rehg's triple with men on first and second bases which sent two more runs over the plate in the next inning, and Rehg scored himself on a wild pitch. In the sixth Lewis doubled after Speaker's single and steal, Speaker scoring. Lewis got his fourth hit out of as many times at bat in the eighth inning, but was forced at second by Gardner, who ultimately scored on Wagner's safe drive. A fumble by Rehg of Covington's grounder during the seventh inning put the batter on third, and Covington scored St. Louis' first run on Wellman's out. Engle's muff of Yerke's toss in the ninth made Williams safe, and triples by Covington and Balenti then sent in the visitors final runs.

Manager Carrigan will be unable to play further this season, the middle finger of his throwing hand having been broken during to-day's game. The score:

Russell Blanks Senators.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 15.—Chicago took the second game from Washington to-day by a score of 5 to 0. Although outbatted, the visitors bunched all six of their hits off Groom in the second, third, and fourth innings, and these, coupled with an error, were good for five runs and the game. The locals could do nothing with Russell when hits meant runs. Shaw, a recruit from York, Penn., relieved Groom with none out in the fourth, and held Chicago to one hit in five innings. Not a ball was batted to the outfield while he was on the mound. Love, from Atlanta, pitched the final inning for Washington, and held Chicago scoreless.

Shanks, who recently returned to the game after being laid up with a sprained ankle, hurt his ankle again sliding into second base in the second inning and had to be carried off the field. It is doubtful if he will be able to play again this season. A one-hand running catch by Collins up against the fence was the fielding feature of the game. The score:

Athletics Win See-Saw Contest.

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 15.—Philadelphia and Cleveland played a see-saw game here to-day, with the former winning by 8 to 6. The home team took the lead in the third inning by scoring four runs on a pass to E. Murphy, singles by Collins, Baker and Walsh, and Barry's double. Cleveland came back by scoring six runs in the fourth. A pass to Chapman, singles by Jackson, Lajoie, and Johnston, and Bush's fumble of Turner's bunt scored two runs and left the bases filled. Plank took Bush's place, and Graney cleared the bases with a double. Graney scored on an out and Gregg's single. Philadelphia tied the score in the fifth on Baker being hit, his steal of second, Walsh's single, and two wild pitches by Gregg. With the bases filled and one out in the seventh, Houck, who started to twirl in the fifth, was taken out. Bender went in and retired the next two batsmen without a run being scored. Bender also retired his opponents in order in the last two innings, getting a record of five strike-outs. Philadelphia won the game in the seventh. Collins led off with a triple, and Gregg was succeeded by Steen. A wild pitch scored Collins, while McInnis scored on an error by Chapman and Walsh's triple.

The feature of the fielding was a wonderful one-handed leaping catch by Turner, on which a double play was made, and Oldring's catch of a liner off Gregg's bat, on which Oldring ran to second base and made a double play unassisted. The score:

"MET" A. A. U. SESSION.

Club Representatives Debate Matters of Sport Interest.

Amateur Athletic Union delegates to the Metropolitan Association met last night in annual session at Holy Cross Lyceum, and at the finish witnessed quite the most spirited meeting which has been seen in years. Matters of detail had gone along in peaceful fashion until charges were read against John M. Connelly, one of the members of the Registration Committee, when a tumult broke out.

Justice Bartow S. Weeks, representing the New York A. C., was of the opinion that the charges had been too long delayed in presentation, nearly ten months having elapsed since Connelly was charged with having used his office wrongfully, and he asked that the matter be dropped. Other delegates were of a different opinion, and before the question was finally settled by the dismissal of the charges many of the members were on their feet yelling and asking for recognition from the chair.

The session was one of the best-attended in the history of the organization, about 110 members being represented of the 158 clubs in the association. One important feature in the early part of the reading of reports was that which showed that the association had lost $411.60 as the result of its year's activity in general sports. This marks the first time in the career of the association, which was celebrating its twenty-second anniversary, in which the finances of any single year were on the wrong side of the ledger. These losses were sustained in the gymnastic championships and the junior and senior cross-country titular events.

In the absence of James E. Sullivan, the President of the association, Fred W. Rubien officiated. In the election for officers for the ensuing year, Sullivan was again elected President, Rubien Vice President, and Andrew W. Tully Secretary-Treasurer, all succeeding themselves.

One of the popular happenings of the night was the unanimous election as handicapper of Herman Obertubbessing of the West Side Y. M. C. A., whose work has been uniformly good and hard to be improved upon.

As delegates to the Board of Governors of the Amateur Athletic Union the following were chosen: James E. Sullivan, Pastime A. C.; Bartow S. Weeks, New York A. C.; Fred W. Rubien, St. Georges A. C.; F. J. V. Delaney, Xavier A. A.; Andrew F. Tully, Paulist A. C., and P. J. Walsh, Twenty-second Regiment A. A.

Jacob W. Stumpf, Grace A. C., the Chairman of last year's Registration Committee, was re-elected by a vote of 90 in a possible 102. George P. Mathews, Long Island A. C., was second with 80; John M. Connelly, Second Naval Battalion, third, with 74, and Charles A. Elbert, Anchor A. C., fourth with 58 John A. Deignan, St. Bartholomew's A. C., fifth with 44.

The Chairman announced that a delegation of the members of the association would meet Mr. Sullivan when he arrives on the Cedric next Friday, after a trip to Berlin, where he attended the meeting of the Athletic Federation, which was the medium of much good work for the betterment of the world's sports.

The convention authorized the drafting of a set of resolutions relative to the death of Mayor Gaynor, who was an ardent admirer of the union's work. The resolutions will be engrossed and presented to the late Mayor's family.

Resolutions were adopted by the session in which the members announced their intention of tendering their suffrage and any further help they could give to James E. Sullivan and Bartow S. Weeks, two of the hardest workers for amateur athletics in the country, in the coming political campaign. Mr. Sullivan is slated for County Clerk and Mr. Weeks to continue as Supreme Court Justice.

Giants Get Five, Yankees Two, and Brooklyn Seven—Ebbets's Draft Rules.

CINCINNATI, Sept. 15.—One hundred and eight minor league players were elevated to the major leagues via the draft route here to-day when the American League obtained 67 players by draft, while the National League annexed 41 minors at the drawing which was made before the National Baseball Commission. The St. Louis American League Club was by far the luckiest in the draw, obtaining 30 players, more than one-fourth of the total number obtained by all major league teams; the Cincinnati team was second with 11; the Chicago Americans came next with 10; Detroit with 9; the Philadelphia Americans and the Boston Nationals had 8 each; Brooklyn obtained 7; Boston Americans 5; New York Nationals 5; Chicago Nationals 4; Philadelphia Nationals 3; Cleveland and Pittsburgh and New York Americans got 2 each; while Washington and the St. Louis Nationals obtained 1 each.

Owing to a new National Commission rule, stipulating that the major club drawing for players from a minor league club must be selected by lot before the player is, the names of the players to be obtained by the majors from Class A and AA were not announced immediately and will not be officially announced until to-morrow. However, quite a number of the players to be chosen were given out unofficially to-night, among them being: By Detroit—Williams of Sacramento and Mains of Buffalo; by Chicago Americans—Roth of Baltimore and Barber from Lincoln, Neb.; by New York Americans—Cole from Columbus, Ohio; by Cleveland—Giddo from Chattanooga and Wood from Sioux City; by Brooklyn Nationals—Riggert from St. Paul, Gagnier from Newark, and Kraft from New Orleans, while Herbert from Toronto was also transferred to Brooklyn by the Chicago Nationals in exchange for Zabel of Winnipeg and Keating of Columbus, Ga.; Cincinnati—Neihoff of Louisville; Chicago Nationals—Johnston of San Francisco and Bronkie of Toledo; Boston Nationals—Gilbert of Milwaukee, Deal of Providence, Martin of Rochester, Stock of Mobile, and Krutcher of St. Joseph; New York Nationals—Johnson of Omaha.

The remainder of the teams who obtained players from Class A and AA were not ready to give out their selections, while Detroit had also not completed its list.

The list of players unofficially announced to-day follows:

The St. Louis National Club will select Hagerman from Denver, while the Philadelphia Nationals will take Beck from Nashville.

Little business other than that of the drafting was taken up by the National Commission during the day, but a resolution by President Ebbets of the Brooklyn Club of the National League was submitted. It aims to revise the drafting rules so as to give the teams which are lowest in the league races the chance to obtain first call on the players that are drafted, and, briefly, is as follows:

There shall be sixteen draft selections, numbered from one to sixteen, which shall be awarded to the sixteen major league clubs.

The National League and the American League shall determine by lot which league shall have the odd-numbered selections and which the even number.

The league securing the odd numbers shall award Selection 1 to their eighth-place club, No. 3 to the seventh place club, and so on up to the leading club, which shall receive Selection 15.

The league securing the even numbers shall award Selection 2 to their eighth-place club, No. 4 to the seventh-place club, and so on up to the leading club of their league, which shall receive Selection 16.

The sixteen major league clubs represented by officials of their respective clubs at the drafting meeting shall, as their numbers are announced in numerical order, have the right to make a free selection of one player from any minor league club subject to draft; the restrictions relative to the number of players subject to selection from a National Association club to remain in force precisely as now provided for in the national agreement.

By this system it is believed the following reforms will be accomplished:

1. The great element of uncertainty as to the players to be secured will be removed.
2. The elimination of filing lists of thirty or forty players.
3. Minimize the possibility of a club being "unlucky" in securing several players not up to the standard.
4. The elimination of the technical evasion of the drafting laws as now in force.
5. The great good that will come to clubs in the second division having a free selection before clubs of the first division, to secure the player or players most needed to strengthen their respective clubs and thus in a broader manner strengthen their leagues.

New York-Philadelphia Decision Rescinded—Oct. 2 the Date.

CINCINNATI, Sept. 15.—Making a precedent, the Board of Directors of the National League to-night ordered the game that was played between the New York and Philadelphia National League Clubs on Aug. 30 to be finished on Oct. 2, with the same men in the field and the same status existing that existed on the day Umpire Brennan awarded the game to New York on account of the spectators allegedly interfering with the batters.

BIG SQUAD FOR HARVARD.

Sixty-five Football Candidates Report to Coach Haughton.

Special to The New York Times.

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., Sept. 15.—The largest squad of football players with which Harvard ever has opened a season was on hand on Soldiers' Field this afternoon for the first preliminary practice under the direction of Head Coach Percy Haughton and Capt. Bob Storer. There were sixty-five men in the squad and half as many more candidates will report by the time college opens next week.

Thirty candidates were picked out to constitute the first squad, on which were all of last year's veterans and substitutes and the more promising material from last year's freshmen team. All seven of last season's regulars were on hand, the list comprising Hardwick and Brickley for the backfield, O'Brien an end, Hitchcock and Storer the two tackles, and Pennock and Trumbull, guards. All of these men were heavier than in 1912, with the possible exception of Brickley, who now weighs less than 180 pounds. Bradlee and Mahan, the two men who likely will play at quarter back, as well as to run with the ball, were out, and End Coach Leary had four old end rushers, Milholland, Smith, Dana and Coolidge. Tudor Gardiner, who will play end opposite to O'Brien, will not report until a week from to-day, while it was learned this afternoon that Wigglesworth, last year's substitute centre, and Weatherhead, a promising end, would not be available at all. Wigglesworth has injured his back and Weatherhead will not return to college.

The practice was brisk for the first day, the players all looking in tip-top condition. The tackling dummies were ready, but will not be used for a day or two. There was all kinds of rudimentary work and a little kicking.

Coach Haughton was assisted by Leary and Fisher, who will have charge of the middle line and ends, respectively, Dick Wigglesworth being expected soon to look after the quarter back material. Other coaches on the field were Wendell, last year's captain; Parmenter, the old centre rush; Campbell, a former 'Varsity half back, and P. Withington, centre three years ago. These four men will be in charge of the morning practice, which will start to-morrow and continue until the opening of college next week. It is possible that F. Wigglesworth and P. Withington will look after the freshmen team this Fall.

At the practice to-day were the four German athletic commissioners, who are inspecting the American college athletic plants. They were the guests of Harvard's new graduate treasurer, F. W. Moore. They will go to New Haven to-morrow.

High to Coach N. Y. U. Eleven.

In response to the call of Capt. Torrance, football practice at New York University will start on Monday afternoon, Sept. 22. The management has been fortunate in securing J. F. High, an old Brown man, as coach for the coming season. Mr. High has had success in the football coaching field, as is proved by the exceptional performance of last year's Wesleyan team under his tutelage. Mr. High will reside at the college during the season, and expects to accomplish much in the direction of individual coaching. Judging from the material on hand Coach High will have a very promising lot of players to start work with. From last year's team Capt. Torrance, Bristol, Mackay, Weiner, O'Donnell, Sears, and Waldman are available as linemen, with Stuhr, Vanclief, Sulzer, Zimmelle, Raschbaum, and Byrne ready as strong arguments as substitutes. The students rejoice at the return of Huntley to the position of quarter back, although Kapner will be on hand as a worthy substitute. The back field remains the same as last year, so that in this direction Coach High has experienced men to work with. Baldie, Thompson, McDermott, Miller, Smith, and Brown, all of whom played last year, will be available in this department. The schedule follows:

Oct. 4, Muhlenberg at Ohio Field; 11, Hamilton at Ohio Field; 18, Springfield Y. M. C. A. College at Ohio Field; 25, Williams at Williamstown, Mass.

Nov. 4, Trinity at Ohio Field; 8, Syracuse at Syracuse, N. Y.; 15, Wesleyan at Ohio Field; 22, Navy at Annapolis, Md.

Tigers Pick a 'Varsity Team.

Special to The New York Times.

PRINCETON, N. J., Sept. 15.—Fine football weather permitted Coaches Andrews and Bluethenthal of the Tiger football squad to pick a 'Varsity eleven to-day and run the team through a fast signal drill. The men showed surprisingly good form considering the early season. The 'Varsity, which was the first of the year, was made up of three of last year's regulars and players from 1912's Freshman and scrub teams. Emmons and Hammond, who have won their letters in football, also found places on the team. Practice on the dummy was especially snappy to-day. Another coach, "Dan" Kafer, who will help with the backs, is expected to-morrow. 'Varsity lined up as follows:

H. Brown, left end; Phillips, left tackle; Heyninger, left guard; Haviland, centre; Swart, right guard; Ballin, right tackle; Hammond, right end; S. Baker, Boland, and Emmons, quarter backs; H. Baker, left half back; Glick, right half back; Gile, full back.

First Practice at Brown University.

PROVIDENCE, R. I., Sept. 15.—Nearly thirty candidates for the Brown University football team reported to Coaches Edward N. Robinson and Don Pryon at Andrews Field to-day for their first practice. Among the veterans in the squad were Capt. Henry and Bean, backs; Mitchell, Gelb, and Maxwell, linemen; Andrews, end, and Bartlett, who played in both the backfield and the line last season.

Swiss Rifle Team Banqueted.

A formal dinner was given last night at the Cafe Boulevard to the Swiss rifle team, which recently won the championship of the world in the international match held at Camp Perry, Ohio. Henry Escher, Vice Consul, was toastmaster. This year's victory makes the sixteenth time the Swiss representatives have won in the seventeen times the cup has been competed for. The prize is a silver cup standing eight feet and valued at $10,000. Paul Junod, the Swiss Consul, made a speech in which he congratulated his countrymen on their victory and ability in shooting competitions. The banquet room was decorated with American and Swiss flags, with a reproduction of William Tell shooting the apple off his son's head. The best shot on the team is Conrad Stahelo, who has won the individual shooting championship of the world twelve consecutive times. The team sails for home on the Kaiser Wilhelm der Grosse. The members of the team are Conrad Stahelo, Casper Wiemer, Mathias Erunner, Jean Reich, Herman Koltzer, Ernest Uhler, Ernst Stumpf, and Robert Buchler.

GOLFERS READY TO TEE UP.

Cracks Do Some Spectacular Stunts in Final Practice at Brookline.

BROOKLINE, Mass., Sept. 15.—After being the scene of two weeks of hard practice, culminating in almost continuous play to-day, the course of the Country Club was swept and dusted and its eighteen holes replaced for the twenty-fourth open golf championship of the United States, which starts to-morrow.

The practic to-day developed some spectacular golfing stunts, in which nearly all the cracks participated. Wilfred Reid played eight of the last nine holes of the course in 28, Edward Ray was hole high on the 520-yard ninth hole in a drive and an iron, P. M. Barns of Tacoma on the same hole lined out 295 yards on his drive, was on the green in his second, and made a 4 out of a bogey 6 hole. Harry Vardon and his brother Tom played in a sixsome, and at the eleventh hole were on the green in their seconds and within twenty feet of the cup.

There was considerable regret in the afternoon when it was learned that Charles Evans, Jr., of Chicago, the gold medalist in the amateur championship two weeks ago, had scratched his entry for the open tournament.

Just before sunset a small army of employes marched on to the course, and within an hour every green had been cleaned and the holes relocated on the hardest possible spots, usually on mounds of velvet turf.

WORLD BULL'S-EYE RECORD

Capt. Richard of Ohio Scores 23 Without a Miss at 500-Yard Range.

SEA GIRT, N. J., Sept. 15.—Capt. W. H. Richard of Ohio to-day broke the world's record for consecutive bull's-eyes on the 500-yard range with 16-inch targets by scoring 23 without a miss. Capt. Richard was shooting in the Meany match at the international and interstate tournament. After he made a perfect score of 10 he kept shooting, according to the rules of the match. Corporal R. B. Moore, Marine Corps, was second, with 17 bull's-eyes. Sergt. C. B. Long, Massachusetts, had a similar score, but his sighting shot put him in third place.

J. W. Hessian of Delaware won the Seventy-first Regiment rapid-fire match that closed Saturday afternoon, with 158. G. W. Chesley of Connecticut was second, with 152. The scores were compiled to-day.

Corporal E. J. Blade, United States Marine Corps, won the Swiss match this afternoon with a continuous string of 18 bull's-eyes. Lieut. A. G. Schmidt, District of Columbia, and Lieut. Haley, United States infantry, tied for second place with 12 each.

The match for the McAlpin Trophy was won in its final stage this afternoon by the United States Marine Corps with a total score of 1,050. The Massachusetts team was second with 1,037.

The last shot fired in the Libbey trophy match late this afternoon decided it. Sergt. Nordstrom of the United States Marine Corps, with a score of 93, took first honors. Most of the contestants, believing that Capt. Clopton of the Fifteenth United States Cavalry, with a score of 92, would be the winner, had left the ranges before Nordstrom finished.

DIRECTUM I. WINS RACE.

Celebrated Pacer Makes His Debut in West by Victory at Detroit.

DETROIT, Mich., Sept. 15.—Large fields, close finishes, and two brilliant victories of horses driven by Andrews marked the opening day of a five-day Grand Circuit harness meeting here, held in connection with the State fair. No records were broken, but fast time was made in several heats, and in the 2:09 trot thirteen horses, the largest Grand Circuit field of the season, faced the starters.

As expected, Directum I., making his début on a Western track, romped away with the 2:05 pace. Pressed for a time in the first heat by Flower Direct, the sensational pacer came to the front on the stretch, obtained a safe lead, and came under the wire without greatly exerting himself. The second and final heat was all Directum's. He made the last quarter mile in 29¼ seconds against a stiff breeze, and won the heat in 2:03¾. The summary:

DANGERS TO BE SHUNNED.

The wording of the amendment to Section 14 of the Federal Reserve Bank bill, relating to rediscounts, gives warning of the danger of enacting a measure of this importance without subjecting every word and line to minute scrutiny. The language of the bill is in some sections crude, almost colloquial, and phrases are used that are unmeet for statutory declarations. The authors of the bill, of course, do not want to leave it open to misconstruction. That would invite confusion and lawsuits. There is danger, there is almost a certainty, that in some respects the act will be misconstrued, and the time to avert that danger is before enactment.

The section to which we have referred, that relating to rediscounts, as it appeared in the bill when introduced and in the first print, that of June 26, was a close copy of Section 26 of the Monetary Commission bill, commonly referred to as the Aldrich bill. Paper eligible for rediscount was described as "notes and bills of exchange arising out of commercial transactions, that is, notes and bills of exchange issued or drawn for agricultural, industrial, and commercial purposes." These words were copied from the Monetary Commission bill, and also the provision that the definition of rediscountable bills shall not include "notes or bills drawn for the purpose of carrying or trading in stocks, bonds, or other investment securities." This definition would be construed as restricting the rediscount privilege to commercial paper proper.

It will be remembered that some of the radical members of the House Committee sought to secure an amendment which in effect would make agricultural commodities, corn, cotton, or wheat, the basis or security upon which circulating notes would be issued. It was reported in the dispatches of Aug. 25 that a compromise had been effected with these gentlemen which yielded the shadow rather than the substance of their demand, and actually defeated their purpose. It is by no means certain that their purpose was defeated. The amendment accepted by the committee, which now appears in the latest printed draft of the bill, that of Sept. 9, is as follows:

> Nor shall anything herein contained be construed to prohibit such notes and bills of exchange, secured by staple agricultural products or other goods, wares, or merchandise, from being eligible for such discount.

It is open to most serious question whether Mr. HENRY and the other radicals did not get just what they wanted. There is a vital difference between "notes and bills of exchange "arising out of commercial transactions," and notes and bills "secured "by staple agricultural products or "other goods, wares, or merchandise." The latter definition is quite broad enough to include bills based upon warehouse receipts for agricultural or other commodities. True commercial paper, arising out of actual transactions, means notes or bills issued upon the security of commodities already sold, and these bills are paid when the purchaser of the commodities is put in funds by the further transaction of their resale. A note or bill "secured "by staple agricultural products or "other goods, wares, or merchandise" may not arise out of an actual transaction, that is, a sale of goods. The terms of this amendment are manifestly open to the use as security of warehouse receipts, representing commodities that have not been sold at all. In the one case the commodities have found a market, in the other they are waiting for a market. The risk of the market, therefore, is absent in the first case, it is very obviously present in the second, and if the market demand fails, as the market demand has a way of doing, the bank which has loaned money upon the security of the warehouse receipt may find itself forced to take the collateral, which is the very last thing a bank wants to do.

Yet bills "secured" by agricultural and other commodities not yet sold would under the amendment as drawn take their place with true commercial paper arising out of commercial transactions as the security held by the local Federal reserve agent to protect circulating notes issued through the Federal Reserve Bank. This collateral security is in addition to the gold or lawful money reserve underlying the notes, and Section 17 of the bill provides that "the collateral security thus "offered shall be notes and bills ac-"cepted for rediscount under the pro-"visions of Section 14 and 15 of this "act." Section 14, as we have shown, makes notes and bills "secured" by staple agricultural products eligible for rediscount.

The press report said that after the caucus adjourned on Aug. 25, the day on which this amendment was accepted by the committee, "the Henry-"Ragsdale forces contended that they "had won a victory." It is our opinion that they were well warranted in their rejoicing. The bill certainly seems to provide for the issue of circulating notes upon the security of notes and bills which among other things may rest upon corn, cotton, or wheat in the warehouse. It would be a perfectly legitimate banking operation, a proper enough banking risk, for a bank to discount a note, taking warehouse receipts as the collateral. It is very different when the United States Government is brought into the transaction, or when currency is put out upon such security. It is a vicious principle, it is inviting trouble and disaster, to involve the credit of the Government at all in the issue of paper currency. With double force, therefore, it may be urged that if such notes, issued by the Government to the banks, are to be an obligation of the Government, the underlying security, over and above the reserve requirement, should be so liquid in its nature as not to permit any doubt of convertibility into immediate cash. Those members of the House Committee who are called conservative were evidently too complacent in accepting this amendment as a compromise which baffled the designs of Mr. HENRY and his friends.

THE TARIFF ON ART.

Against the duty of 25 per cent. ad valorem placed by the Senate amendments to the Tariff bill on all foreign paintings and sculpture less than fifty years old, the American Free Art League, the Association of American Painters and Sculptors, the American Federation of Arts, and other societies, as well as many individual artists, have lodged protests with the Conference Committee on the tariff, now in session. There is, it seems, no strong support in Congress for the proposed tariff on art. None of the Senators on the Conference Committee spoke in the Senate in favor of the amendment to the provision for free art in the Underwood bill. Senator WILLIAMS of Mississippi, who is a member of the committee, is an advocate of free art. There is a good chance, therefore, that the tariff on art may be removed before the bill goes to the President for his signature; but the time is short, and it is necessary that the Conference Committee should be made to understand clearly that American artists generally favor the removal of the tax, that they scoff at the idea that they need protection from the competition of foreign artists.

To-day it is possible for an American citizen of moderate means to acquire works by RODIN, DEGAS, RENOIR, and MONET. With an extra charge of 25 per cent. the cost of works by those living masters will be needlessly increased. When they die the market value of their works will rise so greatly that people who are not very rich cannot hope to possess them. This is only one of the arguments in favor of free art presented to the Committee of Ways and Means by Mr. JOHN QUINN when the Tariff bill was framing. There are many other equally potent arguments in favor of untaxed art. They are all familiar. There is nothing whatever to say in favor of a tariff on art (which will never add much to the Government's revenues) except that rich men frequently buy pictures, and rich men ought to be taxed whenever there is a chance to tax them.

MEXICAN RUMORS.

On the eve of the Mexican celebration of Father HIDALGO'S uprising against the Spaniards, always of late an occasion of much rejoicing and military display, there seems to be more than usual uncertainty at Washington in regard to our international relations. In Congress yesterday the extraordinary bill appropriating another sum of $100,000 to help Americans to get out of Mexico was passed, without the formality of reference to a committee, but not until Senator BRISTOW of Kansas had found an opportunity to criticise the President's warning to Americans as "unfortunate" because it had "made the lot of "Americans in Mexico very much "harder than it was before." This seems to be the general feeling among Americans who have business interests in Mexico. Many of our compatriots, to be sure, are availing themselves of the Government's offer to help them out; but they are poor, and have no business left to attend to. Probably if the British Government should offer to pay the passage home of Englishmen in America the Consuls' offices would be overrun by applicants for free passage. That would not prove that the lives of Englishmen in this country were in danger.

The reports that bandits have captured 100 American refugees journeying from Torreon to Saltillo are still unverified. There is no lack of armed bandits, it seems, in all parts of Mexico, and they will kill for very little profit and often treat their prisoners with shameful indignities. But the Constitutionalists, so-called, whom we are expected to regard as Mexican patriots, are said to control the country between the two cities named, and they would scarcely injure American citizens. Probably the rumors have no more basis in fact than most of the other tales that come from Mexico. Probably, also, there is not the slightest danger of any outbreak against Americans in the capital, or elsewhere, on Independence Day. The only really significant news lately concerns the withdrawal of HUERTA'S Cabinet officers. MONDRAGON has been followed by REYES and URRUTIA. The reasons for their resignations are not known, but generally when Cabinet officers retire in Mexico it is because the Executive has no further use for them, and it must be confessed that the list of prominent Mexicans still persona grata with HUERTA seems to be growing small.

THE WISDOM OF MARSHALL.

> What is really needed is that the American business man should stop expecting Congress to open his store every morning and close it every evening for him.—Vice President MARSHALL in an interview reported yesterday.

There need be no trouble about that. The American business man is entirely willing to open his store in the morning without the aid of Congress. His troubles in recent years have arisen chiefly from the fear that although he might open his door, take down the shutters, and display the goods in the morning, Congress would come along before night and close the shop.

FRANCE'S NEW ORDER FOR SERVANTS.

The servant problem has become a difficult one for all modern countries and an increasingly difficult one in countries where, as in France and the United States, republican institutions tend to the leveling of the distinctions. Having tried almost all expedients to remedy this defect in our modern social order and without success, France is now falling back upon the old order, to the extent, at least, of using class distinctions as a meed of honor by instituting by Government decree a new order to be called the Distinguished Domestic Service Order. Under the law passed last July all domestic servants who have faithfully performed the duties of their estate, and whose conduct is irreproachable, shall, on the completion of thirty years in service, or even for less time under certain specified conditions, be admitted to the order and be entitled to wear a tricolored ribbon in their buttonholes.

The appeal is to a primal instinct in human nature under favorable conditions, but it is doubtful whether many will ever be qualified for admission into the new order. Even in SHAKESPEARE'S day, as we learn from the character of Adam in "As You Like It," the faithful old servant in whom so well appeared world,

When service sweat for duty, not for

was already looked upon as a rare survival of an earlier, kindlier time. In America, in England, and also in France there are similar survivals even to-day, but they are so infrequent that an order embracing them would probably be the least crowded of all orders open to the general public. A good, faithful servant of the old poetic type, however, should be highly honored, and France is leading the way in making the distinction a governmental one entitling its members to sport their tricolored ribbon as proudly as the wearer of the broad ribbon of the Legion of Honor.

MAXIMILIAN IN MEXICO.

Neither Europe nor America is celebrating an anniversary of great historic interest, the offer, fifty years ago this month, of the imperial crown of Mexico to Prince MAXIMILIAN, younger brother of the Emperor FRANCIS JOSEPH of Austria, at his castle of Miramar on the Adriatic. In that beautiful home built by himself MAXIMILIAN, who had retired a few years before from the Vice Royalty of Lombardy, was enjoying ideal happiness with his young wife, CARLOTTA, daughter of LEOPOLD I. of Belgium, when summoned at the instance of NAPOLEON III. to a throne propped up by French bayonets. NAPOLEON had long cherished the design to establish a vassal empire in Mexico, and in our civil war he saw his opportunity. The story of French invasion and occupation is well known.

Secretary SEWARD, as the war drew toward its close, increased the urgency of his demand, repeatedly made, that the French should evacuate Mexico and leave the Mexicans free to set up their own Government. NAPOLEON dared not challenge the United States by a refusal. Gen. PHILIP H. SHERIDAN was on the Rio Grande with a seasoned and disciplined army; other great armies of veterans were ready to obey the summons to battle, and Gens. GRANT and SHERMAN would willingly have followed in the footsteps of SCOTT and TAYLOR. The French troops were withdrawn. MAXIMILIAN, deceived as to the strength of his cause with the natives, refused to accompany BAZAINE across the ocean, and the month of May, 1867, saw the Emperor shut up with a small force at Querétaro, surrounded by an army of 40,000 Mexican avengers.

In those final days of his life and reign the hapless Austrian Prince exhibited a courage and nobility of character worthy of a descendant of MARIA THERESA. He faced death with more than reckless daring; he shared all the privations of his faithful adherents, and he was preparing to cut his way out through the host of besiegers when treachery delivered him to the enemy.

MIGUEL LOPEZ was the Benedict Arnold of Querétaro; personal immunity and 2,000 ounces of gold the price. LOPEZ held the key to Querétaro—the convent of La Cruz. MAXIMILIAN had been his friend and generous patron, and had appointed him chief of the imperial guard. LOPEZ discerned the approaching downfall of his sovereign and resolved to save himself by betraying him to the enemy. The Liberal troops were admitted to La Cruz, and the Emperor and his officers were prisoners.

In vain the Princess SALM-SALM, representing one of the proudest families in Europe, bent her knees before the Indian President of Mexico and pleaded for the life of MAXIMILIAN. "Boys, aim well—aim at my heart!" was MAXIMILIAN'S request to his executioners. "Oh man!" was his last cry as he fell, the victim of his own folly and of LOUIS NAPOLEON'S perfidy. The volley which pierced his breast was the knell of the Bonaparte dynasty. Gravelotte was but little more than three years from Querétaro.

CARLOTTA knew nothing of her husband's fate. Crushed by the refusal of NAPOLEON to recall his order for the withdrawal of the French troops from Mexico, she had become insane in the previous October, and has ever since been under safeguard in a royal palace in Belgium, having at times lucid intervals, during which, it is said, she writes her memoirs. She is now in her seventy-fourth year. With her death will be ended one of the most tragic chapters of history.

TOPICS OF THE TIMES.

A Mystery Easy of Solution.

If the relatives and friends of the late TIMOTHY D. SULLIVAN had made known more promptly his escape from his seemingly negligent attendants, the probabilities are that his body would have been recognized within a few hours after his death. His mental condition was such that anxiety for his safety must have followed immediately upon his disappearance, but for over a week the search for him, while conducted with some energy, was made without the enormous help it would have had if everybody had been more or less on the watch for the missing man.

That those who saw the mutilated body did not identify it is not particularly strange, though several of them had known SULLIVAN well in life and all had seen his pictures. Death is a wonderful changer of expression, as is shown by the frequency with which false identifications are made in cases where mistakes would seem to be impossible.

SULLIVAN'S friends, however, though themselves in part to blame for his narrow escape from burial in Potter's Field, have a real grievance against the Coroners' office and the police, not because of their failure to recognize the victim of the railway accident at sight, but because they apparently made no efforts at all to use the many clues which, if intelligently used, would have led straight and soon to recognition. The clear implication that the perfunctory treatment of this case is all that some others, and perhaps many, like it receive can hardly be avoided, and that is something that gives the episode a general interest and is calculated to excite an indignation far wider than is sympathy with grief for the death of a man like SULLIVAN. In spite of the kindliness that was one of his characteristics—a kindliness, by the way, that was extremely profitable to him and that he knew well how to capitalize—an unmarked grave would not have been the least fitting termination of his career. None the less, an official duty the proper performance of which may some day save any one of us from the culminating sorrow of uncertainty as to a close friend's death—which may, for that matter, save any one of us from going where he so nearly went—was in this instance neglected.

The responsibility should be fixed, and like negligence in the future should be, if possible, prevented. In that demand of the Sullivan clan the whole public will heartily join.

Responsibility Not All on the Railways.

With the general demand for the substitution by railways of elevated or depressed crossings for those at highway grade we are of course in sympathy. Every grade crossing is a public danger, and hardly a day passes without the recording of one or more fatalities at these death traps for human beings—traps the terrible effectiveness of which experience has only too well demonstrated. As it happens, however, the responsibility for grade crossings is one about equally divided between the railways and the public. Between them they decided long ago that roads thus built were preferable to no roads at all in many regions of limited traffic or to long delays in building while waiting for something like assurance of immediate profit.

Thus has arisen the present situation, presenting the embarrassing dilemma that the grade crossings are almost or quite intolerable, while their removal is so costly as to be well nigh unthinkable either by the corporations who would spend the money or by the public out of which, of course, it would all have to come.

A circular on the subject just issued by the Pennsylvania Railway declares that to eliminate the grade crossings on that road alone would cost $600,000,000. That is a truly appalling amount, and it justifies the road in calling attention to what we all know to be a fact—that only in the rarest instances is anybody killed or hurt at one of these crossings who has not himself been guilty of gross contributory negligence. A grade crossing is safe enough for anybody who will heed the old exhortation to "stop, look, and listen" before venturing on the track. This simple precaution a few people already take, but they are very few who stop, and not many more do any real looking or listening.

Human nature is made that way, and there is little use in scolding about a form of carelessness exhibited by a great majority of the earth's inhabitants. The only present remedy seems to be the more efficient guarding of more crossings with gates and watchmen. That, too, is expensive, but it will cost thousands, instead of millions, and there will be incidental savings in money as well as in life large enough to deserve the consideration of railway economists.

Condemned for Its Efficiency.

That Pennsylvania's new marriage license law is a well-intentioned but ill-devised law can be proved easily enough. The information which those who drew it sought should be obtained and the restrictions they endeavored to impose are along the lines laid down by sound eugenics. Their mistake lay in directing their inquiries to the wrong persons—to persons likely to be either unqualified or unwilling to answer them.

But though the law is bad, or at least might easily be better, it should not be condemned for such effectiveness as it has, and that is what certain Pennsylvania officials are doing, presumably because it deprives them of a few fees they would otherwise get.

It is indignantly reported from Pittsburgh, for instance, that some thirty pairs of applicants for licenses have angrily refused to submit to interrogation, and have gone angrily away, vowing to get married where the State was less inquisitive.

This is no calamity, it being somewhat more than probable that in most, if not all, of these cases good cause of some sort or other existed for refusing the license. If the objectors went elsewhere to get married, that only shows that where they went proper restrictions are not yet enforced. They will be, everywhere, sooner or later, under laws far wiser than that of Pennsylvania, and if then some unions are prevented altogether, the purpose of the reform will have been achieved.

USED PAPER CUPS.

Theatre Usher Said to Collect Them and Serve Them to Others.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

On the editorial page of a recent issue of THE TIMES I noticed a contribution regarding the practice indulged in by small boys of collecting and reselling used and discarded paper drinking cups.

In this connection I wish to call attention to the following incident: On Labor Day night I attended one of the theatres just off Broadway, a few blocks above Times Square, where a very popular play has already had a lengthy run. During one of the interims between acts I left my seat and went to the smoking room. One of the female ushers directly preceded me, carrying a carrier full of paper drinking cups which had just been used in serving water to the audience, and collected again after their contents had been consumed. In the smoking room a water tank was located, to which this usher went and refilled these already used paper cups. I then followed her upstairs and watched her redistribute the same among the audience. This practice was repeated during the next interval between acts, which led me to believe that it was a general custom, and not an unusual infraction of the rules by an employe.

In order to prevent the repeated use of these cups, I believe every one should make a point to crush the same after using, so as to make them unfit for continued service. I have made it a rule to do this for some time, and in each case the surprised and disapproving look of the attendant has given me the impression that the repeated use of these cups is a general custom.

Personality After Death.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

In a recent issue of THE TIMES you give a prominent headline to the announcement by Sir Oliver Lodge that "personality lives after death." This is not new by any means. A few years ago Everyman's Library issued Swedenborg's work, "Heaven and Hell," which was written by Swedenborg over 150 years ago. In his works Swedenborg shows clearly, conclusively, and in a most sane and rational manner that individuals after passing from this mundane sphere still continue to retain their identity in every respect in the other life, and all reading Swedenborg's work will easily come to the conclusion he does, if they are open to conviction. The criticism that I make is this, that if there is any credit to this theory with some and belief with others, Swedenborg is entitled to what credit attaches to it.

Boy Babies Cry More.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

In reply to "H. V. B.," Secretary of the Nupop Club, whose letter appeared recently under the heading "Girl Babies and Boy Babies," permit me, a trained nurse, to tell him that boy babies cry much more often than girl babies and require more attention. I served six months in a baby ward, where orders were given to quiet the boy babies as soon as possible, the reason being that they might injure themselves if left to "cry it out." (hernia.)

We were greatly overworked, and often were obliged to let the baby girls cry, but the boys—never. "Men must work and women must weep" thus begins early. Also in this way begins our catering to the lords of creation, which lasts all our life, sometimes to our sorrow, ofttimes to our happiness.

Engineering Salaries.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

In re the matter of engineering salaries, I know a young man who is a draughtsman—a member of the Society of Engineer Draughtsmen—in a large manufactory. He is not a college graduate, and not even a high school graduate, but he is earning $100 a month, and has not had a "pull" of any kind.

I was talking with him about the letters in THE TIMES, and he expressed regret that wages are so low. He said one trouble was that engineers and draughtsmen were not organized as labor is. He thought that if they formed such a "solidarity of units" as may be found among other branches they might in time obtain at least two-thirds as much as a mason or a carpenter, though they could hardly ever hope for 70 cents an hour.

A Shock-Absorbing Car.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

The editorial, "Baggage Cars as Buffers," appearing in to-day's issue of your valued paper, tempts me to make a suggestion which I have had in mind for a long time, and which would, I am sure, if followed, reduce to a minimum the horrors of both head-on and rear-end collisions.

Could not a flat car (i. e., a car low enough not to obstruct the view from the engine) be constructed to act as a huge shock absorber and be placed both before the locomotive and behind the rear car of every train? It seems to me that a flat car made up of three separate compartments, one compartment for each wheel truck, and so constructed that these compartments would telescope each other in case of a collision, would serve the purpose well.

Mr. Bryan's Lecture Tours.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

In your issue of this date, speaking of Secretary of State Bryan, you say, "It is obvious that he has so much work to do in Washington that he ought not to take time for lecture tours." Is it not more obvious that he has so much work to do outside of Washington earning his living that he ought in justice to himself and the nation resign his official position and give President Wilson an opportunity to appoint a Secretary of State who could attend to the duties of that office, and, furthermore, save our diplomatic service in Washington from becoming the laughing stock of other nations?

WILD BIRD SLAUGHTER.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

A letter signed Herbert Syrett in THE TIMES contains some statements in regard to the feather trade and its relation to bird life that one in sympathy with the work of the Audubon Societies cannot well pass over.

He asks for the name and habitat of any species of wild bird that has been reduced appreciably in numbers or brought near to extermination by the agents of the trade. The snowy heron and American egret of Florida have been so reduced. A comparatively few years ago they were found in Florida in countless thousands. To-day they exist in small numbers in preserves and shelters that have been established by societies and individuals interested in bird protection, and they exist there solely because they are guarded by wardens with guns in their hands. These birds were slaughtered to provide the aigrettes of the millinery trade.

The sea birds of our coast, which, like the herons, gather in colonies to nest, have been subjected to the same persecution with the same result. The last tern, once a common species in this vicinity, to-day nests in just one protected rookery north of the North Carolina coast, and that is on Martha's Vineyard.

Mr. Syrett states that the ostrich and rhea would long since have been exterminated (by the feather trade, he failed to add) if the feather trade had not found it more profitable to raise the birds on farms. That statement is true enough, and if Mr. Syrett thinks it much of an argument for his side of the question, he is welcome to it.

The egret and bird of paradise, however, cannot be so raised for their feathers, since they cannot be "plucked" without injury as the ostrich can in the moulting season, but must be killed (and that at the breeding time) before their feathers become available.

It is not the object of the Audubon Societies to save birds by domestication, but to protect and preserve them in their wild state, not only for their own sake, but for the sake of our forests and farms. There would be no need to save the egret and bird of paradise by domestication if it were not for the slaughter of these species for millinery purposes.

Finally Mr. Syrett reminds us that feather dealers and importers are some times American citizens. They are. So were the slave traders. So are the distributers of adulterated food, the employers of child labor, Mr. Harry Thaw and "Gyp the Blood." What has that to do with the case?

JAMES TWEEDIE.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Herbert Syrett's letter in your issue of Saturday anent bird "preservation" moves me to say that I have just returned from England, where I saw vast flocks of the beautiful and graceful seagulls inhabiting the stern cliffs which form the greater part of the coast line there. I had thought them surely safe in those sheer and rugged heights, but was saddened to see in London illustrated weeklies at the time photos showing the shooting of these birds, and the men below in boats picking up the dead and wounded bodies as they fell into the sea. Would Mr. Syrett contend that this works for the "preservation and protection" of these birds?

Why cannot the milliners be satisfied with the feathers of the common barnyard fowl? They can be dyed any color, and nobody feels it inhuman to make an enjoyable meal off the bodies first.

The Promises of Mr. Sulzer.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

In THE TIMES of Oct. 19, 1912, Mr. Sulzer, then the Democratic nominee for Governor, is quoted as follows: "As a candidate for Governor I will not accept a contribution from any State or municipal official or employe. If elected Governor I intend to go into office untrammeled and free from all obligation."

On Nov. 13, 1912, Mr. Sulzer signed and made oath to a statement of receipts and expenditures, which statement he now says was presented to him by persons in whom he had confidence, and that he signed it without examination.

Is it possible of belief that the Governor forgot his promise to the "peepul" even before he took his oath of office, and trusted to others to see that no State or municipal official or employe placed him under obligation by contributing to his campaign fund?

A Young Widow's Family.

A young widow with four little girls has her hands full looking after their welfare. The shock of her husband's unexpected death quite unnerved her and she has not been able to undertake any work outside her home. The money raised among his fellow-employes at the time of his death and the insurance paid her are exhausted and neither relatives nor friends can be of further help to her. She is essentially a homemaker and has excellent judgment in the management of her home and children. The necessary medical care has been provided for her, and her health is improving. She needs $10 a week to meet the expenses of the home. The Charity Organization Society asks for $260 to provide this during the next six months.

Gifts may be sent to the office of the society, 105 East Twenty-second Street, and will be acknowledged.

THE WAY OF THE WORLD.

The earth is round,
I'm sure of that,
Despite the fact
Some say it's flat.
I know it's round
Because I've seen
The proof of it,
And I'm not green.
For instance, when One's started it
To roll his way
A little bit,
It gathers motion,
And, by gum,
Before he's hep,
It's going some.
Then more and more
It goes until
He cannot stop it
If he will.
Nor does he try
Its course to stay,
Since it is coming
All his way.
At least, it looks Like that, and he Accepts it as Rotundity.

AFTERWORD.

It's round, of course;
For, brethren, say,
It rolls as fast
The other way.

PLAYS AND SEX INSTINCT

A Reply to Prof. Muensterberg's Article in Sunday's Times.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

The sensational agitation against the so-called "white-slave" plays found a strange and somewhat illogical echo in Prof. Muensterberg's article in your issue of yesterday. Prof. Muensterberg bases his opposition solely on psychological grounds, whereas those who have been leading the movement to close "The Fight" and "The Lure" have apparently been moved by aesthetic reasons only. There is no common footing on which these two can meet, but of the two that of Prof. Muensterberg seems by far the weaker, because it starts from a premise not exactly in accordance with generally accepted facts.

The argument of the professor rests on the fact that discussion of sexual problems brings into play what he would have us believe are normally dormant emotions. But it cannot be denied that in the adolescent period this wonderful discovery of something new occupies an extremely large amount of the time and attention of young people, that all reading of matter even tinged by eroticism causes an almost unbelievable response, that they curiously pry into all matters concerning which there has been lack of knowledge previously, and, principally, that it is only in very rare cases that they do not receive a plethora of information on sex subjects, and this usually in a way absolutely objectionable.

In these, as in so many cases, therefore, it is not ignorance which is at fault (as Prof. Muensterberg would have us believe is the cry of those supporting the view opposed to his) but merely lack of frankness. It is the wrong sort of information that is most widely disseminated.

The article gives, very correctly, reasons for the "fall of women," but it should be remembered that the subject of both these plays is not that, but white slavery, and while knowledge of what white slavers are doing will not always prevent girls from falling into the traps set for them, the public sentiment aroused, especially among those who otherwise are blind to what they do not see, cannot help but have a decidedly beneficial effect.

The article continues by saying: "We may instruct with the best intention to suppress, and yet our instruction itself must become a source of stimulation." I do not believe that suppression has been aimed at; it is our desire to make normal the sex life—to make it cleaner by removing from it the morbidity which now attaches to it. As to the second part of the quotation, only those who have for some time discussed these matters freely and sanely have been able to rid themselves of that stimulation which an earlier, narrower education imposed by its policy of secrecy.

But for those who do not so believe, what is "the trained respect for the mysterious unknown" of which Prof. Muensterberg speaks? How will you train the adolescent to respect that of which you dare tell him—nothing? Surely that policy has resulted in enough misery, and surely it is better to teach an avoidance of evil than simply to avoid teaching.

TO SEE IMMIGRANTS' FOOD.

Commission Will Go to Ellis Island To-day—Witness Barred.

The special commission engaged in the investigation of the immigrant commissary at this port will go to Ellis Island to-day and resume the inquiry there. Officials of the Bureau of Immigration at the island and employes who may be able to give any information will have an opportunity to testify. Bryon H. Uhl, Acting Commissioner of Immigration, will probably ask to be heard, as his name has been mentioned by several witnesses.

Chairman Hughes of the commission announced when the inquiry was continued yesterday that the commission had decided to exclude Fritz Lindinger of 105 Broad Street from further testimony in the proceeding until he consented to be examined concerning the affidavit he sent to the Bureau of Immigration with his unsuccessful bid for the Ellis Island commissary. A copy of this affidavit in possession of the commission shows that Lindinger swore he had no judgments against him, that he was in good financial standing, and able to carry out the contract if he obtained it.

Ex-Congressman Bennet, counsel for the successful contractors, Hudgins & Dumas, filed with the commission a statement from the Title Guarantee and Trust Company, containing a list of judgments alleged to have been entered against Lindinger at the time. Next to Alfred W. McCann, Lindinger was one of the chief complaining witnesses against the contractors.

Among a dozen witnesses examined yesterday, including Immigrant Inspectors and dockmasters at the Barge Office at the Battery, supply men and steamship agents, all testified they had not seen or known of any bad food shipped to Ellis Island.

Sebastian Stock, an Inspector in the Bureau of Animal Industry, told the commission that the bureau had placed an Inspector at Ellis Island since the investigation had begun.

15,000 DEFECTIVES MENACE NEW YORK

Dr. Schlapp of Post-Graduate Hospital Says Homes Must Be Provided for Their Care.

FERTILE SOURCE OF CRIME

Dangerous Subjects Are Released Now from Overcrowded Asylums at the Whim of Relatives.

There are 15,000 mentally defective children and adults in New York City and more than 35,000 in the State, according to a statement made yesterday by Dr. M. G. Schlapp of the Post-Graduate Hospital, which is the "clearing house" for defectives for the city. The State institutions were capable of handling only some 6,000 of these patients, he asserted. Dr. Schlapp insisted that steps must be taken both by the city and the State to provide institutions to which such children and adults might be committed, and to prevent these being released at the whims of their parents or other relatives.

"The importance of this recommendation is apparent," Dr. Schlapp said, "from the fact that almost every defective child is a potential criminal. If not surrounded by proper influences, these children are a menace to the community, especially in the period of adolescence. From the public schools, the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Children, the police courts, hospitals, orphan asylums, charity organizations, the Department of Health, and all public and private philanthropic sources cases of children and adults are sent to us for tabulation and examination.

"We make a scientific record of all cases with clinical and pathological tests, and as a result of our labors the defective is committed to an institution where he will be properly cared for. Then comes the discouraging feature of the situation. A few months elapse, or perhaps a year or two goes by. Then the mother of the child or the family of the adult are stirred by a natural desire to take back their loved one into their home. We have no way of preventing this from being done, and as a matter of fact under the present inadequate arrangements the institutions are only too willing to open their gates. It is a case of opening the back door to discharge a patient to make room for a new case waiting for admission at the front door.

"Another condition which I desire to make known to the public is the utter lack of proper co-operation on the part of the city officials and the private organizations which commit defectives to our care. It is absolutely essential to a proper investigation of these cases that the parents of a child should come here with the boy or girl and we have insisted time and again that we would not receive patients unless this rule was observed. Nevertheless, this simple request is ignored more often than it is observed. There are questions bearing upon congenital mental defection which only the parents of a child can answer. Pre-natal conditions, transmissible disease on the part of either parent, environment, and the history of the child from birth as to fevers or other diseases from which it has suffered, all these things are important for us to learn.

"More important than anything else is the immediate necessity for financial aid from the city. The hospital is fulfilling a public function and should receive some support from the city if we are to continue this work. We should also receive proper co-operation from the Departments of Education, Correction, and Charities, which send a large percentage of our cases to us. We hold clinics daily and examine from 30 to 75 patients at each session."

Dr. Schlapp said that of the cases received more than 80 per cent. were found to be true mental defectives.

"We sometimes get patients who prove to be perfectly normal," he continued. "Sometimes, in the case of school children, they are merely instances of retarded mental development from physical causes—such as adenoids or some other affliction. Such cases can be cured but are subjects for medical or surgical treatment. True defectives cannot be cured. All that can be done for them is to assure the patients proper care and environment.

"We have found that no scientific dependence can be put upon the so-called physical indications of degeneracy. Malformed palates, ears and other physical attributes generally accredited to degenerates are often in evidence in perfectly normal individuals. On the other hand we receive degenerates who have absolutely no physical defects."

Dr. Schlapp added that his investigations had tended to discredit the eugenic theory.

"Of course heredity plays a part," he said, "but the theory is carried to extremes. Environment is a more important factor. By environment I include the surroundings of the mother in the pre-natal period and all outside influences which are brought to bear upon the defective before and after birth."

Dr. Schlapp invited a reporter for THE NEW YORK TIMES to attend a clinic which lasted three hours, in the course of which more than forty patients were examined. The cases ranged from that of a little boy 6 years old to a woman of 32. In each case the Binet test was used, consisting of questions arranged on charts. Simple problems in arithmetic were put, and the subjects were asked to repeat numerals. A woman 23 years old was found to possess the mentality of a normal child of 4 years. A boy of 12, a confirmed runaway, had the intelligence of a three-year-old child. This boy spoke usually in monosyllables, repeating such words as "books," "park," and "teacher." He could not count or compose a sentence. He made his wants known by saying "hungry," "water," or by gestures. The father of this lad desired to take him home, asserting that his wife was crying for her son. Before consenting to surrender the patient Dr. Schlapp sent the father to the Children's Society, which had committed him to his charge.

"That is a typical case," said Dr. Schlapp. "That boy is just entering upon the adolescent period. He has the mind of a three-year-old and the instinct of a youth. He is irresponsible, and if set free is certain to run away from home again and may commit some criminal act."

Dr. Schlapp announced that from Oct. 7 to Oct. 30 an exhibition of the work done by the Post-Graduate Hospital in its clinics would be open to the public in the Metropolitan Life Building. The exhibition will be illustrated with thousands of photographs and charts. Part of the daily programme will consist of a moving-picture play in several reels, portraying the careers of three boys from birth to manhood. All three are defectives. One is committed to an institution and permitted to stay there. The other two grow to manhood, unrestrained, and become dangerous criminals.

"It will illustrate what is happening every day in this great city of ours," the physician asserted.

NEW CENTURY OPERA OPENS WITH 'AIDA'

An Excellent Performance of Verdi's Popular Work Is Given in English.

LARGE AUDIENCE APPLAUDS

Mmes. Amsden and Howard, Messrs. Kingston and Kreidler Good in Chief Parts—Faults in Orchestra and Chorus.

The King	George Shields
Amneris	Kathleen Howard
Rhadames	Morgan Kingston
Ramfis	Alfred Kaufman
Amonasro	Louis Kreidler
Messenger	Vernon Dalhart
Priestess	Florence Coughlan
Aïda	Elizabeth Amsden

Conductor—Alfred Szendrei.

A beginning was made toward confuting the prophets of evil last night by the successful opening of the new Century Opera at the Century Theatre. As is by this time well known this is an attempt to give opera at low prices, and chiefly in English, for a large class of music lovers who are supposed to be debarred from the joys of opera as it has hitherto been given in New York, on account of its excessive and increasing cost. It is by no means the first time that such an attempt has been made, but its projectors hope that a more favorable set of circumstances, or a more intelligent use of them, will bring a lasting success to this latest venture. It is an experiment fraught with many beneficent possibilities if success is attained; and the results of the opening night seemed to be auspicious, so far as the results of an opening night may be taken as significant.

The opera was Verdi's "Aïda." The audience room was crowded in all its parts, as audience rooms are likely to be on first nights. There was enthusiasm—also frequently abundant on first nights—and there was obviously a generous spirit of approval throughout the house for a performance which, under the circumstances, had many excellences. "Aïda" has had worse presentations in New York at two and a half times the money than it had last evening at the Century Opera House, and those who witnessed the performance from the two-dollar seats, as well as from the twenty-five-cent ones, may well consider that they received a full value.

The performance was in many respects vigorous and picturesque. It was not at all points notable for dramatic life nor for the vivid high light and shadows for which this opera gives abundant opportunity; yet several of the scenes were not without brilliancy and the strong effects which can hardly fail in any respectable performance of "Aïda."

All the principal singers were probably unknown to this public, but several of them have sung upon foreign stages. They showed in various degrees competency, experience and a knowledge of the stage that were commendable. It was certainly not a performance dominated by the influence of "stars." How far from such an influence it was was shown by the "alternative" enumeration of the chief singers on the house bill, by which there was some difficulty presented in ascertaining who was singing, especially as in one case there was an error to be corrected. It was Miss Elizabeth Amsden, who sang the part of Aïda, and there was excellent metal in her voice, as there was in the voices of Miss Howard the Amneris, Mr. Kingston the Rhadames, and Mr. Kreidler the Amonasro.

Mr. Kingston's method of singing is somewhat strenuous, and last evening, at any rate, he made little use of the finer graces of vocal technique. But it is a voice from which excellent things may be expected.

Mr. Kreidler utilized with skill the opportunities for picturesqueness and dramatic power that the part of the royal captive gave him. Miss Howard's Amneris was better in voice than in the finer nuances of dramatic expression; although a clear conception and an intelligent purpose were manifested in her impersonation. All these singers are destined to become familiar to this public in the course of the next thirty-five weeks; and they will have an opportunity to show their powers to better advantage than was possible on the occasion of a first night.

The orchestra and the chorus likewise may be expected to present themselves somewhat more favorably than they did last evening. The orchestra is not large, and both its quality and ensemble need to be improved. The chorus did not sound so fresh nor so voluminous as some American operatic choruses have sounded. But it did excellent work, and is likely to better it. And Mr. Szendrei, the conductor, demonstrated capability in various directions—knowledge of the score, authority, a feeling for some of the less obvious dramatic effects of the music, as well as for those that are not hidden from the meanest intelligence.

The opera was unusually well staged, and, indeed, very handsomely. Most, if not all, of the scenes may have seemed familiar to habitués of the Metropolitan Opera House, as if they were the settings used there before the present ones were acquired. They are rich in color and generally excellent in architectural effect. The costumes, too, were opulent and appropriate. All that was presented to the eye, in fact, suggested the very material advantages likely to accrue to the Century Opera from its close and friendly relations with the Metropolitan.

The scenic outfit was unusually fine and elaborate, and had much beauty of color and solidity of architectural effect; the Nile scene was picturesque in its suggestion of Oriental landscape. In fact, there was something familiar in all this scenery to habitués of the Metropolitan Opera House—something that suggested the scenic arrangements that were made for "Aïda" before the settings now in use there were provided a few years ago. The spectacle that "Aïda" afforded last evening was in truth one of the first fruits of the co-operation between the older and the newer institutions that is expected to have a beneficent result upon the Century Opera's productions.

The costumes also were rich and varied, harmonious in color, and effective in the groupings. And yet some may have found it incongruous that Aïda herself appeared in a garment so nearly approaching the present close fit of feminine fashion.

The fact that the performance was in English was more vividly brought to public realization than has been the case in most such performances in recent years. The size and acoustic qualities of the house, which appeared more favorable to the purely musical results than ever before, assist in the seizing and comprehension of the English words. There was an evident effort at clear enunciation, and the effect was on the whole to further the understanding of the work by those who wish to understand it.

It would be obviously unjust to make this first performance a criterion in judging of the possibilities of the new operatic enterprise. With all the excellences that were shown in it, future performances ought to show still more. Such an enterprise is not got into working order in a few weeks or a few months.

The public will be willing to make plenty of allowances for the difficulties that beset such a beginning. It is a beginning made with enthusiasm and in good faith, and the public's attitude toward it is likely to be one of good will and hopefulness. The scenic establishment of the Century Opera as a permanent institution in New York will give to the city something useful, something much needed, something that will make for the good of the lyric drama.

Francis Macmillan, Violinist, Here.

Francis Macmillen, the American violinist, returned yesterday from Europe on the Koenigin Luise, after an absence of three years, to appear in 100 concerts and recitals in the large cities of the United States and Canada. He brought with him a Stradivarius violin valued at $15,000. His first appearance in New York will be at the Metropolitan Opera House at one of the Sunday night concerts.

'MARRIAGE MARKET' SHOWN.

Donald Brian Appears in a London Musical Comedy in Baltimore.

Special to The New York Times.

BALTIMORE, Md., Sept. 15.—Charles Frohman came to Baltimore to-night to personally supervise the first presentation in this country of his London musical comedy, "The Marriage Market." It also marked the opening of the season at the Academy. Donald Brian acted the rôle played by Robert Michaels in London, while Percival Knight played G. P. Huntley's rôle, and Miss McComas the character acted by Gertie Millar in London.

The plot concerns a supposedly mock marriage between a cowboy and an heiress, which turns out to be real. The scenes are laid in a ranch town in California, a private yacht, and the home of the heiress in San Francisco.

Miss McComas is a former Baltimorean, a daughter of Judge McComas. The scenic effects were a feature. Mr. Erlanger, Mr. Nixon, and other theatrical men were present.

'MADAM PRESIDENT' SEEN AT THE GARRICK

A Palais Royal Farce That Is Chiefly Notable for Its Vulgarity.

FAMILIAR COMPLICATIONS

Just why the thinly veiled insinuations of French farce generally enjoy an immunity from a certain kind of criticism which is meted out to more serious plays of questionable taste is one of those things which cannot be explained, though the effort is made to explain it occasionally on the gratuitous assumption that to denounce is to advertise. Such being the case, one should hesitate, perhaps, to allude to the something more than crass vulgarity of the final passages of Act I. in "Madam President," otherwise to be noted more as an example of longevity than for any other innate quality.

Produced fifteen or twenty years ago this latest importation from the Palais Royal might have been regarded as fit subject for the use of the word "Frenchy"—and to the Anglo-Saxon mind of, say, twenty years ago, what depths of ignominy that suggested. Now, however, as one sees the play the fact is apparent that something beside history repeats itself. And one wonders at the susceptibility of that part of the Paris public which still goes to see such things. By way of extenuation for the Paris playgoer it may be admitted that their actors in these plays have a lightness of touch and good-humored irresponsibility rarely approximated here.

It certainly was not approximated last night. For Miss Fanny Ward's touch is not gossamer, nor is the method of any of the principal members of her company such as to create a sense of the innocuous.

And so the final passages of the first act, with a Parisian music hall artiste passing herself off for the wife of a respectable rural Magistrate, and "carrying on" as these ladies are supposed to carry on with a flirtatious minister from Paris, merely left one in doubt as to whether it were time to call for the firemen or the gendarmes. Here, at least, there can be doubt of the intent, and certainly there was no question of the effect.

What remained, however, was mostly familiar enough, with occasional passages that created laughter after long periods of suspense, during which the obvious machinery of the farcical preparation was being laboriously prepared.

The Magistrate's wife comes to Paris to intercede with the minister in his behalf. And in the meantime the minister has made an appointment to see the actress. There, having discarded her outer garments, the actress is wooed not only by the minister but by his secretary, who is having a genuine love affair with the daughter of the Magistrate. Ultimately the Magistrate's wife arrives, is mistaken for the housemaid, and is asked by the minister to disrobe, the idea being to provide a garment for the actress, whose own clothes have disappeared. As may be inferred, the Magistrate now arrives, sees his wife minus her outer garments, is convinced of her duplicity, and becomes the general fool of everybody concerned. This brief recital, let it be added, conveys a very slight impression of the entire affair which, though designedly naughty, was more often positively stupid.

Nance O'Neil in Dramatic Playlet.

Nance O'Neil appeared yesterday at the Palace Theatre for the first time in a new one-act dramatic playlet, "The Second Ash Tray," by Gaston Mervale. It proved to be a rather gruesome variation of the triangle theme, in which a husband, whose character was made to be out of sympathy with the audience, liberates a dangerous snake into a conservatory in which he suspects the lover to be hiding when he finds a second ash tray on the table at dinner which has been served in his absence. The scene is laid in India. By the intensity of her acting Miss O'Neil carried through the climax of the piece, and the playlet was fairly well received. An unusual acrobatic number, the Uessems, in "Artists' Children," scored a success on the same bill.

Swift & Co.'s sales of fresh beef in New York City for the week ending Saturday, Sept. 13, averaged 11.99 cents per pound.—Adv.

"ROB ROY" REVIVED.

De Koven Opera Enthusiastically Received—Bessie Abott Excels.

There was an oldish gentleman with white hair in the third row of orchestra chairs last night at the Liberty Theatre who must have been at the original production of "Rob Roy" when the De Koven comic opera was first presented nearly twenty years ago. During the first act of the revival of the same piece last night he retained his composure fairly well, during the second he was waving his arms in the air in time to most of the music, and in the third act emotion apparently overcame him and he seemed to have so much difficulty in restraining his enthusiasm that it was never certain his seat would contain him.

To a great extent the rest of the audience shared his feelings, although they heard the operetta with a difference. It was all new to them. There was no reason for anyone who heard it the first time last night not thinking it had been written day before yesterday. One fresh sparkling tune succeeded another so rapidly that pretty soon there was no observable difference between the oldish gentleman in the third row and the rest of the auditors. Everyone seemed to be having an equally good time.

Next to the agreeable quality of De Koven's music, the most observable thing about the performance was the splendid singing of the principal artists, headed by Bessie Abott and including James Stevens, Frank Pollock, Herbert Waterous, and Henriette Wakefield. Last night's audience rose to it, and frequently acted as if could not get enough. If there ever was a "no encore" rule it was broken early in the evening at the insistence of the audience, and never got strength enough to revive up to the final curtain.

Indeed, it was in the last act, with the clock pointing past 11 o'clock, that some of the most persistent encoring occurred. Frank Pollock had to repeat his chansonette, Jefferson De Angelis and Sidney Bracy were saved only by main force from going over a burlesque serenade for the third time, and it was when Herbert Waterous sang his Turnkey's song in subterranean tones for the third time that the oldish gentleman in the third row placed his head on the seat in front of him and wept tears of grateful remembrance.

Bessie Abott sang charmingly and looked a picture in Highland costume, and her rôle was not obtrusively a prima donna's, which takes all the good things in the piece and leaves the rest "also rans." In fact, there was enough left for James Stevens to make a striking impression in his action and singing of the title rôle. Frank Pollock never sang better than he did last night as the young Pretender, Prince Charlie.

The story of the piece concerned itself with the troubles of the Prince in his revolt against the English soldiery. Probably the oldish gentleman in the third row could retell the plot word for word, but for any one else it will suffice to say that it was a Scottish edition of any of Chauncey Olcott's plays.

The scenic effects were the kind to bring applause on the rising of the curtain—and not started by the ushers, either. There were several striking pictorial effects, notably at the close of the first act, when the stage and the hill paths behind it were filled with Scottish tartans and flashing claymores. Then in the second act there were a dozen girls who danced in pure white Highland costumes with stunning effect.

Jefferson De Angelis had the comedian's rôle and produced many laughs with none too striking material. The piece was, however, of the De Koven type of "singing show," rather than one in which the comedy parts are featured. He was assisted in the fun-making division by Sidney Bracy and Fred Frear, while Ralph Brainard was good in the rôle of the Captain of the English soldiers, who was always willing to arrest any one pointed out to him as Prince Charlie.

DE FREMERY MARRIAGE.

The Times Finds Published Details Are Erroneous.

In the report printed in THE TIMES of Sept. 12 of the resignation of the Rev. Dr. Percy Stickney Grant as President of the Liberal Club, an organization formed for the discussion of various social questions, reference was made to the publication some months ago in an evening newspaper of alleged details concerning the marriage of Mrs. Herman de Fremery.

PROF. A. VAMBERY DIES IN BUDAPEST

Traveler and Orientalist Whose Works Are Widely Read Was Honored by King Edward VII.

HIS TRIP THROUGH ASIA

Professor of Oriental Languages at Pest University Began His Career as a Tailor's Apprentice.

BUDAPEST, Hungary, Sept. 15.—Prof. Arminius Vambery, one of the best-known travelers and Orientalists of the nineteenth century, died here to-day in his eighty-second year. He was much revered both in his native Hungary and other countries, and his works were widely read. He traveled throughout Central Asia as a young man in the disguise of a dervish, and on his return he was appointed Professor of Oriental Languages at Pest University owing to his profound knowledge of the various idioms.

Prof. Vambery was uncertain as to the date of his birth. When asked to sign Queen Victoria's birthday book at Windsor in 1889 he confessed his ignorance, and with the royal permission entered the date of March 19, 1832. He was the son of a devout Jew and distinguished Talmudist named Bamberger, the name in time becoming changed into Magyar "Vambery."

The young Vambery was first a tailor's apprentice, then a pupil of Piarist Friars, and of Lutheran pastors, and subsequently became a private tutor of languages. A taste for Oriental literature led him in the later fifties to make his way to Constantinople. The influence of Turkish friends coupled with his abilities gained him an entrance into Ottoman society, and by 1861 he had become a veritable Effendi, with the name of Rashid.

He obtained a subsidy of £80 from the Hungarian Academy of Sciences to visit Central Asia for the purpose of investigating the affinities of the Magyar tongue, and joined a caravan of mendicant pilgrims on its way back from Mecca to Persia, roaming about from Trebizond to Teheran, Bokhara, Samarkand, Herat, and back to Teheran. Of the ever-present danger of detection and death he has told in his books, as also how he took precautionary steps to escape torture by carrying three strychnine pills hidden in the wadding of his mantle.

On his return to Europe his native country, Hungary, practically ignored him, but in England he found a warm welcome and flattering recognition, both as a traveler and as an Orientalist.

Subsequently he became professor of Oriental languages at the University of Pest, where he made his home and conducted a propaganda against Russian expansion in Central Asia and in favor of a policy of active resistance on the part of Britain. He kept in constant touch with the East by correspondence as well as periodic visits to Constantinople, becoming in later years an adviser of Sultan Abdul Hamid.

The British public was kept in touch with him through lectures, books, and letters in The Times, and his continued championship of British interests won him recognition from public men of both parties, as well as the friendship of the then Prince of Wales, who later, as King Edward VII., in 1902 bestowed on him the Commandership of the Victorian Order.

Prof. Vambery's works include "Wanderings and Adventures in Persia," "Sketches of Central Asia," "History of Bokhara," "Manners in Oriental Countries," "The Turkish People," and "Western Culture in Eastern Lands."

CHRISTOPHER MOLLER DIES.

Wealthy New Yorker Slashed His Throat in London on Sept. 4.

Christopher Moller, a wealthy New Yorker, who attempted suicide by slashing his throat with a razor early on the morning of Sept. 4 in his apartments at the Hotel Cecil in London, died there yesterday. He was 76 years old, and had retired from active business, although the New York Social Register still gives his address as 74 Wall Street. He had lived much in London in the last twenty years, and had been there this time since February.

When he arrived he was accompanied by his daughter, who died in June, since when he had been subject to extreme melancholy at times, and it was at one of these periods that he made the attempt on his life that resulted fatally.

His brother, Charles George Moller, of 57 East Fifty-fifth Street, New York City, who had been in London on business which is believed to have been with the British War Office, gave THE NEW YORK TIMES correspondent the following details at the time:

"My brother," he said, "intended returning to New York to-morrow with me on board the Amerika. He had been in bad health and extremely despondent since his daughter's death, as she was his constant companion. He passed a part of the Summer in the country, and came to London a few weeks ago, hoping for improvement in health. It was then noticed at intervals he seemed out of his mind. I induced him to consider sailing."

Dr. Holmes, a throat specialist, summoned by the hotel management, told THE NEW YORK TIMES correspondent at the time that he believed Mr. Moller would recover.

Times Building

In selecting the right location for a business office it is necessary to take careful account of at least two fundamentals—its accessibility and its adaptation for the particular kind of business to be done.

The Times Building is accessible from every direction, from all sections of the city, and from all stations where the great trade lines discharge their human freights. Its rooms are adapted to any kind of office business, because they are lighted from the outside, and perfectly ventilated—thoroughly heated.

The great special advantage given its tenants by The Times Building is its prestige. It gives every tenant what amounts to a valuable trademark. It would take many years and much money to establish an independent trademark as valuable as that presented to each tenant of The Times Building, whose name on a business letterhead is a very valuable asset.

VOTE TO GET STOCK OFF EXCHANGE LIST

DON'T WANT STOCK MARKET

Rules All Right, Says Mr. Spreckels, but His Company Can't Give Trade Secrets to Competitors.

Stockholders of the Federal Sugar Refining Company voted at the annual meeting yesterday to withdraw the common and preferred stocks from the official trading list of the Stock Exchange. The decision was the first of the sort in the history of the board, except for the somewhat analogous but not comparative case of the Goldfields Consolidated Mines Company, whose shares were stricken from the list last June because the officers refused to comply with rules of the Stock Exchange, their object being, it was believed, to get the stock to the Curb, where a more speculative market could be found. The difference in the case of the Federal Sugar Company is that its shareholders voted almost unanimously to withdraw their shares for the apparent reason that they did not care about having any public market for them.

The Governors will consider the matter at their regular meeting next week, and it was intimated yesterday that the Federal shares would not be allowed to go so quietly as would seem possible from the action of the stockholders. Owing to the fact that the Federal Company had not complied with the rules of the Exchange in furnishing annual statements of income, it was made known recently that the shares would probably be stricken from the list by the Governors.

Claus A. Spreckels, President of the company and the largest individual stockholder, said after the meeting of his company yesterday that more than 80 per cent. of the shareholders and voted to remove the stocks. The reason reports had not been made in the last two years, he said, was that the company did not desire to give valuable information to competitors.

"The stockholders are unanimous," said he, "in desiring to withdraw the stock of this company from the Exchange, at the same time we think that the rules of the Stock Exchange on this subject are entirely proper. We also think that the step which has been taken by the company is proper, inasmuch as the detailed reports which the Stock Exchange asks us to make would divulge to our competitors the workings of our refinery, which is the largest single sugar refinery in the world. We do not care to make public and thus give to our competitors the benefit of the details of our manufacturing costs, purchases, sales, &c.

"We would add that there has been no sales of either the common or preferred stock on the Exchange for more than a year, and during the last four years transactions on the Exchange have been less than one hundred shares of each kind a year. At the meeting resolutions were adopted without dissent.

Whereas, The detailed reports required of this company by the rules of the New York Stock Exchange would divulge to our competitors more information concerning our business than is desirable, it is resolved that the Board of Directors of the New York Stock Exchange be and it hereby is requested to withdraw the listing of the stocks of this company on such Exchange.

The rule of the Stock Exchange which was not obeyed by the Federal Company requires that a statement of condition, income account, and balance sheet must be made public at least once a year. The last full report issued covered the seventeen months ended with July 31, 1911, and showed net earnings for the period amounting to $885,-110, of which $501,905 was carried to the surplus account after dividends had been paid. There is outstanding $6,677,200 of common stock and $3,322,800 of 6 per cent. cumulative preferred stock.

CLERK'S ERROR CAUSES SUIT

Insurance Company Seeks to Avoid Paying Wrong Rate on Policy.

A novel point at law was brought forward yesterday before Supreme Court Justice Brady when the New York Life Insurance Company, through its counsel, James H. McIntosh, asked for an order restraining Alfred Wilbur Young from compelling it to stand by the letter of an insurance policy in which a clerical error had been made when it was issued fifteen years ago.

According to the insurance company Young took out a fifteen-year policy, in which a clerk, through error, had inserted a twenty-year valuation. When the policy matured in May Young demanded $3,300, under the twenty-year valuation, but the company declined to pay any sum except the fifteen-year valuation, or $2,900. The company asked that the policy be "reformed," because of the clerical mistake, as the payment of $3,300 on a fifteen-year policy of the nature of the contested paper would be in violation of the State Insurance law.

Young, on the other hand, pointed out that the policy contained the statement in red ink that it was "incontestible" after the payment of one year's premiums. For fifteen years, he said, he had fulfilled his part of the insurance contract and this the insurance company does not deny.

Justice Brady asked both sides to submit briefs.

Brooklyn Stations Traded—Compliments Retiring Patrolman.

Police Commissioner Waldo transferred two Captains yesterday, and demoted a first grade detective to the rank of patrolman. The Captains are James H. Post and Bernard J. Hayes, both attached to Brooklyn precincts. Capt. Post, who has been in command of the Bergen Street Station, has been sent to the Flushing Avenue precinct. Capt. Post figured in the trial of Capt. Dulfer's son, who was arrested on a charge of grand larceny. Capt. Hayes, who leaves the Flushing Avenue Station to assume command of the Bergen Street Station, returns to his old precinct.

Joseph Digilio, formerly a first grade detective attached to the Mulberry Street Station, was demoted to the rank of patrolman, and sent to the Charles Street Station. Digilio has been in charge of the detectives in the Mulberry Street Station for a long period, and the transfer follows the bomb explosion a week ago at 147 Elizabeth Street. Charles S. Carroa, first grade acting detective-sergeant, takes Digilio's place, leaving the Fifth Street Station.

Patrolman Jeremiah Kennedy of 2 Grand Street, attached to the Health Squad, tendered his resignation yesterday after thirty-five years of service. In accepting his resignation and placing him on the pension roll at $700 per annum, Commissioner Waldo complimented Patrolman Kennedy for his good record. During his service the patrolman has had only one complaint brought against him, that a trivial one, twenty-seven years ago, being "absent from roll call."

CONSULAR TRADE NOTES.

Recent developments in the coal situation in the Philippines, including a shortage in the supply of fuel for the archipelago during the past few months and the increasing use of fuel in the islands for industrial purposes in which fuel costs are of prime importance, have led to the organization of an association of large coal consumers in Manila which is likely to be of great importance in industrial matters in the Far East.

The exports of glassware from Coburg, Germany, to the United States in 1912 for the first time exceeded those of 1907, the shipments for the intervenings years ranging from $142,400 to $148,500.

In face of sharp competition with other countries, and competition with many popular varieties of gloves other than ladies' kid that have come into the market, the glove manufacturing industry of Grenoble, France, continued fairly prosperous in 1912, as is shown by the increase in exports to the United States.

DOXOLOGY IN MANY TONGUES

Foreign Converts Unite in Anthem at Final Tent Rally.

A rally to close the ninth tent, open air, and shop campaign, conducted in the Summer by the Evangelistic Committee of this city, was held last night in Carnegie Hall. Three thousand persons attended the meeting, and many of them were converts. They were grouped in the big auditorium under banners designating their nationalities.

There were delegations representing Italy, China, Rumania, Bohemia, Sweden, Poland, Germany, Spain, and France. After testimonials from workers and converts had been heard, the meeting closed, each delegation singing in its native tongue: "Praise God, from Whom All Blessings Flow."

The rally was opened by Stephen Baker, President of the Bank of the Manhattan Company, who is Chairman of the Evangelistic Committee. The Rev. Dr. Arthur J. Smith, Superintendent of the campaign, said that all the workers had reported that New Yorkers seemed to be "hungry for the Gospel."

Dr. Smith asserted that the work in the Summer had been very gratifying. Some 570,000 persons had attended the meetings, or 250,000 more than had attended those held in 1912. The expense of the campaign was $2,000 less than for the campaign of the year before. As evidence of the results obtained by the tent, open air, and shop campaign, Dr. Smith held up in view of the audience a long knife with a gleaming blade. He explained that a young Italian had given up the knife after accepting the Gospel.

"I have no further use for this knife. I have given my heart to God," the convert said.

According to Dr. Smith there were 10 tent centres, 36 centres for shop meetings, and 95 open air centres. He announced that as a result of the Summer campaign a men's daily noon Bible class would be organized among the bankers, business men, and messenger boys of Wall Street. A start, he said, had been made to form a league of 5,000 laymen to carry on personal evangelistic work throughout the year.

FRANCE'S NEW MOTOR GUNS

Interest Observers at Manoeuvres—Troops' Endurance Remarkable.

MONTAUBAN, Sept. 15.—The French gunners' method of handling in action heavy artillery drawn by motor power was the chief point of interest to-day for foreign observers of the grand manoeuvres of the French army.

The wheels of the motors are broad, with their outside tires composed of jointed steel. It has been found that the guns can be taken by this means across freshly ploughed fields, and over ditches and minor obstructions.

When the heavy ordnance came into action to-day, the motor tires were uncoupled and spread out behind the cannon, forming rails on which the pieces recoiled after firing, without sinking into the soil.

Over 100,000 men and a large fleet of aeroplanes are operating in two armies opposed to each other over a wide range of country stretching from Montauban to Agen on the north, and from Auch to Toulouse on the south. The Northern, or Blue, army, is commanded by Gen. Paul Pau, and the Southern, or Red army, by Gen. Nicholas Chomer.

Col. Samuel W. Miller of the United States army arrived from Breslau to-day. He had been present at the German army manoeuvres. His visit to Europe was made in order to study the French, German, Swiss, and British musketry schools.

Col. Miller is full of admiration for the endurance and marching powers of the French soldiers. Only sixty-seven men fell out of the ranks to be cared for by the ambulances out of the 60,000 men composing the Southern army during three days of hard field work.

YEGGMEN USE MOTOR CAR.

Rob Long Island Station and Post Office—Get $300 Harvest.

Special to The New York Times.

BELLPORT, L. I., Sept. 15.—Speeding through the countryside in a high-powered gray touring car, a group of yeggmen early this morning visited Center Moriches and Bellport, blowing open a safe in each town and escaping with about $300 as the reward of their night's labor. The first place visited was the Long Island Railroad Station at Center Moriches, where a rear window was forced and the safe in the agent's office drilled and blown open with nitro-glycerine. The robbers got $150 and escaped without being overheard.

At Bellport the yeggmen visited the Post Office, where they jimmied the front door and blew open the safe in an inner office. They found about the same amount of money on hand as they had obtained earlier. The two burglaries were discovered at daybreak. The imprint of automobile tires was found in front of both of the rifled buildings, and the gray car was seen speeding along a road to Bellport from Center Moriches about 1 A. M.

22.48 KNOTS FOR RIVADAVIA.

Speed Trials of Argentine Battleship Not Yet Finished.

ROCKLAND, Me., Sept. 15.—The speed trials of the battleship Rivadavia, built at Quincy, Mass., as a super-dreadnought acquisition to the Argentine navy, were continued to-day, when the great war craft, said to be the largest afloat, went out on the Government's measured mile course late this forenoon to complete her runs at high speed, according to official announcement, but there was no apparent attempt to put her through her best paces. After a few leisurely turns up and down the coast she was brought back to the outer harbor.

While no official time has been made public, unofficial figures give the Rivadavia's best performance yesterday at the rate of 22.48 knots an hour for one run over the measured mile course. In order to fill her contract speed requirements she must maintain an average of 22.50 knots for 8 hours.

Her Woman Guest a Suicide.

RIDGEFIELD PARK, N. J., Sept. 15.—Miss Clara Davis, 35 years old, of 171 North Seventeenth Street, committed suicide to-day while visiting at the home of Mrs. J. A. Simpson of this town. The body was found when Mrs. Simpson went to summon her guest to breakfast, and detected a strong odor of gas coming from the room.

Senator Culberson Recovering.

CROMWELL, Conn., Sept. 15.—United States Senator Charles A. Culberson of Texas, who has been at a sanitarium here for some weeks because of ill-health brought on by overwork, is reported to-day as making rapid recovery, and plans to go to Washington in a few weeks to resume his duties in the Senate.

Sailor, Missing Heir, to Get $50,000

DULUTH, Minn., Sept. 15.—Charles Rowe, a sailor who has been sought as a missing heir during many of the thirty years he has worked on Great Lakes freighters, learned to-day that a fortune of $50,000 awaits him in London, Ontario. The money was left him by a relative, John Rispin, at one time a sailor.

Killed in Flight as Wife Watches.

GALESBURG, Ill., Sept. 15.—Max Lilis, an aviator, was killed to-day at a fair held here. Lilis's biplane was overturned by a gust of wind when several hundred feet in the air and he was hurled to the ground with the machine after him. He died within a few seconds. Several thousand persons witnessed the accident, among them his wife, who fainted at the sight.

THE AUTO SALON TO OPEN ON JAN. 2

Exhibition Will Be Held in the Hotel Astor—News of the Road.

The date for the 1914 Automobile Salon, as the annual exhibition of foreign-built motor cars in New York is called, has been fixed for Jan. 2 to 10, and, as has been the case for several years, it will be held in the large ballroom of the Hotel Astor. This announcement followed a meeting several days ago of the Importers' Automobile Salon, at which the following officers were elected for the coming year:

E. Lascaris, President; T. Adams, Vice President; F. Sewell, Treasurer, and Stefan Kjeldsen, Secretary.

Mr. Kjeldsen, who has managed the salons for several years, will again serve in this capacity. An incident of the meeting was the presentation of a beautifully engraved gold watch to Mr. Kjeldsen in appreciation of his able work as manager. This Winter the exhibition will be simultaneous with the big show of American automobiles at Grand Central Palace, the date of which is Jan. 4 to 10. In previous years the date of the latter has been nearly a week later, so that the Automobile Salon not only opened the show season in this country, but held the stage alone for the major part of its run.

⁂

About 250 motor tradesmen are to spend the day to-day at Fred J. Wagner's farm at Smithtown, L. I., taking part in the outing of the Big Village Motor Boosters and the Manhattan Automobile Club combined. The start is scheduled from the club at 7 o'clock. Among those who are taking part in the outing is Mitchel May, Secretary of State, who has signed a one-day contract with R. H. Johnston's white socks baseball team.

⁂

Now that the Summer is nearly over, word comes from the Adirondacks that the important State road from Lake George to Schroon Lake is at last open. A special road car from the touring department of the Automobile Club of America has been out over the entire distance, and can vouch for the remarkably fine conditions now prevailing.

The car, a sixteen horse power landaulet, made a record trip from Saranac Lake to Albany last Wednesday, covering the distance of 200 miles in ten hours. Considering the lay of the land in this section, where level spaces are unknown, this was indeed an enviable automobile performance.

The itinerary recommended is from Saranac by way of Lake Placid, the Cascade Lakes, Keene, Elizabethtown, Westport, Port Henry, Ticonderoga, Paradox, Schroon Lake, and Chestertown. Some rough sand from Cascade Lakes on the road to Keene will be encountered, but good dirt roads characterize the run on to Westport. Turning south at Westport the run to Ticonderoga is quite rough but through good scenery, with every now and then two-mile stretches of splendid, smooth traveling. To Schroon Lake from Fort Ti the route is over narrow, sandy roads, but plenty of excellent turn-outs save the day, while the grades are not to be dreaded. Schroon Lake makes an excellent lunching place. From there to Lake George is the new State road so long awaited. A short stretch—from Warrensburg to Lake George—is concrete, but cracks have already appeared, and patching up with tar and screenings is being resorted to. From Lake George to Albany the way may be made over good State roads by passing through Luzerne, Saratoga, and Waterford.

⁂

In the vicinity of Ossining, on the popular Albany Post Road route, on the east side of the Hudson River, the road is closed. The detour around the construction work which has been signposted is rather narrow in places. Sharp turns are also necessary on this detour. Motorists who wish to make points on the Hudson River north of Peekskill will find it to their advantage to turn right at the Soldiers' Monument in Ossining and go straight on past the high school, thence by way of Kitchawan to Yorktown Heights. From Yorktown Heights turn west in State road to Peekskill. Here the Albany trunk route will again be encountered. This alternate is possibly two or three miles longer than using the Ossining detour, but road conditions will be found more satisfactory, inasmuch as it is practically all over good State roads.

⁂

Automobilists from New Jersey to points on Long Island Sound have become accustomed to using a road which runs from the Tarrytown-Nyack Ferry by way of Elmsford and White Plains to some point on the shore of the Sound. This has become rough, particularly so between Elmsford and White Plains. Motorists bound for points in Connecticut via Danbury, instead of using the roads by way of White Plains, Armonk, and Bedford to Danbury, will find much more satisfactory conditions by way of Tarrytown; thence over the Bedford Road through Newcastle Corners to Bedford. A somewhat longer alternate route to Danbury embraces a run through a beautiful section of Westchester County. This includes views of the New York City reservoir section. From New York the Albany Post Road route is followed through Tarrytown, thence by way of Pocantico Hills, Briarcliff, Millwood, Amawalk, Lake Mahopac, to Carmel, from which point turn east and go by way of Brewster and Mill Plain to Danbury.

HOOD SEES NEW LIGHT.

Didn't at the Time Think Miss Hoyt's Visits Compromising.

When the divorce suit of Mrs. Frances Sparks Hood of Plainfield, N. J., against Richard Haden Hood, a retired contracting engineer, was resumed yesterday in Newark before Vice Chancellor Stevens, the cross-examination of the defendant was continued by Robert H. McCarter.

Mrs. Hood had told how her husband used to write letters on the arm of a chair while she sat sewing in the same room. On one occasion, in June, 1912, Mrs. Hood said that her husband had been writing a letter, and suddenly requested her to go into the library and get him Shakespeare's "Henry IV." The witness said that she later found scraps of paper in her husband's waste basket, and, putting them together, found the name "Collette." Remembering that her husband had asked her to get the Shakespearean play, she looked in the same volume to see if she could find the name of "Collette."

In reply to Mr. McCarter, Hood said he only wanted to look up the sentence, "Was woman ever so wooed; was woman ever so won?"

While the witness was being cross-examined about his trip to England, when Miss Dorothy Hoyt, the correspondent in the case, was a fellow-passenger on the same steamship, Vice Chancellor Stevens interrupted and asked Hood if he did not think it was compromising for him to have an unmarried woman come to his stateroom late at night. Hood's reply was that he "didn't think so at that time, but now saw the incident in another light."

The Vice Chancellor set Oct. 1 as the day for final argument.

The Best on Record Except the Week Ended June 28.

Mortality statistics issued yesterday by Ernst J. Lederle, Commissioner of Health, showed a death rate for the week ended Sept. 13 of 11.50, the lowest death rate that the city has ever experienced with the exception of the week ended June 28, when the death rate fell to 11.49. The death rate for the corresponding week of last year was 12.62. The total number of deaths for the week ended Sept. 13 was 1,184. The total number for the corresponding week of 1912 was 1,251.

The death rate for the first thirty-seven weeks of 1913 is .26 lower than during the corresponding period of last year.

ST. PAUL SHOWS BIG GAINS.

31 Per Cent. in Tonnage Apart from Agricultural Products.

The annual report of the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul Railway Company for the fiscal year ended on June 30, issued yesterday, showed gross operating income of $94,083,054, an increase over the preceding year of $14,828,699. Operating expenses amounted to $62,883,967, an advance of $5,628,783, leaving net earnings of $31,200,087, a gain of $9,199,-915. After the payment of fixed charges, taxes, and rental of equipment and dividends there remained a balance of $2,452,122, as compared with a deficit of more than $5,000,000 in 1912.

Included in the statement also were the earnings and expenses of the lines which formerly belonged to the Chicago, Milwaukee & Puget Sound Railway Company.

President Earling announced that the revenue from passenger traffic during the year was $18,457,135, which was 19.62 per cent. of the total revenue and 11.40 per cent. greater than in the preceding year. The number of tons of commodities other than agricultural products carried was 27,514,860, a gain of more than 31 per cent. The tonnage of farm products was 1,727,192 tons more than in 1912.

The company purchased 199 new locomotives and 6,927 cars and built thirty-five new steel bridges. The cost of maintenance of equipment was $13,871,-985 and of maintenance of way and structures $10,648,785.

The general balance sheet showed assets at the close of the year of $751,-497,726, of which $518,808,000 represented road and equipment. Cash in bank amounted to $17,361,249 and the total working assets were given as $192,895,-916.

The Tome School
WITH its endowment of over two and a half million dollars, it can limit its enrollment to boys of high character. It has a faculty of unusual strength and size. It has created an unique type of school life. It can give much individual attention through its special tutors. Its graduates take high honors in the leading colleges and technical schools. Each boy has his own room.
It has the most beautiful school buildings and grounds in America.
It has one hundred and seventy-five acres, on which are a nine-hole golf course, five athletic fields, swimming pool, quarter-mile cinder track, tennis courts and batting cage.
Its tuition of $700 would have to be fifty per cent. greater were it not for its endowment.
The LOWER SCHOOL FOR LITTLE BOYS offers all the advantages of the Upper Forms, with the special benefit of a separate dormitory and a separate organization.

IN THE BUSINESS WORLD

Should Finders Be Rewarded?

One of the department stores is against allowing its employes to receive rewards for returning articles lost by customers—or, at least, the management reserves the right to determine what is proper reward. Last week a valuable ring was found by one of the women employes and was turned in to the Lost and Found Bureau. Later a prominent jewelry firm advertised a reward of $100 for its return. The store at first refused to allow the employe to accept any reward, but finally compromised and allowed her to take $10. It is said to have taken considerable persuasion on the part of the owner of the ring to cause the management to depart from its policy of no reward in such cases.

One-Cent Alteration Sale.

During alterations to his store an up-State retailer, to compensate for the incidental dust, noise, and confusion, advertised: "At a certain hour during the coming week we shall sell slightly soiled shirts for 1 cent each." The announcement also told of the value of the shirts, from $1 to $1.50, but by avoiding any mention of the day or hour when they would be sold, the dealer succeeded in making his store a centre of attention up to the time of the one-cent sale.

⁂

New Conditions in Silk Duties.

A peculiar condition is presented by the latest change in the silk schedule of the new tariff, in that the more expensive grades may now be imported with relatively less duty than the cheaper kinds. The last change largely restored the silk schedule to a specific basis, a condition preferred by the trade, with the provision that no goods should be dutiable at less than 45 per cent. of their value nor at more than 55 per cent. Under this arrangement the importer will derive practically no benefit from the change on expensive silks, despite the peculiarity previously noted, while on cheaper goods some slight advantage may be gained. The relatively lower duty charged on the high-priced silks was attributed yesterday to the fact that these goods are ordinarily lighter than cheaper silks, because of the fineness of their construction and lack of adulterants, and to the other fact that 45 per cent. of their value is usually a heavier tax than that which would be produced by charging for them on the basis of weight. According to a well-known local customs broker, several kinds of silk heretofore kept out of the country by the excessive duty will be brought in under the maximum duty arrangement. This duty was put into the bill at the request of the trade as a guard against jokers.

Ready for New Basket Law.

Weights and measures officials in New Jersey are preparing for the enforcement of the standard basket law, which will go into effect in that State on Nov. 1. Under this law, all baskets must be of two, four, eight, sixteen, twenty, or thirty-two quart capacity, excepting in the sale of small fruits. Then baskets of pint and quart capacity are allowed. All of the basket manufacturers in New Jersey have already notified State Supt. of Measures Waldron of their intention to stop making baskets not conforming to these regulations. Regular examination of baskets used in commerce and prompt prosecutions for violations of the law are promised after it becomes effective.

GROWTH OF FOREIGN TRADE

Increase of $64,300,000 in First Seven Months of This Year.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 15.—According to the detailed figures concerning the imports and exports of the United States for the month of July and the seven months ended with July, 1913, given out to-day by the Department of Commerce, foreign trade continues to grow in a most satisfactory manner.

The aggregate trade in the seven months was $2,346,144,612, and showed an increase of more than $64,300,000 over the corresponding period of 1912. This total volume of foreign trade was divided into imports of $1,018,871,475, and exports of $1,327,273,137, showing a trade balance in our favor of $308,401,662.

The United Kingdom is still far in the lead as America's best customer, the sales to that nation in the seven months having exceeded $292,000,000, and purchases therefrom amounting to almost $155,500,000. Canada comes second, with purchases from us amounting to more than $247,500,000, and sales to us exceeding $67,600,000, an aggregate trade of over $315,000,000. Germany is third, with a total trade of more than $268,500,000, of which over $102,400,000 were sales to us and over $166,100,000 were purchases from us. France is fourth, with a total trade of $133,333,214, divided into $71,359,704 sales to us and $61,973,510 purchases from us. France, however, is closely pressed by Cuba, which comes next, with a total trade of $126,585,410, made up of $85,787,678 sales to us and $40,797,732 purchases from us.

Store's Seventeenth Birthday.

On the occasion of the seventeenth anniversary of the opening of the Greenhut-Siegel Cooper Store the members of that firm received yesterday numerous congratulatory messages. One of the most significant of these came from the Central Mercantile Association, the organization which includes in its membership the heads of most of the city's large department and dry goods stores. "The event is a memorable one," the association's letter read, "for it cannot be doubted that you have exercised a most potent influence in the direction of bettering conditions in the trade."

LATEST CUSTOMS RULINGS.

Ramie Hats, Japanese Mineral Water, and Cottons Fail of Reduction.

The Board of United States General Appraisers yesterday overruled a protest by the Reed Brothers Company on ramie hats, taxed under the Tariff act of 1909 at 60 per cent. ad valorem under paragraph 349, covering articles made from ramie braids. The importers asked lower duty on the ground that the hats were not made from braids, but from ramie material. Official samples were considered.

The board decided that Nigari, a Japanese product imported by the T. Kagawa Company, was properly assessed under the present tariff at 9 cents a gallon as mineral water. It was contended that the water was used to harden various vegetable preparations, and should have been admitted at 10 or 20 per cent. ad valorem, either as an unenumerated unmanufactured article or as a product of salt manufactured but not named in the law.

Protests on cotton fabrics, all thrown out, included claims that goods were not subject to additional duty through being mercerized, while others were that flax predominated in the fabrics. The importers included A. R. Stevens, Sears, Roebuck & Co., W. Stursberg, Schell & Co., John E. Hurst & Co., J. L. Freund & Co., and F. B. Vandegrift & Co.

BUSINESS NOTES.

An indication of an uptown movement in the furniture trade was the opening yesterday of additional show rooms at 470 Fourth Avenue by the H. Herrmann Furniture Company. The firm will continue its present salesrooms at 258 Canal Street until Jan. 1.

Julius Schloss, who has spent the past year studying American department stores in the interest of the Tietz chain of stores throughout Germany and Belgium, will leave for Germany Saturday on the Imperator. He will be accompanied by Felix Meyer of Blanck & Co.

It is expected that a large delegation from this city will go to the annual meeting of the National Wholesale Druggists' Association, which will be held at Jacksonville, Fla., from Nov. 17 to 21. William G. Cook of 114 William Street is Chairman of the Committee on Rates and Routes.

Another building, 100 by 130 feet and three stories high, has been built at Battle Creek, Mich., by the Battle Creek Paper Company. This is the second addition built within the last eighteen months. The plant, with about four acres of floor space, is devoted largely to the manufacture of cartons, booklets, fibre shipping cases, and printing for the Postum Cereal Company.

The total sale of Sumatra tobacco at the inscriptions held in Amsterdam from January to July aggregated 208,267 packages, at an average price of 67 cents a kilo, against 207,882 packages, at 69 cents, last year.

SIDELIGHTS ON SELLING.

Among the best products in the veiling lines for Fall are the bordered and dotted varieties. Those with novelty meshes, craquele, and the like, are especially favored.

Japanese designs in the light weights of all-overs are strong features in the lace and embroidery market this Fall.

An apron skirt, the upper part of which is shaped exactly like an apron and edged with a scant four-inch flounce of velvet cut on the bias, is a noteworthy feature of a gown of raspberry chiffon velvet. The corsage is simply cut, though rather elaborately embroidered with colored silk floss. The guimpe and sleeves are of fine dotted cream lace.

Single studs, to accompany the stiff-bosom shirt, will be much in vogue this season. A white or black pearl mounted in platinum has the preference, with cuff links in corresponding style.

FINANCIAL MARKETS

Stocks React in Active Trading—Firmer Money a Factor—The Gold Outlook.

The stock market had to stand yesterday the test of a good deal of selling induced by last week's rise in prices, and it did so without yielding more than a small fraction of the gains which it had previously made. Considerable selling was done for foreign account, the disposition of Europe being apparently to profit by the present level of prices here to lessen its commitments in our stocks. Looking merely at the surface record of prices the reaction which occurred assumed no other aspect than a normal setback after a sharp advance. It may well be, however, that under the surface there was at work a realization of the fact that last week's expansion in Stock Exchange activities had already put the money market under demands which found reflection in a general, although moderate, rise in rates yesterday. The renewal rate for call money was 3 per cent., compared with 2¾ per cent. at the close of last week, and time rates also advanced.

The belief which has lately been formed in banking circles that the money stringency which earlier in the year had been feared for this Fall will be avoided has been based at least in part upon the assumption that the money market would not be called upon to finance any extensive speculative operations in the stock market or elsewhere. Improvement in the money outlook was almost certain to find reflection in the stock market, but it has been realized by many observers of the situation that unless this interaction between the money markets and the securities markets was nicely adjusted there was danger of an undesired tightening of interest rates. Some let-up, therefore, in the pace at which the stock market was advancing last week was welcome to those in the financial district outside of the circle immediately interested in the operations on the Stock Exchange. At the same time it was recognized that the money market would not be affected so much by the mere advance in prices as by an increase in the volume of stocks carried in speculative accounts. It may well be that there has been no such increase commensurate with the rise which has taken place in the market as a whole, and more particularly in a few of the leading issues. The market had no fresh information regarding a possible Union Pacific distribution on which to base further operations in that stock, and it suffered a substantial reaction on profit-taking sales. The matter of a distribution has not yet been considered by the board, although it is expected to be in the relatively near future. The leadership which Reading had assumed on Saturday was not disputed yesterday. Reading reacted with with the rest of the market in the after- the rest of the market in the afternoon than did any of the other active issues. The idea of a special distribution which was so potent in advancing Union Pacific underlies the attention which in turn has been paid to Reading. In the eyes of many traders the Government suit against that company is merely a prelude to the long-talked-of segregation of the Reading companies.

Although discount rates at London showed a tendency toward greater firmness, and although Europe was a seller of stocks here, exchange rates declined. Demand sterling was offered for to-day as low as 4.8550. The supply of bills thus outweighed several factors which normally would serve to advance exchange rates. These are not now so much above the gold point as to preclude interest on the part of our bankers in the possibility of a movement in this direction. Yesterday Berlin obtained the bulk of the new gold arriving in London. The German market may be expected, moreover, to appear as a bidder during the balance of this month, or until its preparation for the quarterly settlements at the end of September have been completed. Thereafter, it seems not improbable, we may have an opportunity to obtain a share of the new gold arriving from South Africa. This supply is likely to be fairly liberal, as is suggested by the fact that the largest single consignment ever made from South Africa is now on its way to London. By the early part of October cotton bills, which have already appeared in sufficient quantity to be a factor in the exchange market, will be coming forward in larger quantities, and will to that extent be increasing our opportunity to draw gold from London. With so many of the New York banks now running under their reserves, and with the surplus for all institutions standing at a small figure, the chance of gold imports will be more welcome than it would have been some weeks ago, when it seemed likely that the proposed Treasury deposits would do away with any real need of New York's obtaining gold abroad. These deposits may yet in fact prove sufficient to meet the requirements of the situation, but that is not now wholly clear.

According to advices received in the financial district, there had been deposited up to the end of last week, under the Treasury's circular of Aug. 18, a total of about $8,000,000. While the banks in the South had been obtaining this money from the Treasury, a few banks in other sections appear to have been surrendering their Federal deposits. This seems to have been one of the factors which have served to lessen the benefit which the money market up to the present has derived from these special deposits of Treasury funds. It seems also to account in part for the selling orders which have carried Government 2 per cent. bonds under 98. They sold yesterday at 97¾. It is believed that some banks are being led to surrender their Government deposits because of the provision in the Currency bill that all Government deposits held by the national banks shall be turned over to the Federal reserve banks within one year after the establishment of those banks. The effect which that transfer of deposits might have upon the price of United States bonds is a substantial factor in the Government bond market.

FINANCIAL NOTES.

The Investment Bankers' Association has issued a pamphlet on taxation of securities. The Association has also issued a report dealing with the public utilities and railroad commission laws of the several states.

The American Public Utilities Company has announced that in connection with the payment of the company's dividends its transfer books were ordered closed on the 15th of the month instead of on the 20th of the month, owing to the large increase in the number of stockholders.

A pamphlet on Standard Oil securities, showing the yield on those stocks at current prices, has been issued by J. Hathaway Pope & Co.

TOPICS IN WALL STREET.

Sugar Stock Problem a New One.

The Governors of the Stock Exchange had an entirely new problem laid before them through the decision of Federal Sugar Refining Company stockholders to remove the common and preferred shares from the official list. There have been occasions when the Exchange itself ruled that certain issues should be taken off because of lack of obedience to established rules on the part of corporation officials, but never before has a company decided to strike its stocks off the list. Superficially, it would seem that the vote of so large a majority of shareholders as 82 per cent. would be conclusive without the Stock Exchange voicing any opinion, especially in the case of a company whose stock is very closely held, but the Exchange does not look at the matter in this light. The fact that a company's shares are in the hands of a few owners does not alter the status of the Exchange's relations to the securities traded in under its direction, the most important of which is that investors shall have as full information as possible.

⁂

Governors Not Satisfied.

If the Federal Sugar stock enjoyed a wide market the duty of the Governors, under the rules of the Exchange, would be clear enough. They would be compelled to do all within their power to protect the minority shareholders who had not voted to take the stocks off the board, even though it would be no more than to announce that efforts to obtain reports had been made and had failed, and that, in consequence, the stocks would have to be struck from the list. Here, again, the principal of the Exchange laws comes into play. The Governors have nothing to do with the distribution or concentration of a company's shares. The primary listing rule says that the Exchange must be notified yearly as to the progress of business and welfare of all companies whose shares are on the official roster, and the penalty for breaking this order is the removal of the shares. The Governors who talked of the Federal Sugar vote yesterday said that the question of formally striking off the stocks would be considered at the regular meeting next week. Until the Governing Board decides either to allow the shares to be withdrawn without further notice or to take them off they will continue in trading.

⁂

Large Arbitrage Business.

Yesterday's decline of stocks was assisted by extensive selling from London. The fractional differences of prices between the local and the British market permitted good profits during the greater part of the day, and, in consequence, Steel, Union Pacific, Amalgamated, and Reading were bought in substantial amounts in London and sold here. It was estimated that 15,000 shares of Steel were sold, while 10,000 shares of the other three stocks were distributed in equal amounts. In Southern Pacific buying for foreign account by far exceeded sales, the balance being estimated at about 5,000 shares, most of which were taken up in the early part of the day. Canadian Pacific, which is usually credited with receiving its chief impetus in either direction from London, apparently did not yesterday.

⁂

Regret Postponed Vacations.

Many brokers who allowed the hot, dull days of the Summer to pass by without taking their vacations, hoping that there would be ample opportunity in the Fall, are seriously questioning their judgment. Sessions of the market in which 400,000 or more shares change hands are not to be passed carelessly by without regard to the possibility of commissions that they hold out. While the present movement has not been accompanied by any really big days of business, in comparison with boom times, there has been, nevertheless, considerably more of an opportunity to make a living income in the last ten days than in any similar period of July or August. As a result the Street is hearing talk of postponed and abandoned holidays, voiced with regret but not with sorrow if the ticker happens to be clicking rapidly. It is not the same with the floor traders. Most of those who figure prominently in the day's work have been away and are back, hale and brown. Some of them returned with particular zest for their calling because they gauged the course of prices correctly from the perspective of Europe or the mountains and transacted a little profitable business by cable or telegraph.

⁂

Alaska Stock Makes Haste Slowly.

In the vigorous rise of stocks in the closing half of last week Alaska Gold Mines, the newest addition to the stock list, stood practically unchanged, nor did the sagging movement yesterday affect it. Trading began in this issue last Friday, and several thousand shares changed hands within a range extending from a fraction below to a fraction above 20. It was active on Saturday, but ended the session without gaining or losing anything, and the same result was obtained in yesterday's business. As a member of the mining group on the big board Alaska so far has stood isolated, being left far in the rear of the copper issues in price fluctuations.

BOURSES OF EUROPE

Canadians and Americans Are Active in London—Firmness in Berlin.

By Marconi Transatlantic Wireless Telegraph to The New York Times.

LONDON, Tuesday, Sept. 16.—The Times says in its City article to-day:

"The rates for day-to-day advances and weekly fixtures were unaltered yesterday. Discount quotations were firmer for all maturities.

"In the open market there was a keen demand for bar gold on German account.

"The stock markets as a whole presented an idle appearance at the opening, and the absence of business continued most of the day except in Canadian and American securities, which after some hesitation were very active in the afternoon. Although large business was reported in Canadian Pacific shares and in Union Pacific and other American securities, it is thought that so far the public have taken no hand in the movement.

"Consols advanced further. Foreign bonds maintained a firm front.

"Home railway stocks remained in a friendless condition and prices showed a general fall, the restless spirit which has shown itself for some time past among railway men in various parts of the country continuing to act as a deterrent to business."

PARIS, Sept. 15.—Prices were easy on the Bourse to-day.

Three per cent. rentes, 89f 47½c for the account.

BERLIN, Sept. 15.—Prices were firm and higher on the Boerse to-day, on the improved monetary outlook.

Canadian Pacific advanced 2½ points.

CONSOLIDATED EXCHANGE.

In the closing dealings on the Consolidated Stock Exchange Union Pacific sold lightly as low as 158¾, which compared with a low touched on the New York Stock Exchange of 158⅞. Southern Pacific got down to 93⅞, against 94 on the other board. The market ended with reactionary tendencies in control. It had reflected large profit taking throughout the day, although this selling appeared to be generally well absorbed in the earlier trading. Commission houses executed many buying orders coming from customers who had been waiting for some sort of a setback. Although the room trading element was disposed to work for a reaction, it displayed timidity about engaging aggressively in operations on the short side.

Breaking Traditions

The brutal expression "Business is business" has gone the way of all half truths. It is used to excuse a dominating purpose of unfair profits.

The investment business is an advisory one to its clients, open, frank, and in careful confidence.

We welcome your confidence if you are serious in your desire to improve your standing, and if you in turn appreciate that we are extending gratis the value of years of training and experience.

CHICAGO, Sept. 15.—Acting on the petition of creditors, Federal Judge Carpenter appointed to-day Fred A. Busse and T. J. O'Gara receivers for the Middle States Coal Company, the Vivian Collieries Company, and the Imperial Mining Company, an Illinois corporation with mines at Harrisburg, Ill., whose liabilities are said to aggregate $1,000,000. All the corporations are said to be inter-related.

COMMODITIES MARKETS

Wheat sagged in yesterday's market under light trading. Corn and oats also lost ground, the former declining ⅜ to ½c. after an early advance. Cotton passed through a stage of strength in the morning, but ended the session with only small, irregular net changes. Provisions were heavy and cotton oil was weak.

WHEAT.

Only a limited range of prices appeared in the wheat market yesterday, with the general trend downward, although for a time during the forenoon business was done at prices ranging from ⅛c to ⅜c above the close of Saturday. Much of the foreign news was bearish, as was also the movement at Spring wheat points, the three big Northwest markets getting 3,307 cars over Sunday, compared with the total of 2,880 cars on the corresponding day last year. The grading of Canadian wheat was particularly fine and weather conditions gave promise of a continued liberal movement at that point. The visible supply reflected the recent enlarged movement by increasing 1,431,000 bushels for the week.

Of foreign markets, Liverpool, with ¼d net decline, was weakest, Berlin closing ⅛c higher, Budapest ⅜c higher, and Antwerp ⅜c higher. Spring wheat markets were easier, but Winter wheat points were sustained by lighter receipts and increased feeding.

The local market for cash wheat was steady, with No. 2 red quoted at 96c, elevator, and 97½c, free on board, afloat; No. 1 Northern Duluth, 98½c, free on board, afloat. The futures market developed its weakest tone in the late afternoon on disappointing export business and closed ⅛c to ¼c net lower.

COTTON.

Reports that the heavy rains of the past three or four days, combined with high winds in some localities, had damaged the cotton crop to a considerable extent in the Eastern belt, as well as in the Southwest, were reflected in quite a sharp advance during yesterday's early trading in the cotton market. Cables were no better than due on the New York close of Saturday, but the market here opened firm at an advance of 6 to 15 points, and sold 15 to 16 points net higher during the middle of the day. This advance carried December contracts up to 13.17c, or about $2.50 per bale above the low level of last Friday. Buying seemed to slacken around this figure, while offerings increased, and the market later was unsettled, with prices easing off under realizing and Southern offerings. The close was steady, with last prices net 2 points higher to 2 points lower.

Perhaps the most general feeling in the cotton market just at the present time is that the crop will fall short of requirements. This state of affairs in itself causes more or less hesitation and nervousness, which is increased by indifference of opinion concerning the crop and requirements.

Southern spot markets yesterday were unchanged to ⅛c higher. Liverpool was a considerable seller here during the morning.

COTTONSEED OIL.

Near positions had a sharp break in the afternoon under liquidation and stop-loss selling as a result of lower crude offerings. Later months were only slightly affected, although refiners were quite liberal sellers of March. The South was not offering crude for late deliveries with any freedom. Tenders of 600 barrels were reported during the day.

The range of contract prices in the local market was as follows:

CORN.

After opening a trifle lower, the corn market sold up about ⅛c to ¼c over the final figures of Saturday, and then gradually worked off under profit taking, closing ⅜c to ½c net lower. Weather conditions continued favorable over the belt, but there is still some apprehension over the possibility of frost, which checks aggressive selling on the weak spots.

World's shipments amounted to 6,698,000 bushels, or 1,000,000 bushels under last week, and the Buenos Aires market opened ⅛c to ⅜c higher, although Liverpool was quiet and net unchanged. Export corn in the local market closed 82½c, free on board, afloat.

OATS.

The market for oats was generally steady, with only slight changes throughout the day, and final prices were ⅛c net lower. There was an increase of 1,094,000 bushels in the visible supply, the total of which was over four times as large as last year.

In the local market standard white oats were quoted at 49@49½c; No. 2 white, 49½@50c; No. 3 white, 48@48½c; No. 4 white, 47½@48c; ordinary clipped white, 47½@49c; fancy clipped white, 50@52½c, all elevator.

THE WEATHER.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 15.—The disturbance that was over Louisiana Sunday night has moved to Western Arkansas with diminished energy, and the rains, while continuing heavy in the South, have extended into the Ohio and Middle Mississippi Valleys.

There will be rain Tuesday in the great Central Valleys and the South Atlantic States, and rain Tuesday night or Wednesday in the lake region and the Middle Atlantic States. In the Northeast and extreme West the weather will be generally fair Tuesday and Wednesday, and on Wednesday in the South.

Temperature changes will not be decided.

Winds along the North Atlantic Coast will be moderate east to southeast; Middle Atlantic Coast, moderate east to southeast; South Atlantic Coast, moderate to brisk northeast and east, except moderate off the Florida coast.

THE REAL ESTATE FIELD

Chesterfield Apartment House on Riverside Drive Corner in $1,500,000 Deal—Greenwich Village Sale—Tenement Investments—Staten Island Purchase—Commercial Leasing Active.

In comparison with the opening day of the week for the last month or two, the realty market yesterday opened with evidences of genuine activity. The feature, and about the only transaction of importance, was the sale of a large west side apartment house, in which a trade of other properties was involved, the aggregate value of the realty in the deal being over $1,000,000.

The larger end of the transaction was the sale of the ten-story Chesterfield apartment house on the northeast corner of Riverside Drive and Ninety-eighth Street by the Barkin Construction Company, of which Samuel Barkin is President, to the Brown-Weiss Realties. The apartment covers a plot fronting 106 feet on Riverside Drive and 97 feet on Ninety-eighth Street. It was built a little over two years ago by the Barkin Construction Company, which acquired the plot from the Century Holding Company, and is fully rented. It adjoins the Clifden, owned by Philip Livingston, occupying the upper half of the block with the Ninety-ninth Street corner.

The deal was negotiated by Axelrad & Feinberg and Gerlach & Feldman. The Chesterfield figured in the trade at a valuation of about $750,000.

In part payment the Brown-Weiss Realties gave the following Manhattan and Bronx properties: 327 East 101st Street, a six-story tenement, on plot 28.6 by 100.11, between First and Second Avenues, held at $40,000; 1,390, 1,392 and 1,394 Franklin Avenue, three five-story new law houses, each on plot 37.6 by 100, figuring at $155,000, and 648, 650 and 652 Coster Street, in the Hunts Point section, three two-family houses, held at $15,000 each. In addition to the above properties, the buyers also gave forty-seven plots in Monmouth Park, at Atlantic Highlands, N. J., valued at $25,000.

Greenwich Village Sale.

The three-story dwelling at 64 Jane Street, one of the old-fashioned houses of Greenwich Village, has been sold by the Duross Company for Stephen Woolridge to a client for investment. The plot is 21.4 by 45.8, and irregular, between Hudson and Greenwich Streets.

Tenement Deals.

The two four-story tenements at 209 and 211 East 110th Street, near Third Avenue, containing a plot 50 by 101, have been sold by Mrs. Hannah E. Abell to Mrs. Maria Johanson of Brooklyn. Louis Schlesinger of Newark was the broker. The property was purchased through his firm by the seller early in the year.

The five-story tenement at 326 East 118th Street, on plot 25 by 100.11, between First and Second Avenues, has been sold by Sarah E. Cahill to an investor.

John Lucher has sold the five-story double tenement at 311 East Eighty-ninth Street, on lot 25 by 100, for Franz Lenz to J. Treiber.

Staten Island.

The Rev. Charles L. Zorbaugh has sold through Cornelius G. Kolff to the Manard Company four lots, comprising a plot 80 by 100 feet, on Fairmount Avenue, near Castleton Avenue, Harbor View, Brighton Heights. The purchaser will erect a house on the property.

New Jersey.

Louis Schlesinger has sold for Mrs. B. Hillman to a client of the Mutual Realty Company a residence on Oxford Street, East Orange, N. J. The consideration was about $10,000.

The Leonia Heights Land Company has sold at Leonia a house on a plot 50 by 125 feet on Leonia Avenue to Le Roy Gordon, and the home of Frank R. Farnham on Summit Avenue, to Howard McCormick, covering a plot 100 by 125 feet.

The Cross & Brown Company has leased the store, basement and first loft, comprising about 7,500 square feet, in the building at 256 West Fifty-fifth Street, to the Miller Tire Sales Company, to be used as an Eastern Distributing Station for the Miller Tire Manufacturing Company, of Akron, Ohio.

HENNESSY IS SUED BY MACK FOR LIBEL

Reply to Charge That Buffalonian Misapplied Dix Campaign Funds in 1910.

STAYS AWAY FROM HEARING

Hennessy Retaliates with Similar Charges Concerning 1911 and 1912 and Threatens Grand Jury Action.

ALBANY, Sept. 15.—Norman E. Mack of Buffalo, Democratic National Committeeman for New York State and an ex-Chairman of that organization, as well as of the Democratic State Committee, failed to appear to-day before John A. Hennessy, Gov. Sulzer's special investigator, to answer charges of having failed to account for moneys contributed to him in the Gubernatorial campaign of 1910. Instead Mr. Mack, through his secretary, James W. Reilly, served upon Mr. Hennessy a summons and complaint in a $5,000 action for libel. Mr. Reilly said that Mr. Hennessy would have twenty days to make his answer, and that the action would be tried in Buffalo.

Mr. Mack complains that Mr. Hennessy has caused to be published charges in effect that the plaintiff unlawfully appropriated to his own use moneys contributed by others as a campaign fund toward the election of John A. Dix as Governor of the State of New York, and said publication also charges in effect that the plaintiff blackmailed individuals and corporations in connection with the collection of campaign funds.

Following the publication of Mr. Hennessy's charges Mr. Mack announced his willingness to appear before the investigator at any time and place he might designate. Mr. Hennessy designated Albany at 10 o'clock this morning. After waiting half an hour, Mr. Hennessy announced that, as neither Mr. Mack nor Arthur A. McLean of Newburg, Treasurer of the Democratic State Committee, who had been subpoenaed, had appeared, the session stood adjourned.

Kenefick to Hennessy.

Mr. Hennessy hardly had left the hearing chamber when Mr. Reilly appeared, explaining that a delayed train had detained him. The service of the legal papers followed. With these Mr. Reilly delivered a letter from Mr. Mack's counsel, ex-Supreme Court Justice Daniel F. Kenefick, in part as follows:

> After an examination of your publications I advised Mr. Mack that they are libelous, and he has accepted your suggestion that he seek redress in the courts. The bearer of this letter will serve you with a summons and complain in an action for libel in the Supreme Court. If you will file your answer speedily we can assure you a prompt trial of the action.
>
> Under my instructions Mr. Mack will not appear before you, inasmuch as the law under which you exercise official powers confers no authority upon you whatever to conduct an examination of Mr. Mack and your newspaper proclamations on the subject indicate that you are hardly fitted to conduct a fair and orderly investigation into these matters if you had the authority.
>
> The personal villification contained in your publications requires that this matter be lifted from the low level of factional bitterness and that the disposition of the matter be intrusted to an impartial judicial tribunal.

Hennessy Amplifies Charges.

Mr. Hennessy issued a statement in which he asserted that he had personal knowledge that canal and highway contractors and others had been blackmailed out of large sums. The statement proceeds:

> I said that $150,000 had been collected through Mack that had never been reported. It is my belief now that the figure is nearer $300,000.
>
> Mr. Mack, instead of coming, sent his secretary to serve me with a libel suit. I will make a speedy answer. I predict the case will never come to trial. Mack could not be drawn into court even by his two bosom friends, Charley Murphy and Boss Fitzpatrick.
>
> I was ready to-day to ask him questions in relation to his operations in 1911 and 1912. I know the men who have been blackmailed, not only the barge canal men and the road contractors, but others. Of course, I am rather itching to make public the evidence which I have collected, and I would have made public much of it to-day in the questions which I would have asked of Mack.
>
> I do not regard it as wise now to make public what I have, because I trust that Gov. Sulzer will be able, when relieved of the impeachment resolution, to call an extraordinary session of the Grand Jury in Albany County, and there I will prove everything that I have said respecting Mack, Kelly of Syracuse, Fowler of Kingston, and McLean.

Concerning Mr. McLean, Treasurer of the Democratic State Committee, the statement says: "His case is for the first Grand Jury we can take it to."

Grave charges respecting the alleged misuse of campaign funds are included in Mr. Hennessy's statement, which is confined to alleged transactions of 1911 and 1912. According to Mr. Reilly, Mr. Mack had nothing to do with State campaign funds in 1910.

"Of course," said Mr. Reilly, "Mr. Mack seeks only nominal damages, his sole purpose being to elicit in full the facts."

McLean Explains His Absence.

NEWBURG, N. Y., Sept. 15.—Arthur A. McLean, Treasurer of the Democratic State Committee, to-night gave out a statement in which he explained his failure to obey a subpoena which ordered him to appear before John A. Hennessy with all records of the committee which had to do with the Democratic campaigns in this State for three years back. Mr. McLean says:

> I am not a State officer and I have been advised that it is not necessary for me to go to Albany. If Mr. Hennessy had authority to act for the Governor before his impeachment, he certainly has no authority now, as his commission as agent for the Governor lapsed automatically after the impeachment.

Mr. McLean adds that he "labored honestly, legally, and legitimately" to help elect Mr. Sulzer, and he regards it as "humiliating in view of this service" to be thus summoned by a "pretended agent of Mr. Sulzer and a former bitter Republican partisan," to tell of his and his associates' efforts on behalf of the party.

RACE FOR LIFE ON SPECIAL.

Mrs. Curran Rushed to Lower Altitude from Raquette Lake.

Special to The New York Times.

UTICA, N. Y., Sept. 15.—A race for life took place to-day on the Adirondack Division of the New York Central, when a special train bore Mrs. John Curran of Bretton Hall, Broadway and Eighty-sixth Street, New York City, to this city from the Curran Summer camp at Raquette Lake.

For several days Mrs. Curran, who is the wife of a wealthy coal man, had suffered from acute dilatation of the heart. Late this afternoon her condition became so alarming that Dr. H. J. Downey, the family physician, declared that only getting Mrs. Curran to a lower altitude could save her life.

Accordingly a special train was chartered. Mrs. Curran was taken across the lake in a motor boat and at 7:20 the special left Raquette Lake. A clear track was given to the train all the way and it reached Utica after a nerve-racking ride of 81 miles shortly before 10 o'clock.

Waiting automobiles and an ambulance took the sick woman and her party to the Faxton Hospital. Mrs. Curran began to breathe more easily as soon as the descent of the mountains began, and her physician said at midnight that she had a splendid chance for recovery.

With Mr. and Mrs. Curran and their daughter, Claire, were Dr. Alice Woodman, a professor in Boston University; A. F. Millen, a Texas ranch owner, and Russell Donnelly of the University of Pennsylvania.

MANN DENOUNCES GOMPERS

Labor Leader Reactionary, Englishman Tells I. W. W. Convention.

CHICAGO, Sept. 15.—Fifty delegates attended the opening of the annual convention of the Industrial Workers of the World here to-day and heard Tom Mann, the English labor leader, criticise Samuel Gompers, President of the American Federation of Labor.

"Gompers is a pure reactionary," said Mann, "and has got far away from a sympathetic understanding of the needs of the great army of borne-down, unskilled laborers. He virtually is at the head of the American 'Labor Trust.' Instead of welcoming into its membership all who need the benefits of organization, the 'Labor Trust' draws a sharp line, excluding the unskilled. If the claims of any movement for the ultimate emancipation of the workingmen are to be considered, all workers, skilled and unskilled, must be welcomed."

WM. H. HANEMANN DEAD.

Old Member of Cotton Exchange Stricken with Apoplexy.

William Henry Hanemann, 62 years old, one of the oldest members of the Cotton Exchange, died yesterday morning from apoplexy in the Hudson Street Hospital. He was stricken while standing in front of the Lord's Court Building.

Mr. Hanemann was a member of the firm of Mohr, Hanemann & Co., one of the oldest commission firms of the city. He succeeded his father, the late John T. Hanemann, as a member of that firm.

His activities during the last few years had been confined to office work. His office was in the Cotton Exchange Building at 60 Beaver Street.

Mr. Hanemann was a member of the German and New York Athletic Clubs. A widow and three sons survive.

CHARGES GRAFT IN CHICKENS

Peddler Says Arrest Followed Refusal to Increase Bribe.

After his conviction yesterday for selling live chickens without a Health Department permit, Antonio Esposito, a peddler, of 341 East 114th Street, told the Justices of the Court of Special Sessions that he was arrested because he refused to increase the amount of monthly payments he was making to Health Department Inspectors for protection.

"I have been paying $5 a week to the Inspectors," he told the court, "and they have never arrested me, although they knew I was selling without a permit. Then they demanded $10 a week, and when I refused to pay I was arrested."

Justice Russell ordered that the District Attorney should be informed of Esposito's accusation and remanded the prisoner until Friday.

NO INSIDE FIXED POSTS.

Justice Kelly Holds That Policeman Must Stand Outside Building.

Supreme Court Justice Kelly in Brooklyn ruled yesterday that a policeman detailed to a place under surveillance by the police could not maintain a fixed post inside the building. The case before the court was that of a hotel in the Brooklyn Bridge district, the license of which was revoked recently for a year. The new owner of the place complained that a policeman was stationed inside the building day and night.

"The police have a right to supervise the place," said the court, "but I cannot understand why a man should be kept inside the building all the time."

He directed that, while the policeman should keep a post outside the door, he might, from time to time, enter the building for inspection.

Leaves Her Estate to Charity.

Most of the estate of Mrs. Emmalissa Purvis, who died in Rockland, N. Y., on Aug. 22, was bequeathed in her will, which was filed yesterday in the Surrogates' Court, to religious and charitable organizations. The estate was estimated at $7,500. She left $1,000 to the Methodist Home for Deaconesses and $500 each to the Home for Superannuated Methodist Preachers of New York, the Ladies' Missionary Society of the Five Points Mission, the Freedman's Aid and Educational Society, the Women's Home Missionary Society of the Methodist Episcopal Church, the Women's Foreign Missionary Society of the same church, the St. Christopher Home for Poor Children, the Old People's Home of the Methodist Episcopal Church, and the Seney Hospital of Brooklyn.

HOTELS PUZZLED BY 'GOV. DETECTIVE'

Hires a Taxicab for 14 Hours of Sleuthing and Then Wrangles Over Bill for $70.

BARBERS FEAR A HOLD-UP

Sombrero-Wearing Stranger from Kansas or Perhaps New Jersey Is Man of Mystery.

Disdainning any incognito, and without disguise, Robert Bruce Gordon, who may hail from somewhere in Kansas, or may live in New Jersey, has been sleuthing in New York in these last few days in a fashion that must make Central Office men envious. Much of his detective work Mr. Gordon has done in a taxicab. One vehicle Mr. Gordon had under hire for fourteen hours. This came out when he offered to settle the fare at the Imperial about midnight Saturday.

First and latest traces of Mr. Gordon were reported from the Imperial, though investigation showed that his acquaintance had been made at the Waldorf at some time on Friday. As he wore a sombrero and a black mustache, apologists for the knights of the razor said that it was not unnatural that when Mr. Gordon appeared on the floor and shot his right hand back to his hip pocket, every man should stand stiffly at his chair and await the call, "Hands up!"

When it was found that this command did not come, somebody sent a hurry call by telephone for a hotel detective. When one entered the barber shop he found the occupants of the room huddled together watching the strange visitor. He was escorted to the street, even though he told the house officer that he himself was in the same line of business.

Mr. Gordon walked into the Imperial at 4 o'clock on Saturday morning, strode up to the desk, and selected a blank page. In a bold hand that scrawled over twice as much space as the ordinary visitor to New York uses to write his name, Mr. Gordon inscribed "R. B. Gordon, United States Government Detective." Underneath, he wrote, as an afterthought, "having to do with all violations."

The last two words he underscored. Then he looked at the night clerk. The latter eyed him and looked at the signature, and told him there was not a room to be had. The visitor seemed disappointed. He went out later.

At midnight that night he came back. In his wake was a taxicab driver, who was using strong language and demanding money. He said that Mr. Gordon had hired him and his vehicle fourteen hours before, and that the sum of $70 was now due him. The visitor offered to give him $25 and two checks to make up the balance, but the driver said he wanted all cash. His fare insisted that the checks were "legal tender," and added that he was a lawyer, and knew all about such things. The disputants were urged to move on to the nearest police station for an adjustment of the difficulty, and went out.

When Mr. Gordon appeared at the Imperial yesterday morning, he remarked to the room clerk that he had been registered at the place for several days, and would like to know whether a room had been found for him. When he was told that one was not to be had, he remarked that it was strange, and that he had found several other hotels filled during his stay.

Then he looked at the register and found that above his inscription of "Gov. Detective," somebody had written "nix," he carefully erased the commentary, and remarked that anybody who wrote such a thing about a Government officer rendered himself liable to heavy punishment. Then he called for his mail. He had letters from Bucklin, Kan., and others from a town in New Jersey.

HELD FOR WIFE MURDER.

Husband Wanted to Return to Europe, but Woman Refused.

Giulio Decapatani, who came to this country only six weeks ago from Italy, was arraigned yesterday in the Butler Street Court, Brooklyn, charged with the murder of his wife, Gasperina, in their rooms on the third floor of 353 Furman Street, that borough, yesterday morning. Dissatisfied with life here, Decapatani wanted to return to Italy, and he is said to have quarreled with his wife because she refused to go back to the old land.

The discovery of the murder was made by two sailors James Bridson of 3 State Street, Brooklyn, and Joseph Nazia of 210 Newell Street, Hoboken. They were passing the Furman Street house, and saw a woman hanging out of a window on the third floor, bleeding at the throat. Rushing upstairs, the sailors dragged the woman from the window and placed her on a couch. Her throat had been cut. In the kitchen they found Decapatani and seized him. Detective Charles Low, who was called, took Decapatani to the Amity Street Station. Mrs. Decapatani was dead when an ambulance surgeon from the Long Island College Hospital reached the house.

Decapatani has worked as a dishwasher in a little restaurant in Atlantic Avenue since he came here. The police say he admitted to them that he had pleaded with his wife to return to the old country, and that because she had refused they had quarreled frequently. When Decapatani was arraigned in the afternoon in the Butler Street Court, Magistrate Dodd held him for further examination.

40,000 GET TO WORK LATE.

Power House Mishap Ties Up Cars—Crush on Williamsburg Bridge.

Because of a broken flywheel in the power house at 7:34 A. M. the shuttle service over the Williamsburg Bridge during the morning rush hours was badly crippled yesterday. Between 12,000 and 15,000 persons, including many factory girls, fought and struggled to board the few cars running, and most of them were finally compelled to walk. On the bridge 142 cars were stalled, while the service of the Third Avenue line was at a standstill from the Post Office to Fourteenth Street, and the short lines on Clinton and Essex Streets running north, respectively, to Fourteenth and Eighth Streets were also affected.

Police reserves under Sergt. William Schilling were called out from the Bedford Avenue Station to cope with the crowds that filled the bridge plaza and battled to board the B. R. T. cars which were still in operation. Men fought about the two turnstiles, while women and girls pressed in the wooden inclosure leading to the cars screamed hysterically when they found themselves caught in the crush, unable to advance or back out.

The tie-up on the Third Avenue line grew so bad that there was hardly a car running south of Forty-second Street, those reaching Forty-second Street from uptown being at once switched back because of lack of power to run further downtown.

It was estimated that more than 40,000 persons were late in getting to work as the result of the tie-up.

WILSON OFF TO CAPITAL.

Plays Golf Before Leaving Cornish to Take the Train.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Sept. 15.—President Wilson arrived in this city from Cornish, N. H., on his return trip to the national capital at 9:15 to-night. His car Federal was attached to the Federal Express, which had been held for the Green Mountain train, and it left via Poughkeepsie without delay.

The President left Windsor at 2:55 P. M., and was accompanied as far as Williamstown by his daughter, Miss Jessie Wilson, and her fiancé, Francis B. Sayre.

Police Commander Who Told of Graft Left $1,510 in Claims Only.

Police Captain Thomas W. Walsh, who died on June 21, and whose confession to the District Attorney laid bare the police graft system in Harlem, with the result that four ex-Police Inspectors were sent to hte penitentiary, left on estate bound up in two causes of action totaling $1,510, according to a petition filed yesterday in the Surrogates' Court, in conjunction with his will by which he bequeathed all his property to his wife, Mrs. Nellie A. Walsh of 1,958 Madison Avenue.

The nature of these two suits, which constitute the ex-policeman's estate, was not disclosed in the petition, nor would the attorney for the estate, John C. Stein of 51 Chambers Street, throw any light on the subject. It is understood, however, that they arise through insurance policies, which ex-Capt. Walsh held in benevolent societies of the Police Department and payment on which was refused by the societies on technical grounds.
